300,000 RAILWAY WORKERS ORDERED OUT ON FEB. 17

Maintenance of Way Employes Will Wait No Longer for Higher Pay.

FEAR RETURN TO OWNERS

HINES'S REPLY DUE TODAY

Director General Expected to Yield to Demands Only to Partial Extent.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 9.—Orders directing 300,000 members of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers to suspend work at 7 A. M. Tuesday, Feb. 17, were sent out tonight to the various locals of the organization.

Decision to order the men out was announced by Allan E. Barker, Grand President of the organization, following a meeting today of the General Chairmen of the brotherhood. The strike can be averted only if the Federal Railroad Administration before Saturday grants wage increases demanded last Summer, Mr. Barker said tonight.

"The orders have gone out," he declared, "and we would require two or three days to cancel them."

The strike is to secure a uniform rate from coast to coast in addition to wage increases. It would affect storehouse employes, stationary firemen, stationary engineers, steel bridge workers, cinder pit men and oilers, as well as other members of the brotherhood.

Authorized to Negotiate.

A committee of ten representing the brotherhood left here tonight for Washington. The committee will remain in Washington until the time set for the strike. It has full authority to enter into negotiations with the Director General, Mr. Barker said. With the departure of the committee the conference of the General Chairmen here ended.

"The railroads are soon to be returned to private ownership," Mr. Barker said, "and we feel that this wage controversy, which is with the Federal Railroad Administration, should be adjusted before they are released. Our representatives have been in conference with the Director General for ten days. He has not promised anything, and we do not believe he is going to do so. We decided to issue the strike call before the Railroad Administration should have opportunity to pass the burden to the private owners of the lines.

"The public should know," Mr. Barker continued, "that this strike call is not something that has been decided upon precipitately, but dates back to last July. Wage demands were presented to the Railroad Administration at that time, and the brotherhood membership authorized a strike to enforce them. We held a strike in abeyance, however, upon President Wilson's request that he be permitted an opportunity to bring about a reduction in living costs. He asked for a 'reasonable time,' which he fixed at sixty or ninety days. We have waited six months, and there has been no reduction in the cost of living."

Asks 40 Per Cent. Increase.

The wage demands of the men average 40 per cent., Mr. Barker said, adding: "There are more than 100,000 of our members who receive less than $3 a day. More than 100,000 mechanics, consisting of carpenters, masons and painters, are receiving an average of 55 cents an hour, which is about one-half the wage received by the same class of labor in the building trades."

Earlier in the day Mr. Barker declared "no Federal injunction will stop us, and we will spend the last dollar the organization has to win the strike. Our funds may be tied up so that we cannot use them within forty-eight hours, but that won't break the strike.

"We have been told that the public, the press and railway officials will be with us, but whether they are or not, 'Maintenance of Way' will pay no more attention to Mr. Hines until our demands are met."

Hines' Reply to Workers Due Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—On the heels of the decision of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers, ordering its 300,000 members to strike on Feb. 17 for the increased wages demanded last Summer, Director General Hines will deliver tomorrow his reply to the demands of the 2,000,000 railroad workers whose representatives have been in conference here for several days.

That the situation is giving Government officials no little cause for worry is not denied. It is reported on excellent authority that Mr. Hines will not grant the heavy wage increases asked, but simply will make some readjustments and minor advances and ask again that the workers wait upon the Government's efforts to reduce living costs.

What the attitude of the mass of the workers will be in the event of such a decision by the Director General is admittedly problematical. Mr. Hines has carefully guarded the exact nature of the announcement he is preparing, and even the various branches of workers who have been told that their full demands cannot be met have not been

Berlin to Name Allied Culprits, But Won't Ask Extradition

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—Germany is preparing a list containing the names of Allied soldiers and high officials who are accused by the Berlin Government of violations of the laws of war, and plans to submit it as a counter proposal to the demand of the Allies for extradition of Germans who are alleged to be war criminals.

This list is in the course of compilation, and it is expected that it will be ready for publication and delivery soon. It will contain specific indictments, based upon alleged authenticated material, which is on file in the German archives. It was stated tonight, however, that Germany would not demand extradition of the men named in its indictment.

KILLS HER CHILD; FALTERS AT SUICIDE

New Orleans Woman Conceals Crime in Hotel Ashton for Two Days.

LAY BY DAUGHTER'S BODY

Mrs. E. M. Favre Is Prevented from Shooting Herself After Writing of Plan.

In her room in the Hotel Ashton last Friday night, Mrs. Emily May Favre, a young woman of New Orleans, wrote a letter stating that poverty had come to her and that she planned to kill her daughter, Margaret, 13 years old, and herself. At 11 o'clock Mrs. Favre stood in the swirling snow at the hotel corner, Madison Avenue and Ninety-third Street, and, dropping the missive into the snow-topped mail box, started it on its way to Hector Jackson, a friend, at 29 Broadway. She then went back to the bedside of her daughter, convalescent from influenza.

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning, as she later told the police, the mother leaned over Margaret's bed, placed a revolver over her daughter's heart and pulled the trigger. She had judged the position of the heart correctly. Then she placed the muzzle against her own forehead but her nerve failed, the revolver slipped from her trembling fingers to the floor. Three times she picked it up and tried again, but each time the weapon dropped to the floor.

Yesterday, the time of the fifth attempt, the gun was firmly at her temple and her hand had ceased to tremble. She was about to pull the trigger when a man burst into the room and tore the revolver from her hand.

Parted 13 Years Ago by Divorce.

Mrs. Favre, short, thin and pale, is an English girl, reared in a Canadian convent, but for fifteen years to 1912 was a resident of New Orleans. Her father, Samuel J. Sutherland, a Canadian lumberman, formed the firm of Innes & Sutherland, an export cooperage concern with branches in many cities. One of the branches was in the Louisiana city. Emily May Sutherland accompanied her father on a trip there. She met Simon Favre, also in the cooperage business. They were married, but a year later, at about the time Margaret Favre was born, were parted by divorce.

A flourishing business built up and maintained by her father kept Mrs. Favre from knowing what it was to want anything that money could buy. She lived in this style up to several years ago, when her father died. She inherited a one-third share in the Innes & Sutherland firm. A brother, Innes Sutherland, also inherited a part of the business and was connected with the Imperial Export Company until two years ago. According to Mrs. Favre's story, financial returns from her inherited interest were small, and finally, after constantly diminishing as the years went by, failed to yield her any income.

The woman finally decided, she said, to come to this city. She thought she could help put the business back as it used to be, and also that, failing in this, she could go on the stage or in the films. The world of the theatre, she reasoned, would be big enough for Margaret, too.

"Miss Fennati and Sister."

Carrying out her resolve, she arrived here on Oct. 7 last and registered at the Hotel Ashton under the name of "Miss Fennati and sister, New Orleans." This was the name she had chosen for the stage, and part of her plan was to have Margaret pass as her sister, she said. Leigh Walker, manager of the hotel, said he had heard the sisters, as everybody regarded them, planned a stage career, but that neither he nor others about the hotel had paid much attention to them—there was nothing about them to make them stand out from the other guests.

Recently, however, "Miss Fennati" began to fall behind in her payments, and on Friday the total she owed the hotel was $115. No effort was made to press her for payment, because she always had paid in the past, although she never had run up so large an amount. Margaret was just coming through a period of critical illness, and the worry of the mother had been weighted still further by the cares of nursing. Then, while the blizzard fringed the room's single window with snow and the wind whistled, she decided to quit the fight. The letter to Mr.

TROOPS KILL FIVE IN KENTUCKY MOB OUT TO GET NEGRO

Rioters Storm Lexington Court House While Slayer of Young Girl Is Being Convicted.

SEVENTEEN MORE WOUNDED

Soldiers Quell Riots, but 1,500 Armed Mountaineers Are Reported Marching on City.

SHOPS LOOTED FOR GUNS

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 9.—Martial law is in full sway here tonight as the result of a pitched battle in Main Street today between members of the Kentucky National Guard and a mob of several hundred men, in which five of the mob were killed and, at least seventeen wounded in an attempt to lynch Will Lockett, a negro, on trial for attempted assault and murder of Geneva Hardman, a ten-year-old white schoolgirl. Lockett was sentenced to death within five minutes after the battle and will be executed by electricity March 11.

The city tonight is outwardly quiet, although there are alarming rumors. One of these is that 1,500 armed men from the mountains of Breathitt and Owsley Counties are on their way here with the intention of lynching the negro, but this report was later discredited by the military authorities. Six hundred Federal and State troops are patrolling the streets tonight and dispersing all crowds, and 500 men have entrained at Camp Taylor and are expected here before morning. These latter include a full machine gun battalion and all are mmebers of the First Division, which fought at Chateau-Thierry and saw many months of active fighting in France.

Lockett was reported to have been spirited away by the police during the lull following the attack, but it became known tonight that he was not taken out of the Court House, and that he still is confined there under a heavy guard. He will be removed to the State Reformatory at Frankford or to the State Penitentiary at Eddyville as quickly as possible.

The attempt to lynch Lockett was made just after he had confessed to the murder and as the jury found him guilty of murder in the first degree.

Prisoner Guarded on Arrival.

Lockett was arrested last Tuesday night and was indicted late last week. He was brought here this morning on a special train from the State Penitentiary at Frankfort, where he was rushed on Feb. 4 to prevent a lynching, shortly after he made an alleged confession.

Lexington's streets were packed with onlookers when the negro, surrounded by the troops, was marched to the Court House. Heavy wires and ropes had been stretched on either side of each street through which Lockett passed, and troops were under orders to "shoot to kill" if an attempt was made to reach the prisoner. Fifty extra police and a Sheriff's posse patrolled the streets to keep the crowds behind the ropes.

Long before the hour set for the opening of the trial the Court House was filled. No one was permitted to enter without first being searched for weapons. Hundreds were unable to gain admittance and congregated in the street in front of the Court House.

The cry, "Let's get him!" from a brawny farmer on the outskirts of the crowd, who carried a rope, turned the crowd into a mob which began surging toward the entrance to the building. The soldiers and police dropped back into close formation and trained their guns on the mob, which never hesitated.

Adjt. Gen. Deweese, in command of the militiamen, grappled with the leader and struck him on the head with the butt of his automatic. The mob pressed on, shouting defiance, and Deweese shouted a final warning, and then fired a shot into the air.

It was the signal for the troops to fire. Soldiers and police fired point-blank into the crowd and a near-by machine gun rattled. From the windows of the courtroom above another hail of bullets pattered down on the asphalt street.

The wounded fell on all sides and the mob fell back and broke up. Police ambulances gathered up the wounded and took them to the hospitals, where four died within a few minutes after their arrival and a fifth late at night. The list of wounded increased during the day. Seventeen were known to have been hurt up to tonight, and there are reports of an unidentified negro girl and an unknown white man being killed. The dead are B. F. Carrier, John Thomas, E. M. King, Will Ethrington and T. M. Rogers, all of the city and neighborhood. Rogers is the father of Miss Meta Rogers, a motion picture actress, at present in New York. Patrolman John Clancy was so badly wounded in one arm that it had to be amputated; Patrolman W. F. Ely was also wounded, and Patrolman John Cooper had his head grazed by a bullet. One soldier was slightly wounded.

Foiled in its first attempt to get the prisoner, the mob broke up into small crowds which paid hurried visits to all of the pawnshops and hardware stores in the city in a quest for firearms. There were ominous mutterings on all sides. In some stores as many as fifty or sixty revolvers and guns were seized.

Groups of men congregated on the streets and sought to learn the whereabouts of Lockett. The word that re-

Print Debate from the Files, Marshall Hints on Treaty

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Vice President Marshall sees a long, weary road ahead when the treaty debate is resumed.

Today he passed a group of correspondents who were waiting in the corridor to interview some Senator about the treaty.

"Boys," he said, "why don't you just take your files on this treaty debate and print them over again."

JERSEY RATIFIES WOMAN SUFFRAGE

4-HOUR FILIBUSTER FAILS

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Tuesday, Feb. 10.—The suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution was ratified by the New Jersey House of Assembly early this morning. The concurrent resolution was adopted a week ago by the Senate. The House vote this morning was 34 to 24.

Suffragists present when the vote was announced gave evidence, by cheering, of their appreciation of the action taken by the Legislature. Hershfield, the majority leader, led his forces in the interest of the passage of the amendment and Assemblyman Barrett, the minority leader, directed the opposition.

The Democrats conducted a filibuster for several hours under the personal direction of James R. Nugent, the announced enemy of suggrage. He was in the lobby and in almost constant touch with Minority Leader Barrett.

The measure now goes before Governor Edwards for his signature, but as he is known to favor equal suffrage his action is not in doubt. New Jersey is the twenty-ninth State to ratify the Federal amendment.

The filibuster started in the House tonight immediately after a substitute measure, calling for a referendum on the suffrage amendment at the Presidential primaries, had been defeated by a vote of 33 to 25.

Suffrage Forces Jubilant.

After that vote was announced, the hundreds of suffragists who had been at the State House all evening listening to the long-drawn-out debate, became jubilant and predicted that nothing could stop the House from passing the same resolution which last Monday night passed the Senate by a vote of 18 to 2.

However, the enthusiastic women and the Assemblymen who have been working for the passage of the ratification resolution overlooked the resources of the members who have been untiring in their efforts to have the whole proposition go before the people of the State in the shape of a referendum.

Assemblyman Barrett, minority leader, when he found that his substitute resolution had been beaten and that should a vote be taken on the Mackay resolution the amendment would be ratified, mustered his forces, including the twelve Democratic Assemblymen from Essex County, known here as the "Nugent men," and the three Republican Assemblymen from Camden County, generally referred to as "Baird men," and launched the filibuster, hoping to prevent a vote on the Mackay resolution tonight.

On the other hand, the suffrage Assemblymen, spurred on by the women in the galleries, made several ineffectual attempts to frustrate the plans of their opponents. They planned to call for a vote on the Mackay bill the minute the opportunity presented itself, realizing that they had two votes more than the thirty-one needed to put it through.

The filibusters, however, were determined to delay the vote until today, in the hope that in the meantime they might be able to add three or more Assemblymen to their forces, enough to defeat the ratification resolution.

Twenty-nine States Have Ratified.

In the hope of bringing about ratification of the Federal woman suffrage amendment before the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Miss Susan B. Anthony on Sunday, suffragists throughout the country will make a final drive this week. While actual ratification is probably impossible before Sunday, the suffrage leaders will consider the fight won if they can persuade enough Governors to call special sessions of Legislatures in States where the members are already pledged.

With New Jersey's action early today, twenty-nine States have ratified, and the suffrage leaders believe seven more are sure to ratify in the near future.

The fifty-first annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association will meet in Chicago on Thursday, and this convention will try to get Governor Louis F. Hart of Washington to call a special session immediately in the hope that the announcement may be made at the service in memory of Miss Anthony on Sunday.

"The final ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment is in sight," said Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt before leav-

HOUSE DEMOCRATS REBUFF WILSON; VOTE AGAINST WAR TRAINING, 106 TO 17; TREATY REVIVED, DEBATE NEXT WEEK

63 TO 9 FOR TREATY RECALL

Senate Suspends Rule But Struggle Waits for Urgent Legislation.

NEW DRAFT ON LEAGUE VOTE

Lodge Aims to Meet Grey's View—Opens Way for Mild Group on Article X.

PLEA OF 50,000,000 MADE

Delegates Said to Represent That Number of People Call for Treaty Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Foes of the Peace Treaty were able to muster but nine votes in the Senate today when they tried to prevent that body from reviving the treaty for the purpose of considering reservations and seeking to agree on a basis of ratification.

The Republican irreconcilables were overridden by 63 to 9 on the question of suspending a Senate rule to permit reconsideration of the treaty. The absence of a number of the irreconcilables was responsible for their poor showing.

As a result of the Senate's action, the treaty is in the hands of the Foreign Relations Committee, which is under instructions to report it back immediately with the Lodge reservations and the ratifying resolution. This will be done tomorrow.

Two things were accomplished through the Senate's approval of a program proposed by Senator Lodge, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. The first was the revival of the treaty; the second the shearing away of the closure which was applied at the last session, and which under a ruling Vice President Marshall made today carried over until the Senate took steps to remove it.

The Republican irreconcilables did what they could to spoil Mr. Lodge's program, but an irresistible coalition of Democrats and Republicans brushed aside the obstructionists, the Senate's rules, and everything else that stood in the way of free and open discussion of the treaty and the reservations.

Wait of One Week for Legislation.

The committee's report now is all that is needed to open the way to debate and action. Though this report will be made at once, Senator Lodge expects that the remainder of the week will be devoted to pending legislative tasks, and that the actual debate on the treaty will not begin until next week.

This is due to a desire not to obstruct railroad legislation, the conference report on which is expected within a few days. The railroad bill must be out of the way by March 1, when the roads go back to their owners. There are several other bills which can be disposed of this week, among them the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, and these, it is hoped, can be taken care of before the treaty gets the right of way.

The interval will also give an opportunity for working out the chief problem which must be solved before the treaty can be ratified. That is the reservation on Article X. While Mr. Lodge has said that he would not consent to any modification of the language of the reservation on this subject, there are evidences that he is not the least hopeful among Senators that some modification will be presented to the Senate which will be acceptable to the required two-thirds, and which President Wilson will find more acceptable in form than the one submitted to him by Senator Hitchcock during the progress of the bipartisan negotiations.

It was taken as evidence of Mr. Lodge's hope along this line that he did not discourage mild reservationists who today conferred with him with respect to proposed modifications of the Article X. reservation which they have drafted. The Republican leader agreed that the mild group's drafts should be presented to the Senate. He will not present them, in all probability, but neither will he object to their presentation. Mr. Lodge did not bind himself to accept any of them, but neither did he say that he would ask the Senate to reject them.

It is a singular feature of the present treaty situation, Senators observed, that there appears to be a greater eagerness among Republican Senators for ratification than among Democrats—an eagerness shared, it is said, by Senator Lodge.

Unanimous Consent Blocked.

Today's proceedings in the Senate were begun by Senator Lodge soon after noon, when he moved that the Senate go into open executive session. There was no objection to this, and Mr. Lodge then asked unanimous consent that Rule 13 be suspended for the purpose of reconsidering the vote by which, on Nov. 19 last, the Senate laid the treaty on the table.

Senator Borah rose at once and asked whether "we are proceeding under closure."

"Unless the Senate rerefers the treaty to the Foreign Relations Committee, or by unanimous consent removes closure, the Chair will hold that the treaty comes

Text of the President's Letter to Secretary Baker Urging Caucus Not to Make Training a Party Issue

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Following is the text of the letter of President Wilson to Secretary Baker, which was read at the House caucus tonight:

The White House,
Washington, Feb. 7, 1920.

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I am told that a caucus of the Democratic members of the House of Representatives has been called to consider pending military legislation, and the suggestion has been made that a resolution be adopted committing the Democratic membership of the House against the policy of general military training. In the present circumstances it would seem to me unfortunate to make a party issue upon this subject, particularly since within a few months the party will assemble in convention and declare the principles upon which it deems it wise to commit itself in a national election.

The present disturbed state of the world does not permit such sureness with regard to America's obligations as to allow us lightly to decide upon this great question upon purely military grounds, while the demonstrated advantage to the use of the country which came from military service in the war plainly suggests that in the national interest, quite apart from military considerations, the moderate and carefully conducted course of military training may have the highest possible advantages.

In our discussion of the subject you will recall I gave my approval in principle to the various very moderate training projects suggested by the General Staff, and I would be very glad to have you convey to appropriate members of the House, who will attend the caucus, my strong feeling against action by the caucus which will tend to interpose an arbitrary party determination to the consideration which this subject should receive from the best thought of the members of the House, considering alike the national emergencies which may confront us and the great disciplinary and other advantages which such a system plainly promises for the young men of the country.

Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

GERMANS TRYING TO SMASH TREATY?

French Believe Protest Over Surrender of Accused Men Is Only the First Step.

NO TIME FOR CONCESSIONS

Allies May Make Them Later if Germans Show Proper Spirit in Carrying Out Terms.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—"It is an unjust and impossible peace. Germany cannot and will not execute it." The speaker was an ex-General of Division of the Prussian Army. We were in a train from the Lithuanian frontier to Königsberg. For half an hour he had been fulminating against the humiliation and inequity of "the Polish corridor" from Poland to Dantzig, and he wound up his tirade with the outburst which is German's leit motif today—"We cannot and will not execute this peace."

"Why, then, did you agree to do so?" I asked.

The answer was significant: "Because we had to. The British were at the gates of Essen. The French ready to swoop like hawks upon Frankfort, and the Americans chafing against the leash on the heights across the Rhine above Coblenz."

The old General had no more to say. Once confronted by the supreme argument, force, which he and those like him, who had made and ruined Germany, first fostered, then cultivated, and then defied, the ground was cut from under his feet.

This railroad car discussion had thrown a startling light on Germany's position in the present diplomatic tangle. She is making her first great fight to avoid carrying out the provisions of the Peace Treaty, and nothing but a firm front on the part of the Allies will insure her compliance.

Two days later I was in Berlin. There, from Germans and their foreign sympathizers—or if not sympathizers at least people who have absorbed the German atmosphere—came almost word for word the same plea as the General had uttered: "We cannot give up the 900 men on the allied blacklist. It is a question of honor. No Government could do it even if they wished to. You are driving us straight to Bolshevism."

Fulfillment Now or Never.

Each phrase seemed an echo wafted back from last Summer, when Germany vowed that never could she agree to sign the Peace Treaty, vowed and protested until the eager allied troops swinging forward to battle positions at last convinced her that hope of evasion was useless. But then the Allies were firm and united. Now America is uninterested, or appears so for the moment, and England is echoing Germany's wail that to give up Hindenburg or Ludendorff is unthinkable, and France—well, they say of France that she cares for nothing but the chance offered of grabbing a surer foothold upon the Rhine. The last charge is easy to bring. Half of Germany is making it today, but before accepting it hurriedly hear first what a leading French diplomat has to say:

"To begin with, this idea of bringing the guilty to justice is much more Anglo-Saxon than French. In the case

KOREANS REVOLT, JAPANESE ROUTED

PEOPLE RISE TO JOIN THEM

One Garrison of 700 Men Overwhelmed, 300 Being Killed—Reds Say North Is Evacuated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Active rebellion in Korea against Japanese rule, fostered by the Russian Bolsheviki, and characterized as "the beginning of a tremendous affair," is in progress, according to official dispatches received today in Washington. A recent clash between 2,000 Koreans, armed mainly by the Bolsheviki, and a Japanese army post of 700 men in Northern Korea, the message said, had resulted in defeat of the Japanese, 300 of whom were killed and the remainder routed. Details of the fight were not reported.

Other clashes with the small Japanese garrisons have occurred, the Japanese having been outnumbered and overwhelmed in nearly every case.

According to official information, Bolshevist authorities are in close touch with the Korean leaders and are making every effort to provide their troops with adequate equipment.

Reports received here recently said the entire length of the branch of the Siberian Railroad running from Vladivostok west through Northern Manchuria had come under Bolshevist influence and that a movement was on foot to organize the local Bolshevist forces in combination with the numerous bands of Chinese brigands to invade Korea.

Three full Japanese divisions are in Korea, but it is said in Japanese circles that these have been so scattered to maintain order that they probably could offer little immediate resistance to an invasion.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Northern Koren has been evacuated by the Japanese, it is claimed in a wireless dispatch from Moscow today, quoting an Omsk message. The population rose to aid Korean forces from Chinese territory, it is declared.

The Omsk message, as given in the Bolshevist wireless, says that on Feb. 6 bands of Koreans raised in Chinese territory crossed the frontier and attacked the Japanese. Masses of the population are joining the insurgents, it is added, the Japanese retreating and evacuating Northern Korea.

Officials here have known for some time that many thousands of Koreans who fled into Manchuria were meditating hostile action against Japan. While there is no real Bolshevist feeling among these people, according to the authorities, they are so stirred by hostility to the Japanese that they probably are willing to join with any other elements in attacking them.

On Jan. 12 a cablegram from Shanghai to the Korean National Association in Honolulu, claimed the crossing of a Korean national army from Siberia into Korea, with the capture of En Chin from the Japanese forces.

Korea has been in a disturbed state since last Spring, when the movement for independence from Japan flamed into open revolt in many of the populous centres.

SPURNS PRESIDENT'S ADVICE

KITCHIN LEADS IN FIGHT

He and Others Declare It Politically Expedient to Oppose Training Plan.

OPINION IS OVERWHELMING

Some Afterward Say Vote Was Meant as an Assertion of Independence.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Rejecting President Wilson's advice, House Democrats in caucus tonight adopted, by a vote of 106 to 17, resolutions opposing the passage at this Congress of legislation for universal compulsory military service or training. The President's views were presented in a letter he wrote to Secretary Baker, which was read to the caucus by Representative Charles P. Caldwell of New York, a member of the Military Committee. In this letter Mr. Wilson urged that it was inadvisable that any party action be taken at this time on universal training, when the national convention was so near. He spoke in favor of the principle of universal training.

Some leading House Democrats led in opposing the President's advice. Claude Kitchin, former floor leader, who, with Representative Dent, former Chairman of the Military Committee, inspired the caucus, was active in trying to persuade his colleagues that the country was against compulsory training and that the party's position should be expressed by Congress, which had to pass such legislation.

Representative Frank Doremus of Michigan, former Chairman of the Congressional Committee, agreed with President Wilson and urged delay. He insisted that it was distinctly an issue to be passed upon by the entire party as represented by the national convention.

When the caucus met the Southern Democrats and those representing sections of the country that were pacific during the early period of the war were active in their efforts to persuade those willing to be guided by the President that political advantage could be gained by the Democratic Party declaring against compulsory training in advance of a declaration by the Republicans.

Session Had Lively Moments.

Representative Saunders of Virginia presided over the meeting, which became very lively during its session of three hours. Nearly all of the 189 Democrats were in attendance. Ex-Speaker Clark, absent in Missouri, informed his followers before his departure that he was opposed to compulsory training, and Representative Ferris of Oklahoma, Chairman of the Congressional Committee, wired to Mr. Kitchin that he stood with him in opposing legislation to compel military training.

Representative Caldwell of New York early in the session read President Wilson's letter to Secretary Baker. [The full text of the letter will be found in an adjoining column.]

Immediately following the reading of the letter Representative Ayers of Kansas offered this resolution:

Resolved, That the Democrats of this Congress are opposed to compulsory military training in time of peace.

Representative Gard of Ohio offered an amendment so that it would read:

Resolved, That the Democrats of this Congress are opposed to compulsory military training.

A further amendment was presented by Representative Griffin of New York, which declared his opposition to the passage of the Wadsworth military bill containing compulsory training.

Representative Doremus presented a substitute, which provided that the caucus should not act upon the issue at this time.

After two hours of debate the caucus rejected the substitute, 88 to 37, and finally adopted a resolution which, while not so emphatic as the original proposals, still put the caucus in opposition to the President's views. It read:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that no measure should be passed by this Congress providing for universal compulsory military service or training.

Kitchin Vehement for Action.

Mr. Kitchin, who has always opposed any far-seeing military policy, and a group of the Democrats who opposed selective draft and other military measures, urged with vehemence the political advantage of acting against compulsory training. They asserted that the people were against further expenditures for military purposes and held that such a policy would lead to Prussianism. Some of the speakers asserted that organized labor and the farmers were opposed to the proposed system and that this was the popular side.

With Mr. Kitchin stood Representatives Garner of Texas, Field of Kentucky, Dent of Alabama, and Flood of Virginia.

Supporting the President Representatives Doremus of Michigan, Olney of Massachusetts, Caldwell of New York, Small of North Carolina, and Sabath of Illinois. Representatives Fisher, Caldwell, and Olney of the Military Committee, announced that they intended to vote in the committee to report a bill carrying compulsory training.

Under a rule of the party, a caucus is not binding upon those attending unless a resolution is adopted to that effect. Such a resolution was not presented.

An "Assertion of Independence."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Associated Press).—After the caucus some of the Democrats frankly stated that their action was an assertion of their "independence" in the belief that they knew the sentiment of the country better than either the President or the party leaders.

Reading the President's letter virtually opened the business before the caucus, and almost immediately afterward Representative Caldwell, who read the letter, sought to block any action by moving adjournment. His proposal was lost by an unrecorded but overwhelming vote. General debate was then precipitated by Representative Ayers, Kansas, offering a resolution recording the Democrats against universal training. Speakers did not discriminate between universal training and service—the latter including the enrollment of the youths into the army—and as finally adopted the resolution was changed so as to declare opposition to both.

Though the debate was held close to the issue before the caucus, frequent references to the President and Secretary Baker injected into the discussion. Representative Kitchin declared that "with all due deference" to these officials he believed there could be no objection to the House stating its position, especially since both officials had "put the party on record" by announcing their attitude.

Mr. Kitchin told his colleagues that Mr. Wilson's illness had "unfortunately" removed the Executive from intimate touch with national affairs and sentiment. In this connection he read a telegram from Representative Ferris, Oklahoma, Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, declaring that "the country is opposed to universal training." The opinion of Mr. Ferris was cited by Mr. Kitchin as that of one who "knows the feeling of every district in the country."

Taking up the attack started by the North Carolina member, Representative Flood declared that it was "all right" to talk of waiting for the National Convention, but he said that the convention "might get the idea we are for training" by the silence of House members.

Answering both speeches, Representative Caldwell declared that every post of the American Legion by the action at Indianapolis today had gone on record in favor of universal training. He urged that political expediency favored a declaration for such training, rather than a stand against it.

Representatives Olney of Massachusetts and Fisher of Tennessee, both members of the House Military Committee, along with Mr. Caldwell, also urged no action at present, but the other Democratic committeemen opposed them or remained silent.

More than a score of Democrats joined in the debate, but few added substantially to the statement of leaders in the fight. Some opposition was made to universal training on the ground that too many youths would be called from farm and industrial pursuits, curtailing production, which was said to be the "greatest need of the country."

The seventeen Democrats who voted against any declaration of the stand of the House are understood to have been Representatives Bee of Texas, Caldwell of New York, Campbell of Pennsylvania, Cantrill of Kentucky, Carter of Oklahoma, Doremus of Michigan, Dupre of Louisiana, Eagan of New Jersey, Fisher of Tennessee, Igoe of Missouri, Lea of California, Lonergan of New York, Lesher of Minahan of New Jersey, Mooney of Ohio, Olney of Massachusetts, Pell of New York and Phelan of Massachusetts.

Training Discussed in Senate.

Military training came to the fore in the Senate today, Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, opposing the training provision of the Army bill reported by the Military Committee. He declared it would open the way for the establishment of a "military oligarchy."

Taking issue with those who said that system would cost only about $130,000,000 annually, Senator McKellar said it would make the military establishment cost $1,276,143,000 annually.

"This is the most ambitiously audacious and expensive military proposal in all history," he said. "It is the most monstrous proposition ever placed before the American people, and if we swallow it I will agree with P. T. Barnum's famous remark that 'the American people love to be humbugged,' and go him one better and say, they love to be taxed."

Asserting that Senator McKellar had not correctly quoted figures regarding the cost of the proposed Army bill, Chairman Wadsworth of the Military Committee read figures prepared by the War Department to show that the annual cost of training 100,000 young men for four months would be $28,162,218. He said that the figures represented overestimates if anything."

LEGION FAVORS TRAINING.

State Commanders Urge Congress to Pass the Wadsworth Bill.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 9.—The Wadsworth Army Reorganization bill, carrying a provision for universal military training, will be supported by the American Legion, with modifications, it was announced this evening at the close of a conference of State Commanders of the Legion from all parts of the country. After an all-day discussion of the bill National Commander Franklin d'Olier was authorized to appoint a committee to co-operate with the Legion's Legislative Committee and present the suggestions of the conference to Congress.

A telegram was sent to the Chairman of the caucus of Democratic Representatives in Washington, announcing the Legion's support of the bill, and this telegram was supplemented by messages from State Commanders to Representatives of their States attending the caucus.

DANZIG IS ANXIOUS FOR A HINTERLAND

German Commissioner Says Poles Must Maintain and Develop Waterways Feeding It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DANZIG, Feb. 8.—Pending the arrival of Sir Reginald Tower, British representative and High Commissioner of the Entente Powers, Herr Foerstner has been named German representative at the forthcoming negotiations concerning the fate of Danzig. Up to the time of the city's passing from the power of Prussia, Herr Foerstner had represented the central governing authority.

Of course, he does not view with much pleasure the changed status of the city over which he has held sway. When I asked him to state his views he began by saying:

"In the whole Province of West Prussia two-thirds of the population are German, and naturally the conditions of the Peace Treaty came upon them as a very unpleasant surprise. Danzig itself is really absolutely a German city, for only 2 to 3 per cent. of its inhabitants are Poles.

Turning to the future of Danzig, Herr Foerstner said:

"It depends entirely on what course the economic development of Poland takes. Its possibilities as a centre of international commerce must be properly maintained and developed. That is mainly a question of traffic communications, hinging, first, on regulations; and, secondly, on the development of the waterways upon which Danzig depends for its trade with Poland and the adjoining territories. The Polish Government should not only maintain the lines of communication in the same good condition as the German Government has done hitherto, but the upper reaches of the Vistula, in the territory of the former Russian Poland, must be improved."

BALTIMORE, Feb. 9.—The Corder of St. Gregory, one of the highest distinctions which may be conferred upon a layman by the Catholic Church, will be presented soon to Admiral William S. Benson by Cardinal Gibbons. The decoration, bestowed by Pope Benedict upon Admiral Benson in recognition of his services during the war, was received by the Cardinal yesterday at the hands of a special messenger from Rome.

ASKS STATE TO TEST DRY LAW'S VALIDITY

Cuvillier Also Wants Health Department to Pass on Light Alcoholic Beverages.

SAYS PEOPLE RESENT ACT

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 9.—New York State will follow the lead of Rhode Island in testing in the courts the validity of the Federal prohibition amendment if the Legislature acts favorably on a resolution introduced in the Assembly tonight by Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier of New York.

Mr. Cuvillier also made what may be a final effort to save light wines and beers by the introduction of another concurrent resolution calling on the State Health Department to test whether beverages containing 3 or 4 per cent. of alcohol can be deemed intoxicating.

This resolution reads:

"Whereas, A very serious and grave question of permanent importance is presented to the Legislature by the introduction of a bill in the Legislature for the enforcement of the act of Congress of Oct. 28, 1919, known as the Volstead act; and,

"Whereas, This act of Congress embodies so drastic an enforcement of the prohibition law that, if valid, it will deprive the inhabitants of this State of the right hereafter to use nutritious and healthful beverages which are not as a matter of fact intoxicating, and this has caused much hardship, discontent, and just resentment; and,

"Whereas, It is of great importance that the Legislature of this State should now promptly and independently investigate and determine the question of fact whether light wines and light beers containing so small a content of alcohol as 3 or 4 per centum by weight or volume can be deemed intoxicating within any reasonable and accepted definition of that term, and further and separately whether and how far it is reasonably necessary or appropriate to prohibit beverages which are indisputably nonintoxicating for the alleged purpose of effectively reaching and prohibiting intoxicating liquors.

"Resolved, If the Senate concur, that the State Health Department of the State of New York is hereby authorized and empowered to make such tests and investigation and determine the question of fact whether light wines and light beers containing so small a content of alcohol as 3 or 4 per centum by weight or volume can be deemed intoxicating within a reasonable and acceptable definition of that term, and further and separately, whether and how far it is reasonably necessary and appropriate to prohibit beverages which are indisputably nonintoxicating for the alleged purpose of effectively reaching and prohibiting intoxicating liquors and report its findings to the Legislature on or before March 1."

His second resolution would direct the Attorney General to petition the United States Supreme Court to test the validity of the prohibition amendment.

State Superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League William H. Anderson in a letter yesterday to Senator Alvah W. Burlingame, Jr., of Kings, Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Assemblyman Bert P. Gage of Wyoming County, as Chairman of the Assembly Excise Committee, asked them on behalf of "a large majority of the churches" to fix an early date for a joint hearing on the enforcement act introduced for the league.

63 TO 9 FOR TREATY RECALL

"I wish to inquire of the Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee whether a motion to recommit to the committee will be made," said Senator Borah.

"It is my intention to make that motion," said Senator Lodge.

"Yes."

"Does the minority intend to support the motion to recommit?" Senator Borah then asked Senator Hitchcock, the acting Democratic leader.

"We on this side of the Chamber intend to do all we can to return the treaty to the Senate for general discussion," replied Mr. Hitchcock. "We will support the motion to get rid of closure."

Senator Borah apparently was satisfied. But Senator McCormick of Illinois, another irreconcilable, inquired whether, under Mr. Marshall's ruling, closure would apply in the interval between suspension of the rule and adoption of the motion to recommit.

"It will," replied the Vice President.

"Then, I object," said Senator Norris, Nebraska, also an irreconcilable.

Big Victory for Suspension.

Unanimous consent having been denied, Senator Lodge at once moved the suspension of the rule. When irreconcilables started to discuss the motion, Mr. Marshall reminded them that closure applied, and ordered the roll called.

The result, as stated, was 63 to 9 in favor of suspending the rule, much more than the required two-thirds. The nine Senators who opposed the motion were all Republicans. They were Senators Borah, Brandegee, France, Gronna, Knox, McCormick, Norris, Poindexter and Sherman. Senators Johnson of California, La Follette and Pell, all of whom are irreconcilables, were absent.

Mr. Lodge at once moved that the Senate reconsider the vote by which it tabled the treaty in the closing moments of the last session.

"I make a point of order against that motion," said Senator Norris, "first, because Senator Lodge is not entitled to make it, as he did not vote at the last session with the prevailing side; second, because the matter sought to be reconsidered has already been reconsidered once, and third, because the whole question was finally disposed of on Nov. 19, last, when a session of Congress adjourned sine die, and hence it is now too late to make the motion."

"Overruled," said the Vice President.

"I appeal and on the appeal demand the ayes and noes," said Mr. Norris.

On this roll call Mr. Norris and the other irreconcilables gained the vote of Senator Sutherland of West Virginia, but were defeated by 62 to 10. The reconsideration motion made by Senator Lodge was at once agreed to.

Mr. Lodge then moved to recommit the treaty to the Foreign Relations Committee, "together with the reservations adopted by the Senate and the resolution of ratification, with instructions to report the treaty back immediately, together with the said reservations and the ratifying resolution."

Hitchcock Offers Objection.

Senator Hitchcock asked Senator Lodge to omit the words "reservations adopted by the Senate" and to amend the motion to instruct the committee to report "without recommendations." He said that would put the whole question in the Senate upon the same basis as when the Senate last considered it in Committee of the Whole.

"I am trying to bring back the treaty in the quickest way possible," said Senator Lodge. "That is my sole purpose. Whatever we do in the Senate will be done through modification of the reservations formerly adopted.

"All those reservations could be offered again. No right is cut off. I am certain it will save the Senate's time to bring the treaty back with the reservations, because they are going to be the subject of the whole discussion. If we leave them out, it seems to me that we run the risk of delay and of opening the question of revising the whole treaty. I think it is in the interest of prompt action to bring the treaty back tomorrow with the reservations and the resolution of ratification."

Senator Hitchcock persisted, on the ground that the expression "reservations adopted by the Senate" was misleading, inasmuch as the Lodge reservations, though aropted singly by majority votes, were not approved by the Senate on the final vote, when they were embodied in the ratification resolution.

Senator Hitchcock moved to strike out the words to which he objected.

Harmony Reached After Debate.

Senator Underwood said he agreed with Mr. Hitchcock, adding that if Mr. Lodge insisted on his motion he would "put Democratic Senators in the embarrassing attitude of ordering a report on reservations they did not favor."

A long discussion followed, in which the parliamentary questions involved in Senator Lodge's motion were thoroughly discussed. Senator Robinson of Arkansas finally won his Democratic colleagues to support of the Lodge motion by telling them that Senator Lodge was right about that being the quickest way to get rid of closure and put the treaty upon a fair basis from which to start work.

Mr. Hitchcock withdrew his motion to amend, and a suggested substitute, and without a dissenting vote the recommitment motion was adopted.

Senator Lodge moved that the Senate return to its ordinary legislative procedure, and the day's treaty program was complete.

Mr. Lodge at once called a meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee for tomorrow morning. The meeting will be the merest form, as the Senate's instructions were explicit. The committee can do but one thing—report back the treaty with the Lodge reservations and the ratifying resolution.

Lodge's Modified Reservations.

Mr. Lodge has virtually decided upon the modifications of the Lodge reservations which he will offer after the committee's report is laid before the Senate. He has worked out an alteration in the Lenroot reservation on the question of voting power in the Assembly of the League of Nations which he believes will meet the objection to that reservation voiced by Viscount Grey, as the reason why Great Britain and her Dominions could not accept the Lenroot reservation.

Mr. Lodge intends to propose that Great Britain shall receive the option of having six votes or one, if she chooses to let her five self-governing dominions vote, in addition to the British Empire, then the United States would have six votes. If Great Britain casts but one vote for the whole of the empire, then the United States would have but one vote. He also will offer many of the changes agreed upon by the bi-partisan conference group, but reservations on withdrawal, domestic questions, Shantung and administrative provisions.

Upon Article X, and the Monroe Doctrine, Mr. Lodge personally will have no changes to suggest in the Lodge reservations but, as stated before, the mild reservationists will offer modifications of Article X.

The Democratic plans are not so fully developed, Senator Hitchcock said. He said that it had not yet been decided whether he would offer again his five reservations, which President Wilson accepted "as they stand" in his letter of Jan. 26 to Mr. Hitchcock. Neither have the Democrats decided whether they will hold another general conference to formulate a program. Mr. Hitchcock said, though he thought it unlikely that such a conference would be necessary.

Mr. Hitchcock and other Democratic leaders conferred at length with Vice President Marshall following the recommitment of the treaty. It was intimated that they were discussing with the Senate's presiding officer and parliamentary arbiter the question of preventing textual amendments being offered when the treaty comes back.

Senator France Sees War Danger.

One of the irreconcilables, Senator France of Maryland, in a statement issued tonight, told why he voted against reconsideration. He called attention to the fact that, while the Senate is preparing to make another effort to ratify the treaty, European statesmen are facing the realization that they must revise the treaty's economic clauses to meet world conditions. Senator France said that his vote was against reconsideration because he saw no hope of accomplishing anything through the treaty, in the direction of solving grave international problems.

He said that the condition of exchange, the decline in the productive industry of Europe "and the immediate menace, not generally recognized, of another world war were due to defects in the treaty and League covenant "which no reservations can cure."

OFFER APPEAL OF 50,000,000.

Lowell, Straus and Others Urge Treaty Agreement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Representatives of twenty-six organizations, including the League to Enforce Peace and the World Peace Foundation, which lay claim to a membership of 50,000,000 Americans, served upon President Wilson and the Senate today what amounted to notice that further delay in bringing about ratification of the treaty of peace would be resented by the American people and that those responsible for it would be condemned.

A memorial to this effect was left with Secretary Joseph P. Tumulty at the White House today by a committee composed of Oscar S. Straus, President Lowell of Harvard University and Clarence J. Owens, the last named spokesman for the Southern Commercial Congress. Later it was transmitted to Vice President Marshall, Senator Lodge and Senator Hitchcock. The committee had a half hour's conference with Secretary Tumulty, but no additional statement was issued.

Here is the text of the memorial presented to the President and the Senate:

"To the President, the Senate of the United States and the American People:

"It is with deep satisfaction that this Conference Committee, representing twenty-six national organizations, reassembles in Washington on the day that the treaty of peace again comes before the Senate. We come back to the national capital, following our conference of Jan. 13, with the strong hope that the treaty is soon to be ratified.

"The President of the United States, in his letter to Senator Hitchcock has said definitely that he will accept reservations. Agreement on the fact that there are to be reservations has been reached, leaving only the matter of their final form to be determined. Authoritative intimations come from England and France that the form of the reservations is wholly secondary to the compelling importance and necessity of having America a member of the League of Nations.

"We again invoke the fundamental democratic right of petition in the name of over 50,000,000 Americans belonging to organizations we represent, urging that, without further delay, the reservations be cast in a final form.

"All the reservations now under consideration are the result of a long series of compromises. The original position of the Reservationists that the treaty should be adopted only with amendments, and that of the President that it should be adopted without reservations, have both been abandoned.

Conferences of the Bi-Partisan Committee of the Senate have resulted in practical agreement on all reservations except those on Article X. and on the Monroe Doctrine. In regard to the latter, there has not been any doubt that the doctrine should be preserved, differences now being confined to the method of expressing that opinion without offense to friendly nations both in Europe and America.

"As regards Article X., the difference between the reservation presented by Senator Lodge and that submitted to the President by Senator Hitchcock seems to consist in the fact that the former declares that we assume no obligation under the article without the approval of Congress in each specific case, and the latter that we assume no obligation to take action under the article without the approval of Congress in each specific case.

"The real nature of this difference is for us hard to understand, and we believe that it will be wholly incomprehensible to the American people. In any event the difference is insignificant in comparison to the importance of the treaty and covenant itself.

"We believe that it is not only for the interests of the country, but for those of the President, the Senate and each of the great political parties, to ratify this treaty without further delay. We are confident also that when the United States takes its seat in the League of Nations it will not be a silent partner in the League, but will exert an influence for humanity and justice proportional with its resources, its population, its ideals and its traditions.

PEACE TREATY ASSAILED IN ITALIAN CHAMBER

Italy Urged Not to Join Anglo-French Alliance Till Treaty Is Revised.

ROME, Feb. 7.—Italy must not join the Anglo-French alliance until "the Versailles treaty is revised and all odious, unjust, and harassing clauses abolished," said Deputy Flammingo, Ministerialist, in the Chamber of Deputies today. He discussed the exchange situation and said the depreciation of the Italian lire, the French franc, and the English pound was due to the fact that none of the Allies possessed credits in America.

Signor Graziedi, Socialist, asserted the war had been "advantageous to England, who inherited the German colonies." He criticised the anti-Italian propaganda abroad, exhibiting a pamphlet he had received from Buenos Aires and which bore the caption "The Filibusters of Fiume." This he denounced as a masterpiece of propaganda work. Continuing his discussion of Fiume, Signor Graziedi said Fiume must be internationalized, like the Suez Canal, the Straits of Gibraltar, and all other great pathways of world commerce.

Deputy Salvanini defended the policy pursued by former Governments relative to the Dalmatian coast and said that as soon as the Treaty of London had been perused at Belgrade it would be understood by Jugoslavia that Italy could not reduce her claims.

"President Wilson would have accepted our proposals," he asserted, "if we had not gone through the mistakes we did at Paris and if Captain d'Annunzio and Admiral Millo had not discredited us before the world." He reviewed policies of past Cabinets and said an agreement was signed with Austria in 1915 for the division of Albania.

At this point former Premier Giolitti sprang up and denied that such an agreement had been reached.

The Deputy closed his address by saying Premier Nitti had renounced Italian claims to Dalmatia in the compromise reached recently at Paris, and that Italy should retire from that region.

WON'T DEFINE DOCTRINE ANEW FOR SALVADOR

Secretary Lansing Says He Considers New Interpretation Is Unnecessary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—It was officially stated at the State Department today that no change in, or new interpretation of, the Monroe Doctrine was considered necessary, either as a result of the ratification of the Treaty of Versailles, or because of the request from the Government of Salvador for a definition of the Monroe Doctrine with reference to its recognition in connection with the Peace Treaty.

Salvador, the Government which presented this request to the State Department for such definition, has postponed entrance into the League of Nations pending a reply to its inquiry, as addressed to Secretary Lansing by Juan Franco Paredes, Minister for Foreign Affairs of Salvador.

There is every indication that the Salvadorean inquiry will be answered by Secretary Lansing in a formal note stating that there is no necessity for any new interpretation of the doctrine.

Expects Ratification, Senator Chamberlain Tells Travelers.

Chamberlain of Oregon, Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs in the last Congress, told the Southern Travelers' Association at their annual dinner at the Biltmore last night that he believed the Peace Treaty would be ratified by the Senate, but with reservations that would protect American interests."

ing for Chicago yesterday. "Twenty-eight States have now acted favorably on the amendment, including Nevada, which was called in special session on Saturday.

Sessions have been called in Idaho, Arizona and New Mexico, so that those States will ratify during the convention period.

"Two Eastern Governors have promised special sessions for the next few weeks. That leaves only two more of the needed thirty-six States to be secured. Oklahoma will make one of these, the Governor having announced that he will accede to the request for a special session made by the Democratic State Convention last Thursday.

"That leaves only one more State to be secured, and only one full suffrage State which has not ratified, Washington.

"With the end of their task in sight, the National American Woman Suffrage Association will, at its meeting in Chicago, decide whether it shall go entirely out of existence, or whether auxiliary organizations will transform themselves into State leagues of women voters.

BRYAN NOT TO BE DELEGATE

Special to The New York Times.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 9.—William J. Bryan is not a candidate for delegate to the Democratic National Convention, nor is he asking that the delegation from his home State be instructed to vote for him as the party's candidate for President. That much was made known in Lincoln today.

At the same time it was announced from Omaha that Senator G. M. Hitchcock's friends were circulating petitions to place his name on the primary ballot in this State for President.

Mr. Bryan will go to the convention as a newspaper reporter, as a Democrat on the side lines in a position to warn the convention to beware of a wet platform, or to steer clear of Governor Edwards and his policy. He will ask nothing for himself.

TROOPS KILL FIVE IN KENTUCKY MOB

ular army troops were coming spread rapidly and no further violence was attempted.

Lockett's arrest, indictment, trial and sentence sets a new record in Kentucky. He was arrested last Tuesday night, indicted Friday and was tried, found guilty and sentenced in a few minutes today.

The little Hardman girl's body was found mutilated in a cornfield last Tuesday morning soon after she had left her home for school. Her head had been crushed in with a stone and her body partially covered over with cornstalks. Lockett, recently discharged from the army, was suspected, and posses were formed immediately to look for him. He was found at the home of a friend six miles from the scene of the murder late that night. Police announced later that the negro had confessed to the murder, adding that he "didn't know why he had killed the girl."

Adjt. Gen. Dewease tonight made the following statement:

"I feel I did everything possible to avert what has happened. Officially, over my signature, I warned the public not to attempt violence and urged all citizens to avoid the danger zone, explaining that if there should be trouble innocent spectators would be in danger. No shots were fired until the crowd had reached the machine gun. I backed twenty steps, grappled with two of the leaders, striking one over the head with my pistol. The volley which stopped the rush was not fired a second too soon.

"If this should have to be gone through again I do not believe I could with safety revise any part the military has been forced to take. I'd do again just as I have done."

All day the State soldiers were insulted and eggs were thrown at them.

Brig. Gen. F. G. Marshall, in command of the Federal troops, on his arrival at 3 o'clock this afternoon issued the following proclamation declaring martial law:

"Whereas, A state of lawlessness exists in the County of Fayette, State of Kentucky, with which the State authorities are unable to cope; and

"Whereas, The Governor of the said State of Kentucky has asked for the aid of the United States in restoring and maintaining order in the said County of Fayette,

"Now, therefore, I, Brig. Gen. Francis C. Marshall, United States Army, commanding the United States troops in the said county, do hereby declare a state of martial law in the said county, and do assume all functions, both civil and military, in said county.

"All citizens are warned to respect and obey my orders and those of my subordinates."

NEW SNOW MENACE SHOULD THAW COME

TRUCK BAN GIVES LITTLE AID

Efforts Centred on Fifth Avenue and Waterfront—Surface Lines Are Still Blocked.

Much of New York still is snowbound. Efforts of the Mayor and other city officials to restore business to normal by this morning through drastic and unprecedented emergency measures have had only partial success. Hundreds of blocks still are almost impassable. Gutters are so badly clogged that a big thaw or a rain admittedly might cause serious flooding of cellars. Hope of getting the city back to normal quickly was turning last night more to the weather than to human agencies.

There was an official forecast for warmer weather and rain today, and once more Arnold B. MacStay, Street Cleaning Commissioner, called attention to the law and the moral obligation to keep gutters open, so that if a big wash comes the accumulated snow and slush may be carried to the sewers and not dammed back into cellars.

Mayor Hylan's order barring all trucks except those transporting food, fuel, milk, snow and newspapers from the streets yesterday did not wholly accomplish its purpose. It had been hoped that it would divert thousands of trucks and men from ordinary pursuits to snow removing. As a matter of fact, instead of the 12,000 men at work on Sunday 13,213 were busy yesterday, a gain of 1,213. Many more trucks were offered than on previous days, but most of them were found unsuitable because they were not adapted to dumping from piers.

Much confusion resulted from the varied interpretations put upon the Mayor's order. The word "truck" was construed strictly by some policemen and liberally by others, while business concerns were in doubt.

In some parts of the city the streets were almost bare of traffic while in others delivery wagons of all sorts took their usual way. No similar order was issued last night and at a late hour it seemed that trucking would be permitted though the struggle to drive over bumps and through drifts with slithering and skidding and colliding, has undoubtedly reduced the number of trucks. A great many are undergoing repairs. Last night it was said that every garage in the city fitted for such repairs was working at top speed.

Pleasure Cars Out.

Pleasure vehicle owners heeded the request to keep off the streets yesterday as little as they did on previous days. Some streets were definitely barred to vehicles of all sorts while big gangs worked in them. These were mostly on the lower west side where the effort to free the area of the heaviest wholesale hauling of food and other commodities was still in progress. Fifth Avenue, too, was closed all day from Forty-second street south while the cleaners continued the task of getting rid of ice and drifts packed solid during the first days of the storm. It is probable that the avenue will be open today.

Manhattan still suffered from an almost total lack of surface car transit and the prospect of its general restoration was no more definite last night than on the day the snow stopped falling.

The New York Railways Company got the Broadway line open from Fifteenth Street to Fiftieth Street, and ran cars in Sixth Avenue from Thirty-second to Fiftieth Street, and in Lexington Avenue from Twenty-third to Ninety-ninth Streets, a gain of a few blocks on that line. In Seventh Avenue Broadway cars were operated for a time from Forty-fifth to Fiftieth Street. None of the company's crosstown lines was opened yesterday. Inquiry last night as to when they would be met with the declaration that big gangs were at work on all of them, but no predictions could be made with any certainty of fulfilling them. These crosstown streets still were heavily ice-coated, so that in many places the rails were not visible. All this ice must be dug away before the task of opening channel rail slots and thawing out conduits can be undertaken.

The Third Avenue Railway, too, worked all day on its lines and made same progress, but most of its tracks still are tied up. Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon, in a statement on the trolley situation, said:

"Personal inspection has been made of the efforts to resume trolley operation. The snow has been tramped down until it is solid ice, and this is being removed with pick and shovel. Even when the ice is off the rails, the companies have conduits to clean out.

"The city did nothing effective to clear the roadways generally, so that most of the vehicles crowd on the streets with car tracks. This makes the work very slow.

Criticises Trusting to Luck.

"A bad practice has grown up of trusting to luck in snow removal. As I remember, former administrations made contracts about November, and after a night's snow we would come downtown with Broadway clear of snow, as contractors were obliged to find men.

"Of course, the emergency call for men is going to be increasingly difficult and today the Administration simply cannot obtain enough men for the work, so we must expect to rely upon mechanical appliances to a greater extent.

"The Street-Cleaning Commissioner is evidently doing everything he can, but organization cannot be secured after a snowfall. He seems to be the victim and not the cause of existing conditions.

"The operation of the Brooklyn surface lines, where conditions have at no time been as bad as in Manhattan and other boroughs, approached normal today. The service was impeded somewhat by the fact that trucks and other vehicles got on the streets and blocked the passage of cars. The tracks, however, were generally free from snow and ice.

The situation with regard to removal of ashes, garbage and rubbish has become so pressing that Mr. MacStay said last night that a part of the force would return to such regular work today, despite the need for snow cleaners. All over the city householders have been tossing their garbage and ashes into the snow heaps before their doors. This is against the law and the police have been ordered to stop it. Thousands of tons of waste of all sorts have been piled in the snow and then burned.

The courts yesterday began imposing fines on property owners who have neglected the sidewalks and gutters in front of their premises. A variety of excuses were offered, and many got a respite with a warning to go and clean up at once. Many others were fined. Another class of offenders with which the court dealt yesterday were truckmen and teamsters who had used the sidewalks for a roadway. This practice has been general ever since the Street Cleaning Department failed to open the streets. For the first few days it was winked at, particularly in the case of milk trucks. Many drivers led their horses down the sidewalks without being molested. But yesterday here and there a four-horse truck might be seen calmly proceeding in the pathway allotted to pedestrians, even in places where the roadways were moderately navigable, and the police began serving summonses, which resulted in a number of fines.

Flame Throwers a Failure.

Several experiments in mechanical snow removal were tried in the course of the day. Most interesting and least important of these was the demonstration given by a detachment of the army's chemical warfare service with flame throwers. The men came here from Edgewood, Md., because some one thought if they could melt the snow from New York's streets it would stimulate recruiting. A section of the park was roped off for the experiment, and Lieut. Paul R. Smith, to which it was directed. The experiment was short-lived and the crowd was somewhat derisive. Officially the experiment was pronounced a failure by Park Commissioner Francis D. Gallatin and Mr. MacStay.

Another experiment that turned out better was made with a scoop steam shovel at Broadway and Eleventh Street. It was found to work efficaciously where there was snow in large masses, and more of them will be used if they can be had and no "panic price" is put upon them.

The oil burning apparatus said to have been used successfully on the Canadian Pacific railroad which was to have been tried yesterday will be tested today. A 1,500 gallon oil tank was needed, and this could not be got in time.

On the upper West Side an endless chain arrangement with paddles devised by a physician which dumps the snow onto a moving platform which conveys it to the trucks was tried.

P. D. Fox, President of Borden's Farm Products Company, said 90 per cent. of the city's normal milk supply was delivered yesterday. He praised the loyalty of employees who, he declared, had worked almost all day and night to overcome obstacles, and said much milk had been delivered at an actual loss, it having cost as much as 20 cents a quart to get it to Staten Island under adverse conditions.

In Brooklyn yesterday trolley conditions were nearly normal, but many streets still were badly in need of attention. Five thousand Boy Scouts were called out to aid the snow removers. They were ordered first to see that their own sidewalks and gutters were clear and then to "do a good turn" for their neighbors.

Staten Islanders held indignation meetings outside the St. George ferry house last night when from 6,000 to 7,000, returning home, discovered that days of battling against snow and ice and sleet had about finished the municipal buses for the time being. Deprived of trolleys because the Manhattan would not operate for a 5-cent fare, they gathered in groups, and before setting out to walk miles to their homes denounced the City Administration and the Board of Estimate.

VON PABST ACCUSED NOW.

His Name Dragged Into Berlin Trial of Lieutenant von Kessel.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—During the proceedings against Lieutenant von Kessel, accused of perjury, forgery and aiding Lieutenant Marloh in his flight from justice after the latter, obeying his superiors' orders, had some sailors suspected of participating in the March rebellion last year killed without sufficiently ascertaining their guilt or innocence, von Kessel stated that he had been informed that War Minister Noske desired Marloh's flight. Asked who informed him von Kessel mentioned the name of Captain von Pabst. The court will call von Pabst as a witness.

Von Kessel, who is the son of the General von Kessel who tyrannized over Berlin during the war as military Governor, is also accused of having in his capacity an Adjutant to Colonel Reinhardt transmitted the latter's orders in such a manner to Marloh that the latter was justified in assuming he was dealing with confirmed rebels when he gave orders to shoot the sailors.

Captain von Pabst, despite his low rank, played an important part in forming the first Republican military forces which in January and March last year surpressed the Spartacide risings. His influence was finally curbed by Noske who recognized von Pabst's reactionary tendencies. At the beginning of the war von Pabst was living in America, where he married a wealthy California girl.

WILL FIGHT SHOE FRAUD.

Food Administrator Moves Against Sellers of "Army" Goods.

Federal Food Administrator Arthur Williams announced yesterday he had started a crusade against dealers selling shoes falsely represented as of army makes. He said information of such practice had just reached him. Twenty agents were put to work, and they will summons the shoe dealers to appear before Mr. Williams at his office this morning.

"This is an outrage," Mr. Williams said, "and I propose to exhaust every legal means at my command to bring these people to account. If I find any of them guilty I shall prosecute them."

Mr. Williams said he had been informed that some dealers had been buying shoes for $4.50 a pair and offering them to the public as army shoes at from $7 to $12 a pair.

Assistant United States Attorney Benjamin Matthews was asked by Mr. Williams to prosecute Hyman & Binder, manufacturers of coats and suits, of 138 West Twenty-fifth Street, under the Lever act, because they had failed to return to H. P. Belsinger & Co. of 90 Madison Avenue, manufacturers, $1.25 a yard on 900 yards of woolens. The woolens cost the firm $3.55 a yard and were sold to Belsinger for $5.40. Hyman & Binder offered to buy back the goods at the price they received, but it was said by Mr. Belsinger that he had already manufactured the goods.

Public Markets Commissioner O'Malley said he would propose to the authorities in Washington that the Federal Reserve Bank limit the lending of money on food products to 40 per cent. instead of 70 per cent., as at present.

GERMANS TRYING TO SMASH TREATY?

By WALTER DURANTY.

of the great war it is, if I may be pardoned the expression, somewhat naïve. Here and there, no doubt, you can lay a finger on a direct perpetrator of unauthorized outrage, but in nine cases out of ten the responsibility for such crimes runs right up to the army commander, to the generalissimo or the chief executive, whether he be Emperor or President. From the outset, therefore, it was more or less evident to us that the demand made with such emphasis across the channel during the elections of the Winter after the war for the head of the Kaiser and the punishment of his guilty subordinates would be far more difficult to satisfy than the English statesmen then seemed to think. During the peace conference the English maintained it. The point was agreed to by the Supreme Allied Council as a whole and embodied in the Peace Treaty. Well and good. Even now we do not discuss its wisdom or its practicability. For us French there is one issue, and only one, at stake—is Germany going to be allowed to evade the execution of the first important clause of the treaty that has been presented since peace actually was ratified? From our viewpoint this is a test case of the highest importance. If Germany wins now, what answer will we give when she declares that coal is her lifeblood, that she cannot drain her veins to recompense France for the deliberate sabotage of France's collieries? Or when the time comes for the payment of reparations. How shall we meet the plea that the settlement for the damage done will plunge Germany back to Bolshevism, ruin and despair? If we don't insist on German fulfillment now we may as well abandon hope of it for the future.

French Want Material Reparation.

"As for the suggestion that France is utilizing the whole affair for the sake of seizing the Rhine, that is simply ridiculous. To begin with, we hold the Rhine now, don't we, and the Peace Treaty provides that we retain it until Germany has executed the treaty. If that were all we wanted we would just acquiesce in the German unwillingness to yield the persons on the list and say: 'Well, since you won't agree, we will keep the Rhine.' But we want more. We want Germany to carry out the treaty in full. We want the coal she owes and the money to repair our shattered provinces. And we do not want, whatever the Germans or their dupes may say, to keep forever a huge armed force on the frontier, be it the Rhine or another between us and Germany. We want to make Germany understand, once and for all, that the Allies have put an end to her military ambitions, that there can be no revenge for her, that she must execute the treaty, clause by clause, and that if certain clauses are overhard or even impossible of fulfillment, that is for us to judge and for us to modify, not for her to attempt evasion by whining or defiance."

Whether one agrees with this reasoning or not there is a point in the concluding sentence which typifies the French attitude and offers a solution of the whole thorny problem. As the diplomat hinted, the French very thoroughly realize that the list cannot be jammed through in its entirety. They are willing to make concessions once they are assured of Germany's compliance. But they decline, not unnaturally, to be turned aside from this—to them—cardinal point just to satisfy the sudden panic of the British Premier, due to the outcry of his liberal supporters. That is the true meaning of yesterday's "unanimity" in the Ambassadors Council although it is beyond doubt that Lord Erikenhead came to Paris to urge Lloyd George's request for yielding.

"If there is yielding to be done the Germans must do it. Then and not till then will we be willing not to yield but to make concessions"—there is the French position in a nutshell. On that basis they have won an undoubted diplomatic victory.

REICHSTAG COMMITTEE CONSIDERS EXTRADITION

Soldiers Demonstrating Against It —Pan Germans Again Assailing the Government.

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—The Committee on Foreign Affairs of the National Assembly met today to consider the extradition question. It seems improbable that a reply will be made to the Entente demand for the surrender of the Germans whose names are contained on the list recently delivered until a response is received by the German Government to its note of Jan. 25.

In this note Germany asked the Allies to renounce the execution of the extradition article of the treaty, affirming that it would inevitably cause political and economic troubles, the alternative being proposed that the trials of the persons involved be held in Germany, with the participation of allied representatives.

The newspapers declare unanimously that the attitude of the Government toward the extradition question is unchanged.

The Association of German Regular Soldiers carried out a big demonstration here yesterday against the acceptance of the extradition demand. Similar demonstrations were held in the provinces.

A decision as to whether the German National Assembly will be called to consider Germany's answer to the allied demands is expected soon. The Cabinet met yesterday and considered the list of men whose surrender is desired and the allied covering note, which were delivered to Premier Bauer Saturday night by M. de Marcilly, French Chargé d'Affaires, but nothing was made public as to the conclusions reached.

In addition to the persons of Germans on the extradition list the allied powers demand access to archives and possession of all German documentary evidence, so that the prosecution may be facilitated.

The official list of men whose extradition is demanded by the Allies for war crimes, received here Saturday, is a volume of 200 closely-printed pages. Its index, arranged alphabetically, indicates the names of the men wanted. There is also a supplementary index of the men demanded by each Entente country.

The names "Bernstorff" and "von Haniel" refer to young officers of those names who were stationed on the western front. The name of Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, the former Foreign Secretary, does not appear on the list.

Several pages are devoted to a recital of specific offenses committed by unknown men, whom the German Government is expected to ferret out. Admiral Adolf von Trotha, to whose personal rescue Gustav Noske, Minister of Defense, rushed in an official statement a few days ago, is another official not named in the list.

Fräulein Edith Scheiner, the only woman whose name appeared on the list of Germans demanded by the Allies, is a daughter of a prominent professor of Berlin University, and had charge of the women's concentration camp at Valenciennes during the war.

The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant, a copy of which has been received here, prints a letter from a contributor who says he worked with Professor Scheiner at the astro-physical observatory at Potsdam, and asserts the professor's daughter incurred the enmity of Allied women spies who were imprisoned at her camp. He declares, however, that letters to Professor Scheiner showed that the daughter had many friends among the prisoners, and that she did not approve of German policies.

Pan Germans in a Frenzy.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—The members of the Entente military missions here have gone into mufti. Their uniforms no longer add color to this sombre capital. But while the missions have taken such precautions to avoid unpleasant incidents, the Pan Germans are endeavoring, to the best of their ability, to stir up domestic trouble.

All the Pan German papers are bitterly attacking the members of the Government, especially Erzberger, as being guilty of "this latest shame." The redoubtable Count zu Reventlow goes so far as to declare that the time has come to reintroduce the doctrine of the "domestic enemy," and says that all who may proceed against such foes at home should know in advance that they will remain unpunished. The Post hails this as a "healthy sentiment."

This wild resentment of the Pan Germans is, of course, largely founded on the fact that the men on the blacklist are its demigods. If the list had contained the names of Erzberger and Scheidemann, instead of Hindenburg and Ludendorff, remarks Vorwärts, "the Pan Germans would have raised shouts of joy. The Pan German rage is party anger, not patriotic anger." The Socialist organ adds that this knowledge that a section of the press protests only because the men listed are its political friends, and that this section would not regard every German as a compatriot to be protected, is having a very bad influence on the solidarity of the people as regards the extradition question.

Many Culprits Already Refugees.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—No decisive action on the part of the German Government on the allied demand for the arrest and extradition of war criminals may be expected before the end of next week. But it seems certain even now that, come what may, the Government will refuse to arrest and extradite the men named, though quite agreeable to any other method by which the real culprits may be punished. What makes the list unacceptable to Germans is that, while doubtless it contains the names of criminals, there are also on it the names of men highly respected even in republican Germany.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed that no real culprits mentioned in the blacklist are still in Germany. Months ago various officers' leagues and other organizations opened bureaus that provided all those against whom dishonesty or crime might be proved with forged passports to reach neutral countries, and, if needed, money for their support. Thus, it is urged, the cause of justice could in no way be aided now if the German Government consented to arrest and extradite the blacklisted persons still remaining.

Dissension and even party differences are forgotten momentarily. The Bavarian, Saxon and Baden Cabinets declare that they will resign office if the Federal Government accedes to the allied demand. The officers' leagues declare that they will fight to the death rather than surrender their comrades. The university students make similar avowals. Whole cities, like Hanover, threaten rebellion if Hindenburg's arrest is attempted, and Noske himself assures his little army that in no case will he permit any extradition as long as he is Federal War Minister. Indeed, the Entente's demand seems to have accomplished the impossible, namely, to form "a united German front," comprising all parties except the most radical Left, and this seems agreeable to extradition only because it hopes to create a situation favorable to the introduction of Russian Bolshevism.

Philipp Scheidemann epitomizes the situation as follows: "We must not deceive ourselves. The Entente can, if it so desires, 'Viennise' all Germany, but to what purpose? Who can get anything out of starving, freezing Vienna? Who could profit anything from a dying Germany? The demand for extradition means playing with fire, which may end with as fatal results for the Entente as for Germany. The Entente prides itself on having fought the war for democracy and justice. Now let us suppose that the Entente by democratic and just procedure manages to force the present German Government to resign. What will the consequences be? Either some Junker of the House of von Januschek or Oldenburg or some dictator of Adolph Hoffmann's community will take the Chancellor's chair. The blackest reaction or the reddest communism would be the alternative, leading inevitably to the German Republic's destruction. France, which seems to be the principal factor in this persistence for extradition, will then have to bury all hope of reparation. Those parts of the Peace Treaty which are not entirely impossible can be carried out only by a Government like the present one. If you wreck this combination you destroy all hope of reparation."

DEPLORE BRITISH DEFECTION.

French Papers Say Germans Take Heart from Apparent Allied Division

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The Temps says that a heavy responsibility rests upon Premier Lloyd George for having taken an attitude that may make it more difficult to crush Prussian militarism. This journal says that Germany is now rallied around the old Junkers, and that, instead of promoting the success of the democratic régime in Germany, the British Premier's course tends to weaken it in lending hope to the reactionaries actually on the list of accused, or else their friends and supporters.

"The Allies ought to avoid anything that could be interpreted as weakening," says the Temps. "They ought to guard against anything that encourages the return to power of Prussian militarism. We hope Mr. Lloyd George has a full conception of the responsibility which rests upon him as President of the Supreme Council, which is about to meet in London. If he follows a policy from which the German reactionaries can draw the conclusion that they have divided the Allies he will certainly not be working for the consolidation of the democratic régime in Germany, nor for international good-will. The present hour is decisive. We will demand an accounting later of those who permit the Germans to gather impudently around Ludendorff."

La Liberté publishes an impassioned editorial on "The Museum of Horrors of Kultur." It says:

"Millions of men have died that a little more justice reign on earth. We swore in their name that we would make of the German war criminals such an example that never again would the leader of a people renew the gesture of William Hohenzollern. Yes, we swore it. We owed it to the victims. When they fell under the blows of the torturers, who laughed because they thought they were safe, these victims cried: 'Vive la France! Vive l'Angleterre!' and these cries meant: 'France, avenge me! I count upon you!' They meant: 'England, I am a citizen of a mighty nation, and they torture me! Avenge me!' When they died they dreamed of justice. The guilty must be punished, else the idea of justice dies forever."

La Liberté expresses regret that the United States did not join in the demand for the apostles of Kultur and proposes means to get from neutral countries the accused men who have fled from Germany—Ludendorff, for example, who has gone to Switzerland.

"In view of all the difficulties confronting us," says La Liberté, "it is very regrettable that the Allies do not appear unulted on this question. The treaty must be enforced. Article 228 is part of the treaty. It must be enforced, or penalties must be inflicted."

CONVICT DETECTIVE FOR 'THIRD DEGREE'

Thomas Rowan Is Found Guilty of Beating Truckman with Heavy Ropes.

PHOTOGRAPHS SHOW HURTS

Detective Thomas Rowan of the Oak Street Precinct was convicted in Special Sessions yesterday of assault in the third degree, based on the complaint of Solomon Blumberg, a truckman of 61 East 118th Street, who accused the officer of beating him in a room at the Oak Street Station on Nov. 14 last. Detective James Kenny, arrested with Rowan on the same charge, was acquitted by Justices Edwards, Herbert and Murphy.

The arrest of the two detectives followed a complaint made by Leonard M. Wallstein, of counsel to the Citizens' Union, to Mayor Hylan and the District Attorney on Nov. 19, concerning what he termed "a case of inexcusable police brutality so shocking" that it called for action on the part of the officials. This was followed by an affidavit by Blumberg and affidavits from Dr. H. W. Emsheimer of Mount Sinai Hospital, where Blumberg was under treatment for his injuries, and Dr. I. M. Plotz, 1,722 Madison Avenue, who had known Blumberg for seven years, and praised his character. District Attorney Swann made a personal examination of Blumberg, and said he found many marks of the beating on the man's body.

Thomas A. McGrath, Deputy Assistant District Attorney, who caused the detectives to be held by Magistrate Mancuso in the Tombs Court in $500 bail each for trial, prosecuted the case, and called as one of his witnesses Edwin B. McGuire, Deputy Assistant District Attorney, who said he had photographs made of Blumberg's injuries when the driver had stripped to the waist at the Criminal Courts Building. The photographs, submitted in evidence, showed more than fifteen marks on Blumberg's left side and discolorations under his arms, where he said the detectives had beaten him with rope ends.

Blumberg's employer Harry P. Knowles, President of the W. J. McDonald Trucking Company, 141 Walker Street, testified he was present when the detectives questioned Blumberg and saw no one hit him, though he had seen one of the detectives seize the driver and push him against the wall. Herman Newman, superintendent of the trucking company, also testified he did not see Blumberg beaten, but admitted that one of Blumberg's eyes showed a discoloration at the time he saw him.

EXPLAINS MARINE POLICIES.

Expert Says Americans Can Stipulate for Dollars.

J. G. Wright, Deputy Assistant Manager of the marine department of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company, Ltd., yesterday made the following elaboration on his comment in THE TIMES last Saturday with reference to the warning by Representative Edmonds of Pennsylvania that American firms ran the risk of losing heavily on policies on hulls that were made payable in pounds, due to low rates of exchange:

"The inference in your article is that the American branches of British insurance companies have been in the habit of issuing policies on hulls payable in sterling. This, of course, is absolutely incorrect. Policies issued in America on hulls are invariably made payable in American currency.

"Mr. Edmonds referred in his remarks as quoted in The Journal of Commerce of the 6th inst. to insurance placed abroad with companies in London. It is obvious that if a policy be taken out in London for £1,000, that is the sum payable in case of loss, and if the insurer figured on £1,000 being the equivalent of $4,000 he is right only so long as the rate of exchange does not go below $4 to the pound sterling.

"It is, I understand, now possible for American ship owners to obtain policies in London written in dollars, in which case fluctuations in the rate of exchange would be for the account of the underwriter. I endeavored to explain that a policy issued in sterling, and therefore abroad, would be payable in sterling, but that if the insurer anticipated a fall in exchange it was open to him to forestall that by insuring for a large sum in sterling."

DOUBTS NEW DIVORCE RULE.

Archbishop Hayes Believes Vatican Rumor Absurd, Says Secretary.

There will be no legislation at the Vatican permitting divorced people to remarry, in the opinion of Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes.

"We have no facts, no information, and on the face of it the Archbishop feels the whole thing is absurd," said the Rev. Joseph F. Dineen, Private Secretary to the Archbishop, last evening, referring to the dispatch from Vienna, printed in New York papers yesterday, to the effect that the marriage of divorcées would be instituted in Austrian Catholic churches this month, under an announcement "authorized by the Pope." The explanation given was that fear had been entertained in Vienna that Catholic divorcées would leave the Church altogether, because at present priests were directing them to remarry before registrars.

The general feeling among New York Roman Catholic priests yesterday was that no such law would be created by Pope Benedict XV. for only one part of the world, and that the Pontiff would not change by a hair's breadth the doctrine against divorce.

RAILWAY WORKERS ARE ORDERED OUT

informed as to just how far Mr. Hines will go in the matter of adjustments.

It is thought probable that Mr. Hines will give some increases to members of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way employes, who are receiving the lowest range of wages at present.

No Strike Notice Received.

No official notice of the proposed strike of maintenance of way men had been sent to the Director General of Railroads tonight. It is said that Mr. Hines let the employes in this class know recently that their full demands would not be met.

To add to the uncertainty over the situation there have been reports in circulation during the week that a general strike of railroad employes might be expected before the roads were returned to private control on March 1, unless the demands of the workers were substantially met. No labor official or representative of the Railroad Administration was found who was willing to vouch for these reports. Still, they have served to make the situation more trying.

It is regarded as doubtful that the more conservative leaders of the American Federation of Labor, such as President Gompers, would sanction at this time anything approaching a general strike among the railroad employes affiliated with the Federation, and, therefore, the consensus seems to be that such a catastrophe will be avoided.

On the other hand, it is not expected that the railroad employes will accept what Director General Hines may have to offer as a final adjustment of their grievances, and there is the possibility of strikes of a nature far reaching enough to seriously embarrass the railroads just at the time it is proposed to hand them back to private control.

It would appear that the best that can be hoped for is that a general strike will be averted, but with several branches of the workers serving notice that there is trouble ahead for the private interests if living costs do not drop materially, such an unsettled situation, many believe, might give strength to the political campaign which labor proposes to wage to obtain additional representation in Congress and the adoption of legislation entirely to its liking.

The conference between the railway workers and the Railroad Administration, which took up claims for higher wages, pending since last Summer, were begun a week ago. They have dragged along from day to day with the Hines announcement being delayed, pending further efforts to reach a settlement acceptable to the workers. This delay has been one of the causes of the feeling of uncertainty over the future.

Director Hines conferred today with W. G. Lee, head of the Brotherhood of Conductors, and tomorrow he will meet the representatives of all workers for the final conference. His pronouncement will then be made public, unless enforeseen circumstances cause further delay.

Hines Urged to Refuse Advances.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (Associated Press).—Director General Hines was reported tonight to have received recommendations from certain other Government officials that the wage demands of the railroad employes be refused. The Director General's previously announced attitude that no increases could be granted was said to have been held by some of these officials to be proper, even though living costs had not come down.

"I would found an institution where any person can find instruction in any subject"—Ezra Cornell

A PIONEER in industry was Ezra Cornell; and a pathfinder in education as well. Hard-headed, self-made, practical old man, he wanted to leave his money where its power would be multiplied through the centuries, in the lives of college-trained men. So he founded Cornell University to be a "producer of producers."

As a university it was the pioneer in emphasizing the importance of applied science in the life-training of men. It was the pioneer in being wholly non-sectarian.

It is pioneering still in adopting the unusual course of presenting, through advertising, its great need to the far sighted business men of America, who know that the future of every important enterprise depends upon trained men.

CORNELL, with twice as many students as her endowment can provide for, with Professors paid less than many skilled laborers, must somehow be helped to provide those men.

She must have $10,000,000 if she is to go on.

HOTELS ASK TO KEEP 'CULINARY' LIQUOR

Restaurants and Clubs Also File Applications for Necessary Permits.

MUST BE MIXED IN FOOD

"Whisky Ship" Yarmouth Still in Port—Asks Help to Obtain Coal for Trip to Cuba.

Virtually all large hotels, restaurants, and clubs of this city have filed with the Internal Revenue Collector applications for permits to keep a stock of spirits and wine on hand for culinary purposes, it was announced yesterday afternoon at the office of the Collector at the Custom House. Today is the last day for the filing of applications. A bond of $1,000 is required as proof of the good intentions of the applicant.

Any wine or spirits found in the possession of a person who has not obtained or filed an application for such a permit is liable to confiscation. All liquor or wine on hand has to be reported to the Collector of Internal Revenue by tonight, except that which persons have in their homes for their own use. It is not necessary to declare the latter, it was said.

The form of the application is as follows: "To use distilled spirits or wines for culinary purposes, the cooking process destroying the beverage nature of the spirits and wines, leaving only the required taste, and not as a potable but mixed with the solids of the dish."

Liquor Must be Eaten.

This means, according to James S. Shevlin, Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent, that the spirits or wine must be actually mixed with the food and not poured over it so one can drink it with a spoon or turn the saucer up to the mouth and guzzle it down. The day for that is passed, Mr. Shevlin declared. Any "kick" must come by means of eating and not by drinking, under the regulations.

While no specific limitation as to the quantity that may be kept on hand has been made, Deputy Collector Leo A. Kearney, who has charge of the applications, said the holder of a permit was restricted to the legitimate use of the liquor or wine for cooking purposes.

The steamship Yarmouth of the Black Star Line, with her cargo of $5,000,000 worth of whisky, champagne, and wine, still is lying off West Eighteenth Street, where she was moved last week to be coaled preparatory to sailing again for Havana, Cuba. On account of the storm the steamer has not been able to take on any coal, and just when she will sail no one aboard the ship yesterday would venture to predict. Mr. Shevlin said that he would "thank God" when the steamer was well out to sea, as she had been a constant source of annoyance ever since she came back to this port some weeks ago, after being disabled at sea. Mr. Shevlin is keeping a guard of ten men on the ship all the time to see that none of the whisky on board gets ashore. The men work in relays of twelve hours each.

Ask Help to Obtain Coal.

The officers of the steamship company yesterday appealed to Mr. Shevlin to help obtain coal for the steamer. The passengers who sailed on the ship on Jan. 17 went ashore when the ship returned to New York, but went back on the steamer last Saturday, believing she was about ready to sail, and are now being accommodated on the ship.

Carl Session of 100 West 141st Street, who went aboard the Yarmouth Sunday with two negro women, was arrested by Federal Prohibition Agent Joseph Ernsthal, who caught him coming off the steamer with two quarts of "Green River" in his coat pockets. He was held by Commissioner Hitchcock in $500 bail for a hearing on Feb. 16 at 10:30 o'clock.

A number of saloon keepers and restaurant proprietors were arraigned before the Commissioner yesterday and held in bail for trial for violating the prohibition laws.

H. M. Gaylord, Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in charge of Prohibition Enforcement, in the city yesterday on his way from Boston to Washington, said he had been on a tour of New England, and found that prohibition laws are being obeyed.

DR. BRADY ESTATE $100,000.

Will of Clergyman-Novelist Filed in Westchester.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Feb. 9.—The will of the Rev. Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady, clergyman and novelist, who died at his Yonkers home, was filed for probate with Surrogate Slater of Westchester County, today. The value of the estate is said to be about $100,000. The will was written by the clergyman on the typewriter which he used to write his novels and sermons. The first two paragraphs of the will state:

"I, Cyrus Townsend Brady, priest of the Protestant Episcopal Church and author of many books, being of sound and disposing mind, do make and ordain this my last will and testament:

"Imprimus, I declare that I die in the full confidence and assurance of the truth of the faith of the church which I have preached, in which I have humbly tried to live and which I earnestly commend to my children and friends as my final message to them."

Port Watchmen's Strike Averted.

The threatened strike of port watchmen, members of Port Watchmen's Protective Union 17,121, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has been averted, according to Thomas J. Lyons of the Wage and Standards Committee of the union. He said yesterday that 75 per cent. of the detective agencies employing the watchmen on the river front had already granted the demands for increased wages. He predicted that by tomorrow the other 25 per cent. would be signed up under the new terms. The union has 4,000 members, according to Mr. Lyons. They demanded $5 to $6 for an eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime.

HAMILTON AND BRIDE GONE.

Couple Leaves Vanderbilt Hotel—Plan to Go Abroad.

Laurens Morgan Hamilton, nineteen years old, again has disappeared with his bride of two weeks. The couple were stopping at the Vanderbilt Hotel until Saturday afternoon, when they announced they would give up their suite and leave the city. In a statement Friday evening Hamilton and his wife, who was Mrs. Gertrude Warren, issued a statement in which the young man resented aspersions on the character of Mrs. Hamilton, to whom he was married by the Rev. Charles V. Brine, in Christ Church, Portsmouth, N. H., on January 26.

It was said by a friend of the young man's family yesterday that following the publication of the statement a friend advised the couple to leave the city to avoid further annoyance. Hamilton made a hurried trip to Washington, D. C., last Tuesday to make direct application to the State Department for passports for Europe for himself and his bride, fearing interference if he sought them in this city. He told friends he believed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Pierson Hamilton, whose city home is at 32 East Thirty-sixth Street, would try to prevent him leaving the country.

Another friend intimated last night that young Hamilton took his bride to Atlantic City Saturday night, and that, impatient over the delay in the arrival of the passports, he made another trip Sunday to Washington to interview officials at the State Department. Mrs. Hamilton remained in seclusion at the Vanderbilt Hotel durig most of the stay of the couple there. On only one occasion did the young man and his bride dine in public in the hotel.

FOR SPEEDON PORT COMPACT

Committee Will Ask New York Legislature to Ratify Plan at Once.

A committee representing the New York-New Jersey Port and Harbor Development Commission will go to Albany in a week or ten days to try to induce the Legislature to ratify the proposed compact between the two States without waiting for approval by the Board of Estimate. It will be made clear to the legislators that the request for the approval of the board was an act of courtesy and not a legal requirement; that failure to ratify the agreement at this session will set the work back at least a year, and that ratification will not bind the State to any settled scheme or plan.

The commission was created to make a study of the best way of developing the port and harbor so that political lines between the two States might be wiped out and to place the port under one control. Authority is conferred upon the commission to control, almost absolutely, all terminal and transportation facilities in an area which may be roughly described as starting from Sandy Hook to Piermont on the Hudson and to acquire any property needed for the contemplated improvements to the end that this port may retain commercial supremacy in the face of increasing commerce.

STATE NOT BOUND BY VOLSTEAD ACT

FACTS RULE, SAYS GUTHRIE

Denies Right of Congress to Create an Untrue Definiton of "Intoxicating."

TRENTON, N. J., Tuesday, Feb. 10.—The Joint Legislative Committee which yesterday afternoon conducted a hearing in the battle to overthrow the Eighteenth Amendment and upset the Volstead act, did not make its report to the Legislature before it adjourned early this morning. It is expected the committee may present its report to the Legislature later in the day or tomorrow.

The Volstead act is only binding on a State in the absence of State legislation interpreting the prohibition amendment in the opinion of Attorney General Thomas F. McCran, who was one of several speakers on proposed liquor bills before the committee. Mr. McCran gave the opinion that the enactment of State laws permitted the sale of liquor of higher alcoholic content than that legalized in the Volstead act would not be attempted nullification of the Federal Constitution.

William D. Guthrie of New York, who appeared for the United States Brewers' Association, argued that admissions of counsel for the Anti-Saloon League furnished proof that the Volstead act prohibited other things than intoxicating liquors, and that the Volstead act was not constitutional when it legislated outside of the subject-matter of the amendment. He said that Congress had no power to define anything contrary to the fact, and that it could not legally declare a thing to be intoxicating that was not intoxicating. He presented a mass of medical and other expert testimony in proof of the nonintoxicating quality of 2.75 per cent. beer.

Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, asserted that the provision for "concurrent" action by the States, in the Federal Amendment, was intended to afford protection to "dry" States against "wet" Congresses, and not to permit "wet" States to escape from "dry" Federal legislation.

Former Attorney General Robert H. McCarter agreed with Attorney General McCran that New Jersey was within her rights in passing an act defining "intoxicating liquor" at a higher point of alcoholic content than the Volstead act provides.

"Under the statement of Mr. Wheeler sacramental wine would be subject to use only at the caprice of the Anti-Saloon League," said Mr. Guthrie. "Mr. Wheeler's admission that liquor of one-half of one per cent. alcoholic content would not intoxicate a child clearly shows that Congress was legislating in the Volstead Act on a subject which had no relevancy to the Eighteenth Amendment. Congress in the Volstead Act seeks to legislate for non-intoxicating beverages. It has no jurisdiction over non-intoxicating beverages, such as liquors of one-half of one per cent. alcoholic content."

Mr. Guthrie put on four experts, all of whom declared that liquors of four per cent. alcoholic content by volume were not intoxicating. These witnesses were Doctors Hobart A. Hare and John Marshall of Philadelphia, Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe of New York City, and Dr. Charles J. Rosewater of Newark.

"Congress must legislate within reasonable lines," said Mr. Guthrie. "It cannot legislate that black is white. If it defined intoxicating liquor too high, it would be the duty of the court to set aside, but it cannot by a definition make nonintoxicating beverages intoxicating. It is your duty, your privilege, your authority, to settle this question, and not to obey the behest of the head counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, as the Congress of the United States did.

"You have seen the head counsel for the Anti-Saloon League confess here that the Volstead act is false in its definition. Congress did not investigate this. It turned to the Anti-Saloon League for its plan, and obeyed the crack of the whip of this Anti-Saloon League. Your duty is to your people, not to the Anti-Saloon League."

Referring to the police power of the State, Mr. Guthrie said the Supreme Court had always maintained that Congress could not abridge those powers. "But," he added, "you are at the parting of the ways. If the Supreme Court sustains this amendment, Congress will then be able to make the State of New Jersey simply a municipal corporation. It then can confiscate any legitimate business—can rule New Jersey in any way according to the whim of any majority at Washington."

Mr. Guthrie said Governor Edwards was "doing his sworn duty nobly" in protecting the sovereignty of the State.

Four bills were considered by the committee. They were the Barrett bill, legalizing the sale and manufacture of 4 per cent. beer and wines. The Haines bill, calling for the vote of the people on the question of defining liquors above 5 per cent. alcoholic content by weight as "intoxicating liquors." The Runyon measure to ratify the 18th amendment and the Runyon enforcement bill, modeled after the Volstead act.

CAUCUSES FAVOR BONDY.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 9.—The Republican Senators in caucus tonight declared for William Bondy, of New York, as a member of the State Board of Regents for the First Judicial District, to succeed Abram I. Elkus, who resigned after Governor Smith had appointed him Judge of the Court of Appeals. The vote was 29 to 7 in favor of Mr. Bondy.

William Bondy, who is a former Republican district leader of Manhattan, was heavily backed by the New York County Republican organization, headed by Samuel S. Koenig. The action of the Republican Senators is cited as a blow at the political prestige of Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet of the Assembly, who, at the zenith of his political power and an avowed candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, had come out against Mr. Bondy and in favor of Michael Friedsam, head of the B. Altman Foundation.

The Republican Assemblymen met an hour after the Senate caucus adjourned. When the caucus adjourned at midnight announcement was made that Speaker Sweet had been compelled to withdraw the name of Mr. Friedsam, whereupon Mr. Bondy was nominated unanimously.

Light headaches and beautiful homes

FOR a long time I had been having "four o'clock headache"—that dull nagging that creeps in behind your eyes toward the end of the day's work and sends you home nervous and cross. At first I blamed it on the heavy luncheons, and cut down to crackers and milk, with no result. I cut out smoking. But still my enemy came gnawing at my temples every afternoon.

One morning I came down resolved to go to an optician. But oddly enough, that afternoon I had no headache so I put it off. Again the next day I found myself, when 5 o'clock came, still clear-headed and wondering what had happened.

Just as I started for home, Thomas, the office manager, came in and said "How do you like our new lights?"

"What new lights?" I asked, "I hadn't noticed them."

"I don't wonder you hadn't," he said, "we call them the disappearing fixtures because you hardly know where the light is coming from. Look!" and he pointed overhead.

I looked up and saw that the glaring light under which I had been working for months had become so soft that I could look directly at it without blinking. And yet the whole office was as bright as morning sunlight.

As Thomas explained the new light I realised why my headaches were gone. He took me into our showrooms and showed me the same fixtures there, but covered with beautiful silk shades.

That night when I got home and went into the dining room, every lamp in the chandelier seemed to hit at me right in the eye. I met my wife with the remark, "I'm going to have these lighting fixtures changed."

"No, you're not," said she promptly. "Not now, we've got to have these rooms re-papered in the Spring anyway, and I'm not going to have them torn up twice." I explained that the lights I wanted could be put up in a few minutes. I told her about the silk and cretonne shades which could be selected to match her curtains. And when she called up the electrician and he told the price, she ordered them.

When I came home the next evening the lights were there. "Do you know," said my wife, "I don't believe we'll have to repaper after all. This Duplexalite makes it look so much brighter and cosier—and doesn't it bring out the tones of the furniture and rugs beautifully?"

Duplexalite is the greatest advance in lighting since the invention of the Mazda lamp. It is a patented device giving a unique combination of direct and indirect lighting, with the merits of both and the faults of neither. A curved metal deflector so distributes the light that it spreads to all parts of the room in a mellow radiance, without glare and without heavy shadows in dark corners. Through a flat glass diffusing disc increased intensity is radiated below. For the first time it is possible to use in the home the new Mazda C, the most efficient and economical lamp ever known.

PRINCESS ANNE RENT ASUNDER MID PANIC

VESSEL IS A TOTAL LOSS

Hope Abandoned for Ship Flooded Below Main Deck—May Salvage Cargo.

The Old Dominion Line steamer Princess Anne, which went aground on the inner bar off Rockaway Point early Friday morning, split amidship late Sunday night and is a total loss. Shifting sands under the bow and stern are causing the destruction of the vessel, which is worth $300,000, according to the prevailing rates of new tonnage. Forty-five members of the crew, who were thrown into a panic by the snapping of the steel plates of the hull, which they said sounded like machine-gun fire, were rescued yesterday morning by a fishing boat and landed at Sheepshead Bay.

So badly frightened were the crew when the Princess Anne started to crack at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night that C. W. Barker, first officer, who had been left in charge by Captain Frank Seay, the injured master of the steamer, who was taken ashore the day before, was compelled to draw his pistol to quiet them. The men were in the cabin trying to keep warm, as the fires were out, when suddenly the steamer shook from stem to stern, the vibration being accompanied by a series of loud noises. The crew ran to the deck, many of them going to the lifeboats, which they attempted to launch. Barker and William Heath, second officer, did their best to calm the panic-stricken sailors, and when they found their orders were being disobeyed drew their pistols.

Pistols Quiet the Crew.

This action checked the men and they gathered into the cabin, where the two officers told them they were in no immediate danger. Barker said the snapping of the plates continued until midnight, when there was a two-foot break across the vessel just forward of the engine room. As soon as morning came Barker displayed the ship's flag upside down as a signal that immediate assistance was needed. The Coast Guard crew of Station 91, at Rockaway Point, saw the signal and immediately went out to the Princess Anne in a lifeboat.

The crew, whose fears had been allayed with the coming of the day, were inclined to be stubborn and did not want to leave the ship unless their baggage was carried with them. The coast guards could not take the baggage and returned to the beach. A message was sent by wireless to the Police Department for the police boat Patrol, which had assisted in rescuing the passengers of the Princess Anne on Saturday. The Patrol was immediately dispatched with J. J. Brown, general passenger agent of the Old Dominion Line, Captain Peter Nielson, former commander of the Princess Anne, and Dr. Edward L. Gainsburgh, medical examiner of the Railroad Administration, on board.

Shortly after 9 o'clock, Capt. George Carman of Canarsie, a fisherman, on his way to the fishing grounds in his power sloop, the Stella C. noticed the distress signal and started for the stranded vessel. He steered as close as the rough sea would permit and offered to take the crew ashore. It took him nearly an hour to manoeuvre his boat alongside the stern of the vessel.

Rescue Ship Near Disaster.

Although licensed to carry only fifteen passengers, Capt. Carman found he had twenty-five men on board his sloop almost immediately. Most of the crew did not wait to climb down the rope ladder which had been let over the side of the Princess Anne, but jumped instead. Moreover, the men bent on taking their baggage with them were dropping trunks and hand baggage into the sloop. Capt. Carman had to issue sharp orders to prevent another wreck.

The crew were taken to Lundy's Pier, Sheepshead Bay, and their rescuer returned to the steamer for the remaining twenty. Barker and Heath decided to remain on board to protect the cargo, valued at $300,000.

The Patrol arrived at noon, and the officials of the line with agents of the Merritt & Chapman Wrecking Company went aboard the Princess Anne to survey the situation. They said that some of the cargo which was floating might be salvaged if favorable weather conditions prevailed today. They found the entire ship flooded from stem to stern below the main deck, which is still above sea level. Captain Nielson believed that the vessel would be pounded to pieces in the next heavy gale. Hopes of saving the steamer have been virtually abandoned.

The officials sent a wireless message to E. R. Richardson, Federal Manager of coastwise ships, requesting that a guard vessel be sent to prevent pillaging of the ship's cargo. The coast guards have arranged to take Barker and Heath off the ship if it becomes necessary.

Before returning to Manhattan, the Patrol went in search of the sloop Winsome, which was reported to be adrift off Sandy Hook. A later message said that the vessel had been taken in tow by the steamer L. T. Hand. According to reports, the Winsome had been adrift for three days, locked in ice floes. The sloop, it was said, broke loose from her moorings and had no one on board.

JERSEY "BLUE LAWS" WIN.

Committee Dominated by Sunday Alliance Opposes Revision.

The Citizens' Committee to consider the revision of the "blue laws" of New Jersey voted, 20 to 4, against any modification of those laws at a meeting at the Board of Trade offices in Newark yesterday.

The committee was called into existence by Justice James T. Minturn of Hoboken, who wrote more than two months ago to many clergymen and to various prominent men and women of New Jersey, urging them to form such an organization. Justice Minturn said Grand Juries could not be induced to indict nor petit juries to convict for violations of the ancient anti-amusement and Sabbath laws, and suggested that it would be in the interests of good government to rewrite the laws to accord with modern views.

At the first meeting of the committee, two months ago, Justice Minturn was authorized to appoint a sub-committee of seven to suggest a legislative program. The majority report of five members of the sub-committee urged the repeal of all State "blue laws" and home rule for local communities regarding amusements. The minority of two, however, rendered a report in favor of the ancient laws.

Side by side with Justice Minturn's agitation for relaxing the laws there has been carried on in New Jersey an agitation by the Lord's Day Alliance for a strict enforcement of the Sunday of the forefathers. Many members of the alliance were among those invited by Justice Minturn to join his committee. They became the most active members, and by yesterday were in complete control. After some debate they voted down the majority report of the sub-committee and adopted the minority report.

SOCIALISTS CHARGE INVISIBLE EMPIRE

THEY ASK FOR NO DEFENSE

Assembly Refuses Immunity on Their Votes on War Measures.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 9.—Disclosures relating to "the invisible empire at Albany" were promised tonight in a statement given out by the five suspended Socialist Assemblymen. The Socialists, in their defense, will make clear "the real reason behind the ouster proceedings," the statement said.

The statement says in part:

"If the case goes that far, and if the Judiciary Committee decides that defensive testimony is called for in these hearings, the testimony to be produced on behalf of the five ousted Socialist Assemblymen will incidentally reveal in graphic fashion to the citizens of this State the workings of the 'invisible empire' at Albany. The testimony will show who served this 'invisible empire' and who opposed its will.

"The five Assemblymen will take the stand in turn and explain their ideas and purposes and be subjected to cross-examination by the nine attorneys representing the Judiciary Committee. Four of the five Assemblymen have previously served. Every point of their record will be brought up for scrutiny. All their votes in the Legislature will be thoroughly examined into and explained from the actual records of discussion and debates on the Assembly floor on all important measures.

"The exposition of this record will incidentally make clear the real reason behind the ouster proceedings. It will throw much illumination on the relative progress of bills in the interest of the public and of the invisible empire of special privileges, the latter including measures that have appeared in the Assembly during the last few sessions designed to saddle higher car fare on the people of New York City to swell the profits of the traction rings, measures designed to turn over tremendous water power rights belonging to the people to private corporations, measures designed to gag and curtail the rights of the working people of the State and many other measures along similar lines."

PAY FOR FOREIGN SHIPS.

Board Awards $12,089,149 for Craft and Material Taken During War.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Awards totaling $12,089,149 on the claims of foreign ship owners for vessels and materials requisitioned during the war were recommended today by a committee of the Shipping Board. Of a total of fifty-five claims filed by Norwegian, Russian, Italian, French and Danish interests, three claims were for ships and the rest for shipbuilding materials.

For thirty-two French claims, including the three for ships, the committee recommended awards aggregating $6,150,643; for fifteen Norwegian claims, $2,000,000; for two Russian claims, $1,412,532; for two Italian claims, $816,651, and for four Danish claims, $1,108,923.

The committee based its ship claims awards on the value of ship tonnage on Aug. 3, 1917, and the degree of completion when taken. For materials, awards were computed on the cost as of Aug. 3, 1917, plus an arbitrary allowance for increase in value.

Some doubt as to the possibility of payment of the Russian claims was expressed in view of the unsettled conditions in that country.

REBATED INSURANCE COST.

First Convictions Here Result in Fines for Agents and Insured.

The first conviction here on charges of rebating life insurance premiums resulted in fines of $25 each for two agents and one of their customers in Special Sessions yesterday. The accused were found guilty by Justices Murphy, Edwards and Herbert. The agents, who paid their fines, were Lyon Eisenstadt of 1,465 Fifty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, and Geeorge W. Murphy, of 511 West Sixty-ninth Street. The customer who was found guilty of sharing in the rebates was Louis Anshen, of 421 Sixth Avenue.

Jackson, her brother's friend, was written.

Mr. Jackson, who lives in the Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, got the communication in the first mail yesterday. He asked a friend, Carl Gerow of 1,180 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, to rush to the hotel. Gerow, armed with the letter, reached the Ashton a few minutes after 11 o'clock. He presented the letter to Manager Walker, and they went to the sixth floor room. A knock apparently was unheard, and one of them pushed the unlocked door open.

Lay Beside Dead Daughter.

Mrs. Favre, in night clothing, was lying on the outside of the bed. The high wooden back of the bed cut off the view of the still form next to her.

"Well?" she inquired, as though dazed. The men excused themselves and went downstairs, saying they would return in a little while. Walker went back to his work, while Gerow took a seat. After a reasonable time, he telephoned. He heard a babble come from Mrs. Favre, an unintelligible mumbling punctuated with short runs of hysteriacl laughter and crying. Alarmed, but confident that the letter's threat never would be carried out, he sought out Walker, and the men hurried up to the room. Mrs. Favre, now fully dressed, opened the door.

Walker stood in the hall. Gerow went in, and the door half swung closed, shutting off the presence of Walker.

"I killed her, I killed her," the woman screamed, said Gerow, as she pointed at the bed. There was no sign of blood and the girl, her head slightly turned to one side on the pillow, appeared to be only asleep. Gerow saw Mrs. Favre stooping. Her hand was within an inch of the revolver. He moved toward her. She had the revolver at her head. Gerow tore the weapon from her and she sank sobbing into a chair. Walker notified the police.

On her way to the East Eighty-eighth Street station she told Detectives Veale and Marks she had not eaten since Friday night, and the police obtained food for her. After she had eaten, Mrs. Favre was questioned by Acting Captain Henry Sommers and Assistant District Attorney Marro. She said she had withdrawn all the funds she had on account with the Empire Trust Company and gradually had pawned her belongings. She said she had outlined her plans in the letter to Mr. Jackson, and also said, according to Mr. Marro, that she had appealed for aid.

No Food Since Friday.

Evidence in support of her story and of distress were found in her room—a battered old trunk, one-third full of frayed clothing, a lavender-tinted manicure set, an old French clock, out of order, and $16 in cash. Without apparent emotion and seemingly convinced she had done the right thing, the mother told how she had shot her daughter and how she had "sat and thought and thought and thought" in the hours after the crime as she stayed by the bedside.

Mrs. Favre was locked up for the night in the East Sixty-seventh Street station. An attorney, whose name the police failed to ascertain, called there last night to take charge of the woman's interest. The lawyer's offices were said to be at 55 John Street. The police said Mr. Jackson had agreed to take charge of the girl's funeral and had settled the debts of the mother.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Emily May Favre and her daghter left here in 1912, following her father's death, for Chatam, Canada, the family's Summer home. The Sutherland family was prominent locally. The son, Innis Sutherland, who was connected with the Imperial Export Company until about two years ago, is believed to be in New Orleans. According to promient lumber people here, Simon Favre has not been in New Orleans in sveral years. He acted as assistant to his father and was never directly engaged in the business.

500 Tenants Escape Eviction.

In 500 tenant-landlord cases which Justice Shiel in the Second District Municipal Court in the Bronx heard yesterday, not one eviction was ordered, compromises being effected on account of the weather and the influenza. Landlords agreed to allow tenants to remain in their apartments until March where an eviction notice had been served, and in some cases as late as April, under the old rental. There are 1,000 similar cases still to be disposed of in that court.

$400,000 HOUSE IS BURNED.

Former Flagler Place in Greenwich, Now W. C. Teagle's, Destroyed.

GREENWICH, Conn., Feb. 9.—Fire tonight destroyed the home of Walter C. Teagle, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. The loss is estimated at $400,000.

The fire was discovered by the caretaker, who started a furnace fire today. A defective flue probably started the blaze. Owing to the deep snow the volunteer firemen did not reach the place until the fire had gained great headway.

The house was of Spanish mission type and was recently bought by Mr. Teagle from John H. Flagler. The grounds comprise forty acres. Mr. Teagle and his family expected to occupy the house soon. A pipe organ and several tapestries were among the furnishings lost.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—War Minister Noske has suppressed the Deutsche Zeitung, which this morning printed a statement accusing the Government of preparing to prolong the life of the present National Convention by a coup d'etat because it fears a victory of the Monarchical parties if the elections take place this Summer as proposed. The Deutsche Zeitung will be suppressed for eight days. The independent Freiheit and the Communist Rotefahne will be permitted to appear again, beginning Monday evening.

DENIES ANTI-SMITH FUND.

Baruch Also Says He Is Not Backing McAdoo for President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Bernard N. Baruch of New York, who is in Washington completing his report as Chairman of the War Industries Board, denied today a report from Albany that he was financing an organization to oppose Governor Smith and the Presidential candidacy of Attorney General Palmer.

Mr. Baruch, who is credited with being behind the candidacy of William G. McAdoo of New York for the Democratic nomination for President, said that he was not financing or backing any candidate for the Presidential nomination.

Representative democracy, said Mr. Baruch, could best be served by sending uninstructed delegates to San Francisco. He said he was not a candidate for and would not serve as a delegate-at-large from New York to the Democratic National Convention.

Horton Says:

Sheffield Quality Is a Definite, Tangible Commodity

IN reading advertisements I see the word "Quality" used so loosely that it almost ceases to mean anything to me. And yet when I want to talk of Sheffield Milk I find that no other term so well expresses what I want to say as the word "Quality." It is a good word. Too good to be so badly abused. So instead of discarding a good expression I am going to try to make it effective by telling you just what "Quality" means when I use it in connection with our products.

Sheffield Quality is a definite commodity. It is an actual tangible something that you get in every bottle of Sheffield Milk that you buy.

To define this Quality I am going some years back and tell you a story.

The real founder of this Sheffield business was a man by the name of L. B. Halsey. Not many of you have ever heard of him. But it won't hurt you to know that he was a powerful influence in the milk business many years ago and New York never had a stancher advocate of milk decency than Mr. Halsey.

In the old days he was a competitor of mine. The kind of a competitor that inspired respect. He kept me on the jump to keep up with his conception of Quality.

Mr. Halsey once said that he would never offer a customer milk of less than 5% butter fat content. When you know that the legal standard is 3% you will realize what that meant. It meant that he was giving to his customers milk nearly 70% richer than the law required his competitors to give.

He carried out his resolve until competition and the growing demand made it impossible to provide milk of that grade in sufficient volume.

There simply wasn't enough 5% milk to go around. But notwithstanding the pressure of competition and constantly growing costs Mr. Halsey, and the Sheffield Company after him, always sought the richest milk available and have kept the cream content of their supply up to the highest possible point.

We cannot sell 5% milk now. It is an economic impossibility. But our figures for the last four months of 1919 show that the average of the milk bought by us had a butter fat content of 4.01%. And I want to register here my personal assurance that what we buy from the farmer you get without subtraction or addition.

It represents a charge in our monthly milk bill of over $150,000 more than milk of legal standard would cost.

It is butter fat (cream) that determines the money value of milk. It largely determines the food value as well.

When our competitors are abandoning sections where the Jerseys and Guernseys make milk that is high in butter fat and costs too much for them at the farm, we are constantly taking up Creameries in these sections that Sheffield customers may enjoy the delights and benefits of this rich milk.

And so we get down to the real basis of "Quality"—butter fat—Cream and other solids. Sheffield Milk contains more of these, more of the things that cost us money, more of the elements that make it valuable to you.

I will tell you later of some other factors that enter into Sheffield Quality.

LOTON HORTON, President.

ARCHITECT WINS HIS $500,000 APPEAL

A. H. Stem and Partner's Estate Upheld in the Highest State Court.

FOR GRAND CENTRAL WORK

New Contract Obtained by Warren & Wetmore Declared Breach of Trust Relationship.

Announcement was made yesterday of the decision by the Court of Appeals in the suit brought by Allen H. Stem as surviving partner of Reed & Stem, architects, and by the estate of Charles A. Reed, against Whitney Warren and Charles D. Wetmore, of Warren & Wetmore, for an accounting of the moneys received by Warren & Wetmore for their work in connection with the Grand Central improvements, including the new station, the Biltmore Hotel and the Park Avenue viaduct over Forty-second Street. The plaintiffs' share is expected to amount to about $500,000.

The Court of Appeals upholds a judgment of the lower courts for Reed & Stem, but modifies it to exclude from the accounting everything relating to the Biltmore Hotel except 1 per cent. of the cost of construction for the preparation of the preliminary plans. The contract between the plaintiffs and defendants, which described them as "associated architects" for the work upon such buildings as the New York Central might decide to erect, called for total compensation of 4 per cent., of which 2 per cent. was for the working plans and 1 per cent. each for preliminary plans and supervision.

The associated architects devoted from 1904 to Nov. 12, 1911, when Mr. Reed, who was the executive head of the work, died. Four days later Warren & Wetmore sent to William H. Newman, head of the Grand Central Terminal Improvement, a proposed new contract similar to the first except that Warren & Wetmore were described as the architects. The courts have found that this letter was written without any suggestion of the railroad company, and without the consent of the surviving member of Reed & Stem, but in response to the suggestion the railroad company terminated the first contract on Dec. 31, 1911, and a new contract was made by which Warren & Wetmore were to complete the work and hold the railroad company harmless for any claim that might be made by Reed & Stem.

The suit was based on allegations that because Warren & Wetmore took an illegal advantage of the trust relationship of the "associated architects" the firm of Reed & Stem was entitled to recover the amount it would have been entitled to if the original contrast had been carried out. The case was heard before Justice Delehanty, who held that the conduct of Warren & Wetmore was unfair and illegal and constituted a breach of trust. The Appellate Division sustained the opinion except the share of Reed & Stem for the Biltmore work was limited to 3 per cent. on the cost of the hotel. The Court of Appeals now reduces this to 1 per cent.

The record of the case shows that the plans for the Forty-second Street viaduct, as finally constructed, were drawn by Reed & Stem and caused them to be selected by the railroad company to share in the planning of the entire improvement. The plans were submitted in 1903 and the work was finished only a few months ago.

Harold Swain and Arthur L. Strang appeared for Reed & Stem and John G. Milburn and Gerald H. Gray for Warren & Wetmore. A fund of $250,000 invested in Liberty bonds has been awaiting the outcome of the case, and will be part of the payment to the plaintiffs.

VALUE HALLENBECK ESTATE.

The estate of Harry C. Hallenbeck, racing man and realty dealer, who died April 11, 1918, is valued at $1,849,488 in the transfer tax report filed yesterday. His New York estate represents $616,496, and the remainder of the estate is taxed in New Jersey, because Mr. Hallenbeck was a resident of Shrewsbury, N. J. The share of his New York estate which went to his son, John J. Hallenbeck, was $452,896, and a life interest in $20,000 each went to the latter's wife, Marion Steele Hallenbeck and to Emily and Mary Sterling.

The New York estate included $244,233 in realty, of which $41,166 is the dower interest of the decedent's widow. Mr. Hallenbeck had $337,124 in stocks and bonds, of which $142,750 was the value of 2,500 shares of the Hallenbeck-Hungerford Realty Company and $214,356 in certificates of indebtedness of the same corporation. His racing stable was valued at $12,050, of which $5,000 was for Kashmir and $800 for Salvestra. A half interest in The Finn was valued at $500.

SMALL SHIPS' SALE URGED AT $100 A TON

Raymond Would Permit Private Capital to Buy Vessels Under 12,900 Tons.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The proposal that the United States Government dispose of all its single screw steel-built steamers of 12,900 tons dead weight, or less, to private capital for a price not exceeding $100 a dead weight ton, was made before the Senate Committee on Commerce today by H. H. Raymond, President of the American Steamship Owners' Association of New York.

Speaking for the association, Mr. Raymond said that vessels built for fast passenger service which rated more than 12,900 tons, probably were of greater valuation than $100 a ton, and the Government might hope to dispose of them for a better price.

The Shipping Board has been quoting a price of from $200 to $225 a ton for its steel vessels, included among these offered at sale for such prices being the vessels which Mr. Raymond says should be disposed of for $100 a ton.

Mr. Raymond took up the question of the difference in wages paid by American and foreign interests, and said:

"To equalize this difference in wage cost which, it must be borne in mind, is a relatively small and probably decreasing factor—our resolution suggests that an allowance of 10 per cent. of the net earnings of American ships be granted on account of depreciation, and the amount deducted as operating expenses in the tax returns.

"Our resolution, moreover, provides that for the important purpose of directly encouraging American shipbuilding, ships bought from the board and kept under the American flag be exempted from Federal excess profits taxes on condition that an amount equivalent to such exemption be invested by the owner in the purchase of additional tonnage constructed in American yards."

Frocks in the New Spring Modes

A Collection Unusually Rich in Variety

The Values Are Most Extraordinary

THERE is a sprightly spontaneity and variety about the early Spring frocks that give promise of surprises yet to come, glimpsed in the dresses of beaded Crepe Georgette, the ruffled and pleated costumes of Taffeta Silk, and those of embroidered and draped Tricotine and Satin, the latter achieving diversion by new skirt effects.

Very Specially Priced

AS rich in color beauty and as soft in texture as the petals of a flower are the fabrics used to fashion the newer Spring frocks, evidenced in these dainty costumes of Taffeta Silk, Georgette and Tricotine, made lovelier still by subtle drapery and dazzling elaborations of beadwork and embroidery.

Very Specially Priced

THE trend of the Spring mode towards brilliancy of color and the most bizarre of decorative motifs, expressed in brilliant beading, delicate lace ornamentation and touches of contrasting silks, is strikingly illustrated in the charming new frocks of Georgette, Crepe Meteor and Satin.

Very Specially Priced

ALTHOUGH the Spring vogue has begun to assume a definiteness of style, the early models evince a refreshing variety of silhouette and theme, and nowhere is this more apparent than in the frocks of Crepe Georgette, with their penchant for novel pleating or elaborate trimmings of gold thread embroidery and beadwork.

These Springtime Suits Have a Charming Careless Grace

THE jaunty sport suit and the mannish tailormade contoured along decidedly mannish lines with their box coats in short or medium lengths are among the newer versions of the tailleur that deserve a favored place in the Spring wardrobe. Developed in Tweeds, Poiret Twill, Homespun, Tricotine, Velour Checks, Gabardine, Silvertone, Serge or Covert.

Very Specially Priced

45.00 to 125.00

THE perennial charm of the tailleur is revealed in the new Spring costume suits, two and three-piece models, delicately hand embroidered and executed in Serge, Poiret Twill and Tricotine, with trimmings of Tinsel Brocade, Tricolette, Silk Duvetyn and Radium Silk. Variety of effect is expressed in short Eton and Bolero jackets or medium length coats and pleated, tunic or circular skirts.

These Fur-Trimmed Coats Are Radically Reduced

MR. HOOVER.

The statement put forth by Mr. HERBERT HOOVER leaves the public as wise as it was before upon the point of his party fellowship, whether he is a Democrat or a Republican. "I "decline to pledge my vote blind-"fold," he says. That is, indeed, "a prerogative of American citizenship," and Mr. HOOVER'S fellow-citizens will think the better of him for exercising it. His high reputation and the esteem in which he is held rest upon the solid ground of his achievements. He has shown himself to be an uncommonly capable executive by his notable success in the great and difficult work of European relief. He is an organizer of the Goethals type, he gets things done. It is a pleasure to know that, beyond all that, he holds himself and his vote in sufficiently high respect to insist on knowing what parties and candidates stand for before pledging his support.

Mr. HOOVER is "not a candidate." Nevertheless, friends and admirers are trying to make him a candidate. They are, for the most part, men—and women—of small experience in politics. They appear to have persuaded themselves that the old parties are so far disorganized and things political so much upset that Mr. HOOVER might be nominated by either party, or by both, or by neither, and be elected, as it were, ex proprio vigore. Persons who hold that view are either quite new to the business of politics or else they imagine themselves to be gifted with powers of insight and foresight far beyond the having of old hands at the game. We have a suspicion that it is a little of both; also that they have a poor opinion of all the Democrats and Republicans thus far put forward for the nomination and really believe that if the eyes of the people can once be directed upon Mr. HOOVER they will instantly see that he overtops them all.

Having such confidence in their candidate, his supporters will, of course, expect him to be subjected to the test he applies to others. The people will not pledge their votes "blindfold" to Mr. HOOVER. It happens that they know less about him than about any other of the dozen or more Democrats and Republicans now considered to be fairly entered in the Presidential lists. Americans who come to the fore in pre-convention campaigns usually—almost invariably—are men who have been long and much in the public eye—Governors, Senators, Congressmen, at any rate men of political leadership. It will be an arduous undertaking—and the time is short—for Mr. HOOVER to make the people as well acquainted with his views upon public questions and national policies as they were with the views of Mr. WILSON, Mr. TAFT, Mr. ROOSEVELT, Mr. MCKINLEY, or Mr. CLEVELAND.

In his statement he does declare for the ratification of the Treaty with reservations "necessary to clarify the world's mind" as to our Constitution and our traditions. That is definite. He believes in two parties and no more, in party organization, but not in party bosses. That, too, is definite and sound. But what shall be said of this?

> I could not vote for a party if it were dominated by groups who seek to set aside our Constitutional guarantees for free speech or free representation, who hope to re-establish control of the Government for profit and privilege. I could not vote with a party if it were dominated by groups who hope for any form of socialism, whether it be nationalization of industry or other destruction of individual initiative. Both these extremes, camouflaged or open, are active enough in the country today.

Mr. HOOVER balances one of these extremes against the other. To his eye, does the beam of the scale hang level? Does he really believe that there is in this country any group threatening the constitutional guarantees of free speech or free representation that is for a moment to be compared with the large and thoroughly organized groups that are planning not merely the nationalization of industry but the destruction of the Government and the overthrow of the social system? If it be his opinion that we confront two tendencies of equal menace, he is very ill-informed. To be "talked of" for the Presidency an American should be able to see and understand what is going on in his country. He feels that it is the hope of the great majority of Americans that on the issues of "this new period" "the great parties will take positive stands." We trust they will be much more positive than Mr. HOOVER'S attitude upon the supreme issue of the very life of the Government.

"Those who know me know that "I am able to make up my mind when "a subject is clearly defined," says Mr. HOOVER in his statement. It is his disadvantage that most of his competitors in this contest—if he really be one of the contestants, a title he disclaims—have been long in public life. In their minds the chief issues of policy are already "clearly defined," although they may not all be as frank, candid and lucid as Dr. BUTLER, for instance, in giving public expression to their views. This is nothing to Mr. HOOVER'S discredit. His preoccupations in the cause of humanity have left him little leisure to acquire that intimate acquaintance with the thousand questions of interest and policy and expediency that men in public affairs are expected to possess. He is "not a candidate," but he stands too high in the confidence, the esteem and the admiration of the American people to take such risks of error, of doing the wrong thing, as many of his friends fear he might take under the persuasions of admirers whose zeal in his cause exceeds their political knowledge and experience. Being groomed for the Presidential race is a perilous adventure.

THE ONLY OBSTACLE.

A Republican Senator "who did not care to be named" said to the Washington correspondent of THE TIMES on Sunday: "The Treaty question "could be settled by the Senate in a "single afternoon but for one man. "I have reference to the President of "the United States."

Thus stiff-necked obstinacy obstructs every effort to make this a good Republican world. Such is Mr. WILSON'S stubbornness that it probably never occurred to him that if he would withdraw from the contest in October, 1916, Mr. HUGHES would be elected quite early in the morning. Anybody can see that Mr. TAFT would not have been defeated in 1912 if Mr. WILSON and Colonel ROOSEVELT had not obstinately held the field against him.

It is not true that the President or any Democrat stands in the way of ratification. Mr. LODGE now has the Treaty in his own hands; the dead restored to life, to be slain again or saved. The chief controverted point is the wording of the reservation in respect to Article X. Mr. WILSON approves the reservation proposed by Senator HITCHCOCK, which differs not one iota in force and effect from that drawn by Mr. LODGE. It is cast in more seemly language, that is all.

President WILSON will not stand out against a form of ratification that is not an affront to the nations that fought with us against Germany and now hope for our help in giving the world an assurance of enduring peace. He knows that the country wants the Treaty put in force. A little regard for the common decencies of intercourse between nations will remove all obstacles to ratification.

PREPAREDNESS AND SNOW.

Sympathy for Mayor HYLAN and appreciation of the difficulties that resulted from the present shortage of labor should not be allowed to obscure the fact that New York is no longer a village, that the expedients of the Village Improvement Society are obsolete.

Owners of corner lots did not respond in any great numbers to his exhortation "that they recognize their moral responsibility" to keep the crossings clear. Business houses employing trucks did not, in any adequate measure, succeed in inducing their employes to make a Saturday-to-Tuesday holiday of clearing the city streets. Neither the owners of private motor cars nor business houses employing trucks proved altogether amenable to his order that they keep their vehicles under cover. On Sunday Commissioner MACSTAY found that "passing traffic prevented the snow "removers from working 75 or 80 per "cent. of the time." On Monday, with the addition of refractory trucks, conditions were obviously little better.

After all necessary deductions are made, the fact remains that the present blockade of traffic is the result of a lack of preparedness. When the storm broke, the Street Cleaning Department commanded only some 400 men. Auxiliary forces were summoned, but they broke down because the horses were not properly shod. Nothing remained but to call into the vasty deep for the spirits of civic helpfulness—and the spirits did not come. Already the city has suffered four days of virtual paralysis before a storm that can scarcely be dignified by the name of blizzard. Business losses have been incurred which are literally incalculable but which beyond question run high into the millions.

The city administration has been practicing a false economy. That was obvious, or should have been, for months before the storm. Our streets have not even been kept clean. In Fifth Avenue itself papers and dust have accumulated which eddied in the wind and swirled in the faces of pedestrians. In the side streets the rubbage and filth constituted a scandal. The city was unsightly to the strangers within our gates; it was unsanitary to its own inhabitants. And when the storm came the forces that were inadequate to the purposes of health and seemliness broke down grotesquely, pitifully.

At any time from November to March New York is liable to storms. There is but one resource that can master them—a force of men and carts large enough to cope with the snow from the onset. In past years, from the moment the snow ceased to fall in quantity, the department has had a multitude of men at work all night long. That is the modern method and the only method that can insure the city from a repetition of the present calamity. If the general supply of labor is scant, then all the more is there need of a large and well drilled reserve ready to be called into service.

SOCIALIST AIMS.

Through a thousand channels, open or hidden, by means of professionals, of amateurs, of well-intentioned innocents, the poison of socialism is injected into the American body politic. The process of radical "boring in" is by no means confined to great labor organizations. The Socialists are boring into the schools, working among teachers and pupils, boring into the colleges, boring into the churches, boring into the general public by means of widely circulated periodicals and pamphlets and lectures and speeches. Through a misunderstanding of their purposes and of what free speech means in a free country, many generous and hasty persons and organizations manifest a sentimental sympathy with socialism. Thus the forces of conservatism, of allegiance to existing forms of society and government, are divided.

The National Civic Federation has called a conference, to meet in this city on Feb. 16, of various organizations for the purpose of studying and setting forth "the principles, "policy, tactics and objects of the "Socialist movement in this country." It is true, as the statement of the federation says, that the ends of the Socialist propaganda "are served by "the very confusion and lack of "understanding existing in the public "mind as to what socialism is, and "how it would affect industry, labor, "private enterprise, the family, re-"ligion, education or social and "spiritual life."

Many excellent people are encouraging and coddling what must be regarded as a public enemy. The federation shows that, last Spring, "literature" circulated from the national headquarters of the Socialist Party cried for a "dictatorship of the proletariat" and that "whether or "not blood is spilled depends upon the "tyrants of today." The alien NUORTEVA, well known in this city as an official representative of LENIN and TROTZKY and, like the still better-known MARTENS, a principal official propagandist of Bolshevism in the United States, was nominated by the Socialist Party of America its delegate to the International Congress. MARTENS, an enemy alien, joined the American Socialist Party on his arrival in New York in 1916, and many "locals" greeted him on his appointment as Soviet "Ambassador" to the United States. In March the International Communist Congress of the Bolsheviki at Moscow named DEBS, now in jail for advocating resistance to the draft, President of the Soviet Republic of the United States.

These are concrete illustrations of the aims of socialism. From them and various excerpts from Socialist platforms, official Socialist organs and utterances of Socialist leaders, the federation has collected a mass of information which justifies it in asking if the objects of socialism and of Bolshevism are not the same. We hope that all merely sentimental and second-hand Socialists or sympathizers with socialism will study socialism at first hand, and discover what it is, what it seeks, how far it differs, if it differs, from its franker sisters, Bolshevism and I. W. W.-ism. The conference will be a public service.

A "CLEAN" PEACE.

Mr. ASQUITH regards the peace terms imposed upon Germany and Austria as "not statesmanship," "not common sense," and, worst of all, "not that clean peace which "meant a peace that would end war; "that all of us, without distinction of "party, were clamoring for eighteen "months ago." "All of us" is perhaps a large statement; the phrase "a clean peace" originated in the days when "liberals," who were by no means certain that they could lower themselves by agreeing with persons whom they believed of less intellect, were demanding "a restatement of war aims." A clean peace was usually regarded by these gentlemen as a peace without victory; or, if the original Adam were too strong in them to stomach that idea in its naked form, a peace in which we should have the name of victory and nothing else.

It is indeed true that, while the war was on, all of us were clamoring for "a peace that would end war." All of us would clamor for it today if there were any longer a conviction that it could be obtained. The painful events of the last eighteen months have somewhat dashed our hopes of being able to reform humanity this year. All of us wish to end war, all of us know its horrors, but few of us have sufficient faith in human nature to believe that any given set of arrangements will make war impossible; and the plan which might have done a good deal to make wars less frequent has been mishandled. We did not get and we could not have got a peace that would end war. We wanted it so badly that we once thought it possible; but we have learned something since then.

When he gets down to particulars Mr. ASQUITH is more convincing, especially when he says that the great defect of the Treaty is that it leaves Germany's liability undefined. It was evident from the day the terms were made public that the hundred billion marks in gold mentioned in the Treaty represented the maximum of probable recovery, and the wise men in Germany probably knew that as well as anybody. But the failure to name a total indemnity gave encouragement to the effort to escape payment of any indemnity. German unwillingness to work, German determination to fulfill none of the terms of the Treaty that can be shirked and the general economic stagnation due to the delay in getting back to a peace basis are chiefly responsible for the probability that the Germans will not be able to pay so much as was expected.

Mr. ASQUITH admits that Germany ought to pay a great deal. The Germans do not admit it, nor do very many of those who shouted for the "clean peace." Mr. ASQUITH did not carry that idea so far as the "intellectuals" in private life, but among most of them a clean peace meant a peace that would leave France and Belgium crippled and Germany intact. Their motive was not in all cases, perhaps not in most cases, friendliness toward Germany; intellectual and moral laziness and a conviction that they would lose caste by failing to disagree with the majority had more to do with it. But the clean peace in the interest of which war aims were to be restated was a peace which should leave the wicked flourishing like a green bay tree and ready to finish in peaceful trade competition the ruin that had been begun in war. Whatever disappointments the execution of the peace terms has already brought and will still bring, we shall fortunately escape that particular sort of cleanliness.

BUILDING ON ILLUSIONS.

The semi-official British press is much distressed with the French Premier, who is accused of "building on illusions" in his Russian policy. M. MILLERAND had expressed his doubts about the peace made with the Bolsheviki by Esthonia, and reiterated the determination of France to stand by Poland. "British opinion," according to The London Chronicle, which now appears to reflect, so far as any agency is equal to that task, the mind of Mr. LLOYD GEORGE, "approves the Esthonian peace." One wonders whether this approval is a dispassionate agreement with the Esthonian point of view, or whether it is based on the relation of the Esthonian peace to British commercial interests. British opinion, we learn further, would certainly favor support to Poland "if "the Bolsheviki refused her proper "terms; but as they do not" Poland is to get no support if she insists on fighting.

This is perhaps somewhat vague; but dispatches from Paris last week reported some details of the difference between British and French opinion on the support that should be given to Poland. The French favored provision of war material sufficient to enable the Polish army to beat back the Bolsheviki if attacked; Mr. LLOYD GEORGE evidently still feared a Polish march on Moscow, and thought that it would be better to wait and see if the Bolsheviki attacked the Poles. It is indeed sound statesmanship to discourage a Polish offensive, which could at present have no particular effect except uniting Russia behind LENIN; though it is rather surprising to find it discouraged by Mr. LLOYD GEORGE, who has recently given evidence of a belief that Russia ought to be weakened so far as possible. But if the allied Governments tell the Poles that an offensive would be unwise the Poles are not likely to try it. If war material sufficient to defend Poland is supplied, the Poles can be trusted to use it only for defense.

Mr. LLOYD GEORGE would wait and see if they are attacked. If the Poles are left without munitions in the meantime it would then be too late to help Poland; the Red army would be in Warsaw and menacing Prague and Berlin by the time Mr. LLOYD GEORGE decided that Polish morality deserved his approval. One can hardly suppose that hostility to Poland is behind all this, though in view of Mr. LLOYD GEORGE'S attitude on the question of Danzig the Poles may be excused for suspecting some such motive; but just at present the British Government seems to insist on believing all the promises of the Bolsheviki and distrusting the promises of everybody else.

In America, where a friendly ear was too long given to Bolshevist professions which were belied by performance, we should perhaps throw no stones at the glass house next door; but our experience might have been educative to others. The London Daily News, speaking the radical-pacifist view which is perhaps as influential as the opinion of business men who want to use the Esthonian ports, calls the recent reversal of Russian policy a "return to reason." So it is, if one believes the recent professions of Bolshevist leaders; and if they are true; but if we believe what those leaders have over and over, again stated as the cardinal doctrines of their faith, at a time when they had nothing to gain by concealing them, the new Russian policy is truly built on illusions. Bolshevism has not worked in Russia. It has exhausted the accumulation of generations, and now must have more fuel. That fuel must be bought outside, or won outside by fighting. Since the Bolsheviki have a good deal of gold, for the present it suits them to buy it; when they have bought all they can pay for it will be time to fight.

COST OF UNIVERSAL TRAINING.

Representative MONDELL, the Republican floor leader, objects to universal military training solely on the ground that it would cost too much, $700,000,000 a year. The presumption is that if his figures are wrong and greatly in excess of estimates carefully prepared by the War Department, he will not persist in his opposition. The practical value of the system as an insurance against war he would not deny. Chairman JULIUS KAHN of the Military Affairs Committee asserts that the annual cost of universal training would be $131,000,000. He explains:

> Under the plan for universal training as proposed in the Senate bill it will cost about $34 per man per month while he is at the camps, or a total for 600,000 men of about $20,400,000 per month. If the training period shall be four months the total cost would be $81,000,000. Say we add $50,000,000 for possible contingencies, and the total cost of the training will be in the neighborhood of $131,000,000.

These figures did not originate with Chairman KAHN. In a speech in this city on Jan. 31 Senator WADSWORTH said that "by providing for the grad-"ual reduction of the size of the reg-"ular army establishment we will "save $120,000,000, while the uni-"versal training feature, according "to the estimates of the War De-"partment, will cost $130,000,000." Today the sum of $1,800 a year, he said, was spent upon a soldier of the regular army. Mr. WADSWORTH calculates that at the end of six years the country would be paying under the citizen army plan of the Senate Reorganization bill only $176 a year to train, equip and support a soldier. Meanwhile, the regular army would be reduced to a minimum.

Mr. KAHN thinks that the cost of $1,800 a year for an enlisted man—during the war it was $2,000—can now be reduced to $1,600. So much the better for the establishment of a system of universal training. If it can be maintained at a cost far below Mr. MONDELL'S estimate, the cry of economy loses most of its force, and some other objections not as creditable will have to be urged against universal training. It is significant that of 2,000 temporary officers recently discharged from the United States Army 1,868 were in favor of a citizen army, according to a questionnaire filled out by them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

More Than Acquittal Is Demanded.

There is to be drawn, and there should be drawn, from the testimony given and the verdict reached in the court-martial of Captain KARL W. DETZER another conclusion in addition to the entirely proper one that this officer was innocent of the crimes with which he was charged. The conclusion of his innocence, indeed, must have been formed in most minds long before the trial was ended, for from the beginning it was obvious that the accusations were made by some of the least worthy men to be found in the American armies, and, though it would be pleasant to believe that all the men in those armies were heroes of virtues all compound, as a matter of fact men of every kind were included. What can be believed is that the unworthy were only a minute fraction of the whole number—almost as rare as the cowards, and everybody, especially the Germans, knows that there were few of those—and in as out of the army such men act after their kind.

A considerable number of the worst men in the Expeditionary Forces came, naturally, to the disciplinary camps, and, as naturally, the restraints to which they were subjected excited their bitter animosity. Almost inevitably they plotted revenge. They knew that any stories about the maltreatment of American soldiers by their officers would excite the attention of all and the hasty indignation of the unthinking, and one result of that knowledge was the bringing of numerous charges against Captain DETZER, ranging from mere harshness of discipline up to the assaulting and robbing of wounded men.

Evidence is not necessarily untrue, of course, because it comes from witnesses of low character, but when, as in this instance, it comes from none others, then the lack of corroboration deprives it of value to the point of rendering it almost negligible. Such, evidently, was the opinion of the members of the court-martial, and the Captain's acquittal was prompt and complete.

Perjurers Should Be Punished.

With his honor as a soldier and a man brilliantly vindicated, Captain DETZER presumably is content. For the good of the service, however, and in order to prove that not with impunity can false charges against army officers be made under oath, there should be further proceedings of some sort against the witnesses who, by the court-martial's verdict, in effect are convicted of forming and executing an elaborate conspiracy to disgrace and ruin an innocent man. The Captain's acquittal can mean nothing except that the witnesses against him committed deliberate and intentional perjury, and that they did it to punish him for doing his duty.

A baser motive than theirs cannot be conceived, and acts such as theirs should not be treated with a lenience that will encourage repetition by others with like grievances and a like inclination to avenge them.

In every such case it should be remembered that nothing was easier than for a soldier to keep out of the disciplinary camps. He had only to behave himself with common decency and to observe the rules and regulations that every good soldier recognized and obeyed as reasonable and necessary to military efficiency. Not all the prisoners were guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors, and some of them had done good work on the firing line, but it was not the best but the worst of them that conspired against their jailer.

Pleading Against a Removal.

An American officer whose own brother was killed in France has written to a brother officer a letter asking him to do what he can in opposition to the bringing back of our soldier dead for burial at home. The writer of the letter recognizes the difficulty and the delicacy involved in antagonizing a plan that has the favor of so many estimable people, whose feelings and desires are entirely natural and comprehensible. Indeed, he says that his own parents are among those demanding the removal, but he, knowing as he does from personal observation the circumstances that necessarily marked the hurried burial of great numbers of soldiers, is strongly convinced that for many and excellent reasons they should be allowed to sleep forever where they are.

In the case of his own family, he dreads the reopening of a wound that the hand of time has begun to close, and he views with apprehension the awakening of sorrow all over the country that inevitably would follow the arrival here, and the distribution to all our towns and villages, of the thousands and thousands of coffins now in the well-kept and highly honored cemeteries of France.

Realizing and sympathizing with the wish of close relatives to visit the graves of their dead, the writer of this letter makes the new and interesting suggestion that, as not all can afford to make the journey to France for the accomplishment of this pious and consoling duty, the Government provide the means for doing it for those of scanty resources when the request is made by those clearly entitled to receive them. Some doubts as to the practicality of that plan at once come to mind, but, as the writer of the letter says, the cost would not surpass, if it equaled, that of exhumation, shipment and reburial here, and it would put all of the bereaved on a level in this particular respect.

He Wasted a Chance to Convince.

When Sir OLIVER LODGE revealed to his auditors, Sunday evening, that an invisible thread connected his wand with the box over which he waved it and explained the movements that seemed to result from his "passes," he presumably inflicted a cruel disappointment on not a few of them. For the "manifestation" or "demonstration," if left a mystery, would have been quite as convincing of spiritistic or supernormal influences as are the phenomena that serve the credulous as proof at séances, and the true believers will not be grateful to Sir OLIVER for showing them one of the devices that doubtless often have been used for their deception.

Perhaps the purpose of the distinguished visitor was to show that he is something of a prestidigitator himself and therefore not likely to be fooled by juggling tricks. Some such evidence, indeed, is needed. He is right, however, in denying that because what the "mediums" do can be duplicated by "magicians," therefore there are no "spirit controls." The exposers certainly err in logic on that point, but, on the other hand, they do not err in their claim that their powers of duplication put the burden of proof on their antagonists and are not to be dismissed as irrelevant.

Non-Partisan League Results.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Being myself a native of that part of the country, I was particularly interested in Mr. Selden's enlightening article some weeks ago in THE TIMES relative to the activities of the Non-Partisan League, of which I happen to know something myself. I was also interested in the complaint made by one of the officers of the league that Mr. Selden was woefully inaccurate.

It is with considerable pleasure that I submit a letter written to a friend of mine who is the owner of a farm in North Dakota, and who would like to sell it. I do not give the name of the writer, as he might be persecuted by the league people. The letter is dated Feb. 2, and reads:

"In reply to your letter of Jan. 21, will say that real estate of yours has no value at the present time at all. There has been no land changing hands here for the last two years. Our politics here stopped land sales altogether. Land that sold for $25 up to $40 now could be bought for $10 and $15 if you could find a buyer. You had better look out for the Non-Partisan League in your State."

The league is making progress in other States, but from all the evidence I can get North Dakota is willing to give up its share in it to gratify the yearnings of those States which still long to try it out.

A. M. ADAMS.

VOICES.

"Great constitutions, brought to hasty birth,
Sheer madness must imply!"
(Where weary millions wait, in cruel dearth,
The hours go shuddering by,
And borne afar on all the winds of earth,
Appeals their hunger-cry.)

"Beware in every move, lest, ere we know,
Great Britain overreach!"
(Did England's breast between us and the foe
No deeper lesson teach?
Will she forego our friendship, now we know
Our value, each to each?)

"Old precedents are safe. We but invite
New peril with new ways."
(We stand alone, while enemies unite—
We prate of elder days.
Unheeded beacons flame on every height.
The mad world is ablaze.)

"Unaided and alone, we challenge Fate,
And count our danger small!"
(Did ever pride and insolence more great
Go boasting to a fall?
Who, vaunting, flouts all human aid, too late
On heaven at last may call!)

"Our destiny is here. Shall we assume
The burden of the race?"
(Half blind and bleeding, in a deeper gloom,
Her path more hard to trace,
The sick Earth totters, reeling to her doom,
And hides a stricken face.)

SIGN SPITZBERGEN TREATY.

Wallace Joins In Act for Giving Islands to Norway.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The treaty by which Norway receives sovereignty over the Spitzbergen archipelago was signed in the Clock Hall of the Foreign Ministry this afternoon.

Hugh C. Wallace, the American Ambassador to France, signed the treaty for the United States; H. A. Bernhoft, Danish Minister to France, for Denmark; Alexandre Millerand, the French Premier, for France; Carlo Ferraris, Italian representative in the League of Nations, for Italy; Baron Matsui, Japanese Ambassador to France, for Japan; Baron Wedel Jarlsberg, Norwegian Minister to France, for Norway; Jonkheer J. Loudon, for the Netherlands and Count Ehrensvaard, Swedish Minister to France, for Sweden.

The Earl of Derby, British Ambassador to France, who is in London, will append his signature at the meeting of the Council of Ambassadors tomorrow.

PREMIER STARTLES CLERKS.

Millerand Takes 'English Breakfast' at His Foreign Office Desk.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Premier Millerand has caused a mild sensation at the Foreign Office, of which he is in charge, by taking what is known to his colleagues as an "English breakfast" at his desk.

The Premier rises at 6 A. M., takes a brisk walk, and at 8 o'clock enters the Foreign Office, where he finds before him a summary of the news from the morning newspapers. After having breakfast, he sets to work, interrupting his activities only for a cup of tea and biscuits at noon.

After a rest of fifteen minutes, he again resumes work, continuing until 8 P. M., when he has dinner with his family. He then goes over his correspondence in his study and does not retire until midnight.

SILESIAN MISSION STARTS.

The commission will govern the province and organize the plebiscite to be held there. Colonel Percival represents Great Britain on the commission, while General Bicigliano is the Italian representative.

URGES AIR MAIL SERVICE.

Postal Official Urges Senators to Overrule House Objections.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Retention of the airplane mail service, for which the House refused to provide funds, was urged before the Senate Post Office Committee today by Second Assistant Postmaster General Praeger. He asked that $3,400,000 be provided for service on routes from New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Detroit, Washington, Cleveland, Toledo, St. Louis, Atlanta, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and that other funds be provided for private airplane mail contracts on branch routes.

Stating that the air service expedites mail to Chicago by sixteen hours, and to San Francisco by twenty-four hours, Mr. Praeger denied statements of its critics regarding mail flight failure, declaring that the service had been 90 per cent. efficient, with only forty-four failures in 600 flights during the last six months.

A powerful mail plane, Mr. Praeger stated, was being developed to carry mail over the mountains to San Francisco, and a new British triplane would be tried out between Chicago and Omaha.

For the first time in this country snow skids are being used on mail planes, Mr. Praeger stated, to facilitate landings.

PUTNAM ATTACKS SENATORS

Says Prejudice, Ignorance, and Stupidity Delay Peace Treaty.

Major George Haven Putnam, the publisher, speaking at the twenty-fifth annual dinner of the Booksellers' League at the Park Avenue Hotel last night, said that America was shamefully late in doing her part for the peace of the world, just as she was late in entering the war. The blame for her present position he placed upon the Senators, who, he said, do not know their responsibilities.

Having been introduced by Robert E. Sherwood, the President, as the gentleman who has been going about "lodging complaints about a man named Lodge," Major Putnam referred to "an irresistible force meeting an immovable body." The irresistible force, he said, was the righteous purpose of the world, and the immovable body consisted of "prejudice, ignorance, stupidity, and the Senators who do not know their responsibility. When this force of higher ideals and better knowledge meets the immovable body, the latter will be dissipated into thin air."

It was recalled by Charles A. Burkhardt, who organized the society, that Major Putnam had spoken at its first dinner in 1896. Other speakers last night were Benjamin H. Ticknor of Boston, P. Whitwell Wilson, and Mrs. A. Growoll, widow of the late publisher of the Publishers' Weekly.

FREE SEEDS WIN AS USUAL.

House Members Won't Give Up Their Distribution Privilege.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Friends of free seed won their annual fight, as usual, in the House today by defeating, 130 to 71, a motion to eliminate from the Agricultural bill an appropriation of $230,000 for seed distribution to their constituents at Government expense.

An amendment to increase the appropriation was rejected and an attempt to have the seed distributed by the Department of Agriculture and not on franks by Senators and Representatives, was ruled out of order.

There was an hour's debate, described "as an hour of farm yard vaudeville." Representative Quin, Democrat, of Mississippi, brought a roar from members by declaring that the motion to eliminate the appropriation "would take fresh vegetables from the mouths of poor little children." Other members said the people would rather have free seeds than free speeches.

TALK OF HIGHER COAL PRICES

Strike Settlement Board to Inquire Into Claims of Operators.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Protests of many bituminous operators that they are incurring a loss under the present maximum fixed prices and the 14 per cent. wage increases to miners led the Coal Strike Settlement Commission today to decide on appointment of a special committee to begin the compilation of data bearing on the necessity for a readjustment of these prices in all fields.

Announcing that the purpose of the committee was solely to facilitate consideration of the price question by the commission, Chairman Robinson emphasized that the commission was yet without authority to order any readjustment of prices. Such authority, he said, would be asked for only if the commission finally concluded that new price levels were necessary.

Appointment of the committee was accepted by some as an indication that the commission thought a readjustment of prices to the public might be included in its final settlement.

HYLAN URGES EASIER PATH TO TEACHING

Wants Graduates of Teachers' Training School Licensed Without Further Test.

SYSTEM UNFAIR, HE SAYS

Asserts Board of Examiners Rejects Hundreds—Criticises Talk of Shortage—Requests New Law.

Mayor Hylan yesterday wrote a letter to Corporation Counsel Burr renewing his insistence that students who had passed through the Teachers' Training School here should not be required to pass the additional examination given by the Board of Examiners before they were allowed to teach in the public schools. The Mayor contends that if the candidate is graduated from the Teachers' School she ought to be eligible for license without further examination and he suggests a revision of the laws so that this idea may be accepted. The Mayor in his letter says:

"Last year, during the time the Legislature was in session, and again this year, there has been a great deal of agitation about the shortage of teachers. This has for its purpose, of course, the question of increased salaries for those who have received their diplomas."

After stating that a prospective teacher, after her Training School examination, must take another examination by the Board of Examiners, the Mayor continues:

"It is unfair to the girl who has successfully passed her high school and Training School examinations, and unfair to her parents, who in most cases have stinted themselves in the necessities of life in order to equip their daughter for her chosen profession.

Says Hundreds Are Rejected.

"Hundreds of young women, although fully qualified to teach by their long years of study, are denied their final certificates by this Board of Examiners. Does not common sense seem to indicate that any girl, after six years' extensive training for her chosen profession, should be permitted to receive a teacher's certificate without further examination at the hands of a specially constituted board?

"Will you take this matter up carefully with the President of the Board of Education and have a bill prepared which will meet this situation? I feel that if this added examination, which in my judgment is not necessary, were eliminated there would be no question as to a full complement of teachers for our schools."

In his memorandum last year on the Lockwood-Fertig bill providing for the increase of teachers' pay Mayor Hylan wrote that "if the antiquated Board of Examiners were dispensed with and the students who graduated from the high school and the Teachers' Training School were allowed to teach without a further examination there would be thousands of additional teachers."

This caused Walter L. Hervey, then Chairman of the Board of Examiners, to write a letter to THE TIMES setting forth his views, and he said yesterday that whatever comment he might make on the Mayor's last letter would merely be repetition.

Only the Unfit Debarred.

Mr. Hervey wrote last year:

"The examinations conducted by this board for the license in question are of such a nature as to debar only persons so ignorant of school subjects and methods of teaching or so faulty in their use of the English language as to be distinctly unfit to serve and draw pay as teachers. Moreover, it is not true that great numbers of Training School graduates are finally rejected by the Board of Examiners. Many are sometimes rejected in the first instance for cause, but few indeed fail to reach the standard in time."

The Board of Examiners has no figures available to show the percentage of rejections of Training School graduates or of the numbers rejected recently. Besides Mr. Hervey the other members of the board are Jerome A. O'Connell, who is now Chairman under the rotation of the office, James C. Byrnes and George J. Smith.

Other officials in the public school system pointed out yesterday that students found unfit for teachers' work ought to be dropped from the training course as soon as their unfitness became apparent. If no unfit persons were graduated, they said, there would be no necessity for the examiners to inquire into the fitness of the alumni of the training school.

There are now about 300 teachers on the eligible list awaiting appointments in the elementary schools.

Anning S. Prall, President of the Board of Education, has been ill for several days, but he will consider the Mayor's proposal tomorrow, when he returns to his desk. No comment could be obtained from William L. Ettinger, Superintendent of Schools, who was away from his office yesterday afternoon on official business.

WASHINGTON'S SEAL $1,600.

His Silver Punch Ladle Used at Inauguration Brings $1,000.

Washington's silver punch ladle used at the time of his inauguration as President, engraved with his initials, brought the second highest price, also going to Mr. Smith for $1,000. At the time of Washington's inauguration he was presented with a silver service and many other pieces of silver, William Lanier Washington explains in a note, all of which had been dispersed with the exception of this ladle. It was presented by Washington to his nephew, Colonel William Augustine Washington, who gave it to his son, the greatgrandfather of the present Mr. Washington.

A gold ring with Washington's coat of arms cut in cornelian, presented by Washington to his nephew, Colonel William Augustine Washington, went to Mr. Smith for $550, and the same buyer paid $300 for a contemporary miniature of Washington, a three-quarter-length figure in velvet State costume, with a sword, painted on marble, by Archibald Robertson.

EVIDENCE FOR EINSTEIN.

Sir Frank Dyson Sees It in Airmen's Unconscious Upsets.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Sir Frank Dyson, the Astronomer Royal, lecturing at the Royal Institution on Saturday, referred to reports received in the course of the war that airmen flying at great heights found themselves upside down without knowing it immediately, and remarked that, according to the Einstein theory of gravitation, this flying upside down without being aware of it was quite natural.

An aviator, he said, could not in his machine detect the difference between gravitational force and the force provided by his machine when he was deprived of his means of observation.

BRIDGE IS POPULAR PASTIME OF SOCIETY

BIG ASSEMBLY OF PLAYERS

Many Hostesses at Auction Bridge at Plaza in Aid of Brook Committee of Art War Relief.

Bridge has become the popular pastime of society. During the war the game waned, but it has been taken up this Winter with renewed activity.

Every season in New York has had its fad, but as nothing original came up this year, society has gone back to bridge. No entertainment is staged now without a side attraction of bridge, and it is becoming even more popular than dancing, especially with the older set.

The auction bridge yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Plaza brought out a large assembly. The affair was held for the benefit of the Book Committee of the Art War Relief. Long before the day arrived all the tables had been reserved.

Among those who entertained parties at bridge were Mrs. Ryle Strange, Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mrs. J. C. Lefferts, Mrs. Benjamin Tilt, Mrs. Willoughby Smith, Mrs. Edward H. Andrews, Mrs. Edwin Spear, Mrs. Henry Lowe and Mrs. Frederic Van Lennep.

Because of mourning, Mrs. John Lewis Griffiths, Chairman of the Book Committee, could not attend. After bridge, tea was served by débutantes, including the Misses Olive Gawtrey, Katherine Sharpe, Sylvia Hillhouse, Katharine Post, Barbara Kissel, Betty Chisholm and Dorothy Collins.

Mrs. Adelaide B. Cushing was head of the Entertainment Committee. The program included dancing. The funds will go to establish children's libraries and reading rooms in France and Belgium.

Knights of Columbus Realize Several Thousand Dollars at the Astor.

A number of the councils of the Knights of Columbus and the auxiliary organizations were among the bidders, and others who took boxes were Clarence Mackay. Miss Anne Morgan and Mrs. William R. Hearst. Frank Keenan acted as auctioneer, and before the bidding motion pictures of the work of the K. of C. in France were shown.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the ball, which will be the first since the return of all the war workers. PATRIC

ARMY OFFICERS TELL OF MEXICAN RAIDS

BORDER MUST BE GUARDED

Otherwise, They Say, American Civilians Cannot Live on This Side of the Big Bend.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 9.—The Senate committee that is investigating the Mexican situation heard today the army's official story of the Big Bend of Texas, into which there have been more Mexican incursions in the last four years than in any other part of the border.

The witnesses were Col. George T. Langhorne, Capt. W. V. D. Ochs and Capt. Leonard F. Matlack, all of the 8th Cavalry. These officers testified that never in a single instance, that they could recall, had the Mexican military or civil authorities rendered to them of their comrades any assistance in combating the activities of the numerous Mexican bands that have raided the Big Bend, always stealing and on scores of occasions committing murder and other desperate crimes.

They all gave testimony showing that often Carranza's own men were concerned in these raids, at least two of the best-known of the bandit leaders, Chicao Cana and Jose Estrella, being captains in the Mexican Army. Estrella has been killed, but Cano is still exercising command near Ojinaga.

If the regular army troops were withdrawn, these officers were agreed that it would be impossible for American citizens to continue to occupy their homes on the American side of the Big Bend. In October, 1918, it was testified that an order was issued to the American troops not to pursue bandits and other outlaws into Mexico. Immediately thereafter the Mexicans began to raid more than ever, and when they reached safety in Mexico would send back insulting messages to the Americans. The order was soon countermanded, and Colonel Langhorne resumed his over-the-border operations against the murderers and thieves who participated in the raids into American territory.

Colonel Langhorne in the course of his testimony told of organizing what was known as the Big Bend Automobile Reserve Patrol. Every ranchman in the Big Bend who owned an automobile belonged. On Christmas Day, 1917, when Brite's ranch was raided, the automobile column which transported the troops to the relief of that ranch was on the way with two troops of soldiers within fifteen minutes after Colonel Langhorne gave the order to mobilize.

"The troops found the trail of the Mexicans," said Colonel Langhorne, "and following them into Mexico, came in contact with the raiders five miles on the Mexican side of the river. One of the men killed on this side was in the uniform of the Carranza Army. In the battle in Mexico our men killed all of the bandits, according to our reports."

In telling the story of the capture and subsequent ransoming of the aviators, Peterson and Davis, the Colonel said the $15,000 to ransom those officers was contributed in less than five minutes by the Big Bend ranchmen who were attending a religious camp meeting near Marfa.

Captain Ochs, who commanded at Presidio, Texas, opposite Ojinaga, during 1918 and 1919, followed his Colonel. He participated in various expeditions into Mexico from the Big Bend, and was in charge of that district, of which Presidio is the centre. He was the officer brought into closest contact with the Carranza commanders in the Mexican Big Bend.

"In maintaining law and order in your sector, did you receive any assistance from the Mexican civil or military authorities?" asked Senator Fall.

"Absolutely none from the military and very little from the civil authorities," replied Captain Ochs.

"What was your procedure in following these raiders?"

"When I caught them on this side I used my own best judgment. When I crossed into Mexico I obeyed orders from Colonel Langhorne. I had to be careful in my particular section as the Carranza district headquarters were opposite my station and we did not wish to come into a clash with them if we could help it."

"What would have been the conditions in the Big Bend in 1918 and 1919 had the troops been withdrawn?" asked Senator Fall.

"A veritable hell. It would have been impossible for the Americans to remain in the district."

Captain Leonard F. Matlack, who was known in the Big Bend as the "King of Candelaria," was the next witness. In the Candelaria district Captain Matlack was Judge, Coroner, District Attorney and Military Dictator.

"In the Candelaria country the American soldier," said Captain Matlack, "was the only law figure. There were no Justices of the Peace or other officials. I settled all the troubles. I even handled some divorce cases, and never in a single instance was my decision disputed, nor was it ever necessary to use a single soldier in enforcing our regulations.

"The first thing that happened when I went on duty in the Big Bend," said Captain Matlack, "was one night when seventeen poor Mexican women forded the Rio Grand and begged and obtained our help. Every one of them had been outraged on the Mexican side by Mexicans."

HAMMERSTEIN MEMORIAL.

Benefit for a Fund to be Held at the Metropolitan March 30.

Chairman Otto H. Kahn and General Manager Gatti-Casazza of the Metropolitan Opera Company announced yesterday that, "in their desire to pay a fitting tribute to the memory of Oscar Hammerstein," they had placed the Metropolitan Opera House at the disposal of Mrs. Hammerstein for a benefit performance to go toward a memorial to the late impresario, and that his widow had accepted their offer. Originally planned to take place at the 71st Regiment Armory on Sunday, March 28, the benefit will now be held on Tuesday evening, March 30, at the Metropolitan.

Both Messrs. Kahn and Gatti-Casazza are members of the honorary committee of the Oscar Hammerstein Memorial Fund. Artists of the company who have volunteered to serve on the committee are Caruso, Farrar, Alda, Scotti, Amato, Muzio, Ponselle, Martinelli, Luca and De Segurola. The program for the benefit will be in charge of Fortune Gallo.

THE OPERA

By Richard Aldrich

Mary Garden as Thais.

Thais.....Mary Garden
Nicias.....Forrest Lamont
Athanael.....Hector Dufranne
Palemon.....Gustave Huberdeau
Myrtale.....Philine Falco
Crobyle.....Edna Darch
Albine.....Maria Claessens
A Slave of Nicias.....Constantin Nicolay
Conductor—Louis Hasselmans

The Chicago Opera Company arrived at "Thais" last evening in the course of its season at the Lexington Theatre, entering on the third of its five weeks there. Thais, of course, was Miss Mary Garden, it being one of her favorite parts, the one she chose to introduce herself in at the Manhattan Opera House when she first appeared there a dozen years ago. She was successful there and has been since then; and the Chicago Opera Company, having retained the services of Miss Garden ever since, has perforce retained "Thais" in its repertory.

For it can hardly be any stimulating or beautiful qualities of the opera itself that has kept it there. There are extensive strata of dullness and slow solemnity in "Thais" that have to be endured by admirers of Miss Garden's impersonation of the Alexandrian courtesan and her regeneration. There are long canticles of the early Christians; and the early Christians and their canticles on the stage are dull. The brilliant and melodious and dramatically accented music is waited for a good while and does not last long. The "Meditation" is thrown in for good measure, and weighs largely in the scale with all audiences, as it did last night.

Miss Garden's Thais has been much admired. Her litheness and swift and sweeping activity upon the stage, the incessant play of poses—restless it soon gets to be—with which she represents the charm of the courtesan in her unregenerate state, exercise an undeniable attraction upon the audience. Composure and restraint come in the representation of the converted sister and her pious works. Miss Garden's singing of the music is such as has been familiar here since she first appeared.

Miss Garden was much approved and applauded last evening. Her Athanael was Mr. Dufranne, a noble and fervent impersonation skilfully acted—so far as artistic quality was concerned, the central figure of the performance. Gustave Huberdeau did well the comparatively little he had to do as Palemon, Superior of the Cenobites. Forrest Lamont as Nicias did not make all that could be made of the music he sings. Mr. Hasselmans conducted.

GUILD GIVES LITTLE PLAYS.

Workers Present at Princess Theatre Three Seen Here Before.

The Workers' Theatre Guild, the newest manifestation of the little theatre movement hereabouts, last night began a two weeks' engagement at the Princess Theatre with the presentation of three one-act plays. The new group is a body of professional players, headed by Wayne Arey, who was one of Holbrook Blinn's company in the days when that actor also was producing one-act plays at the Princess. The Guild came into being two weeks ago at the theatre of the Provincetown Players in Macdougal Street, and by reason of their success there the players have been moved to try their luck uptown.

The plays which they acted last night have all been seen here before. "The Girl in the Coffin," by Theodore Dreiser, and the dependable "Suppressed Desires" were made familiar by the Washington Square Players, and Ervine's "The Magnanimous Lover" was acted recently by the East-West Players. Last night's players, in addition to Mr. Arey, included Emmet O'Reilly, Edna Porter, Frances Simpson, J. Emmett Driscoll, Vail Hobart, and J. Harry Murtaugh.

Caruso in "Samson et Dalila."

Saint-Saëns's opera, "Samson et Dalila," was repeated before a large audience at the Metropolitan last evening. Signor Caruso singing his accustomed rôle of the vocal strong man, which he has developed among his best. Mme Matzenauer resumed the part of Dalila, and Mr. Whitehill was welcomed for the first time this season as the High Priest, Mardones, Ananian, Dua, and others were in the cast, and Albert Wolff conducted.

Elshuco Trio Heard Again.

Elias Breeskin, Willem Willeke and Aurelio Giorni, artistic players forming the Elshuco Trio, gave their second subscription concert last evening in Aeolian Hall, where an appreciative audience greeted them. Their program brought to new hearing a trio in F minor of Volkmar Andraea, one of those whose works have furnished novelties of chamber music in recent years. It was preceded last night by Brahms's trio in B major, op. 8, and that in G major by Haydn.

MUSIC NOTES.

Mme. Galli-Curci's physician advised the Chicago Opera Company last night that the singer had recovered and could appear tonight in "Lucia."

Geraldine Farrar-Tellegen and her husband occupied a box at Miss Garden's performance in "Thais," at the Lexington, last evening, as did also Mme. Lydia Lipkowska and Captain Bodin.

Olga Carrara's soprano song recital, which was to take place in Aeolian Hall tonight, has been postponed.

Dr. Cadman was the speaker at the first of a series of seven Lenten weekly meetings arranged by the Christian Unity Foundation. This is an organization of the Episcopal Church, but recently it has invited all Christian communions to participate in its activities.

"It is very plain, my brethren, that the question of Christian unity is now taking a very definite place in the Church," said Bishop Edwin S. Lines of the Episcopal Diocese of Newark, N. J., who presided. "I have long had the feeling that if we did not take steps toward Christian unity ourselves we would be forced to do so. And I have the feeling that it is a great deal better to do it ourselves."

The Bishop stated that in holding the Monday afternoon lectures the Christian Unity Foundation, of which he is President, was imitating what had just been done by Anglican leaders in London. He announced that the Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett, now of London, soon would preach in the Lincoln Cathedral.

Dr. Cadman said Christian unity was the method today of restoring order from chaos.

"With a million dirty Protestants in this city I decline to criticise the Roman Catholic brethren," said Dr. Cadman. "We must first wash our own linen."

The clergyman announced that every one should cultivate the spirit of Christian unity. Long ago I ceased to denounce the Roman Catholic Church," he declared.

"Some modern evangelists of a species on one or two occasions have invaded New York who made a habit of denouncing pastors," Dr. Cadman said. "I was once in a meeting of one such, conducted when 150 pastors sat on the platform during one of these outbursts, wearing sickly smiles and pretending they were enjoying it."

Dr. Cadman argued that if there was Church unity Protestant clergymen would not receive such small salaries. He said the wives of these underpaid ministers were greater heroes than the men.

"I submit to you, if the Church of God were unified today the Protestant ministry would regain a position which it lacks," the speaker went on. "The time was when the minister of the town was on the same plane with the Judge.

"This great metropolis we know cannot be 'Anglicized,' 'Romanized,' 'Judaised,' 'Presbyterianised,' or 'Methodised,' but we can indeed Christianize New York. It becomes our duty to go out for the unchurched multitudes."

Edgar Fowlston, Baritone, Appears.

Edgar Fowlston, a baritone formerly of Toronto, introduced himself at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon in a recital of representative songs, assisted by Sara Reynard at the piano, and in an air from "The Messiah," accompanied by Sara S. Freid at the organ. Mr. Fowlston's is not a voice of sensuous beauty or natural power, but he interpreted intelligently two airs of Handel, a group of songs in French, and others in English, including those from Russian composers and from Hungarian folksongs.

What the Lights Showed.

Pointing to the showroom of one of the largest garment houses, the representative of another house called attention to the absence of lights. "They do a business of over $5,000,000 a year," said he, "and when there are plenty of buyers in their showroom all the lights are lit, because the room is dark. There is only one light going now, and that is in the buying office. The answer is, no buyers."

***

Gray Goods Sales Light.

Gray goods trading continued light in the local market yesterday. First hands were entirely out of the market, and the little business that was put through was done by second hands for delivery during the current month. Sheetings and other coarse-yarn cloths, as well as fine-yarn goods and the clothing styles, were very quiet. Among the few printcloth sales recorded during the day were 38½-inch 64-60s at 21¼ cents, 39-inch 68-72s at 25 cents, and 39-inch 72-76s at 23 cents.

***

Unloading of Dress Goods.

From the standpoint of conditions in the garment trade, buyers of dress goods profess to to see an end to inflated prices of materials. The pressure brought to bear by a stubborn public that will not buy at high prices and the action of the banks in reducing loans, it is felt, will sooner or later drive the speculators in dress materials to cover. It is believed that sufficiently large quantities of material are in the hands of this element to affect the whole market if the goods are unloaded.

It's In Children's Hats Now.

There seems to be no end to the uses to which celophane is being put for Spring in the local millinery trade. The latest use of it to come to light is in children's hats, either by itself or in combination with some sort material. One of the leading makers of children's goods is using both fine shiny black celophane braid and light crinkled celophane ribbon. Shredded celophane also is used. Considerable straw is seen in the new models, too, which are trimmed with various flowers, as well as with wheat and grass.

Burlap Demand Lacked Snap.

Very little snap was visible to the demand for burlaps in this market yesterday. In fact, some importers said that even the demand was missing. Prices were nominally firm on the basis of 11½ cents for 40-inch 8-ounce cloths and 17 cents for 10½-ounce "40s." News from Calcutta was not very plentiful, but a rise in jute at Dundee to £70 per ton was told of. Cloth prices in that market also have stiffened considerably in the last week or ten days, which was said to be due very probably to attempts to sustain that market, in trading with this country, in the face of the drop in sterling exchange.

More Knitting Needles Here.

One of the things that have been pestering manufacturers of knit goods for some time—the shortage of needles—is in a fair way to being relieved considerably, if not entirely. Good-sized quantities of German-made latch needles for knitting machines have arrived here and are being distributed, and it is said that many more are to come. A number of manufacturers are obtaining needles through the National Association of Sweater and Knitted Textile Manufacturers, which is understood to be offering them considerably under the prices asked for them in other quarters.

West Gets Cautious, Too.

Although conditions in the Eastern cities for some time have not been all that the women's wear manufacturers desired, the West until a short time ago could be depended upon to furnish good sized orders. Salesmen returning from that section recently, however, have a different story to tell. The orders given lately have fallen far short of expectations, and the retailers for the most part seem to be carrying large stocks of high priced garments they would like to sell. Ordinary reductions, it is said, fail to move these stocks, and the amount of money tied up in them is making the merchants nervous in many instances.

Still Popular Prices.

Popular prices for men's clothing and furnishings still are obtainable, according to the Ben Wiener Company, which conducts a buying and research service for retailers at 1,133 Broadway. A tabulation of prices retailers are willing to pay shows that three quarters of the quotations correspond. The list shows that retailers will pay $18 for overcoats, $22.50 for flannel suits, $25 for serge, $8.50 for cotton mixtures, $20 for worsteds, and $17.50 for fancy cassimeres. In boys suits, the popular price is $5.75, and $8.50 for those with which an extra pair of pants is furnished. In shirts, dress, tub silks are wanted at $48 a dozen, men's percale for $13.50, corded madras at $19.50, chambray work shirts at $10 and flannel work shirts at $21.

Buyers Find Large Stocks.

Despite the early season decision of the stock garment houses not to have merchandise cut up except on order, buyers here on their Spring purchasing trips find there is plenty of goods available. This knowledge is making them even more careful in their purchases, and orders placed are for very meagre amounts. One manufacturer on the present showing expects to fall almost 50 per cent. behind the business of last month. In two weeks the garment trade will have to meet its bills, and there are signs already that many of the smaller houses are willing to reduce their prices in order to get the needed money. The larger houses, it is felt, will not be able to ignore the competition offered by this element and a general unloading is predicted.

Salesmen to Stir Things Up.

The next class of profiteers to find themselves in an unpleasant position will be the class of hotel keepers that have been doing their best for some time to make life more of a burden for traveling salesmen than it is ordinarily. Instances are on record in which salesmen, knowing that they were to be in a certain place on a certain day, have wired ahead for accommodations, only to find on arriving that nothing had been saved for them. The main complaint in cases like this, however, is that it generally happens that rooms really are available but are "let over the salesmen's heads for higher prices than the schedules call for. Even in cases where salesmen finally do get rooms they are literally held up for them. The prevention of this is one of the things which is now before the National Council of Traveling Salesmen's Association for action.

Coal Crisis Past, Says Nixon.

Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon said yesterday that the coal crisis had passed, that the warm weather had made possible the free movement of vessels in the harbor, and that the placing of coal at the head of the priorities list would insure an abundance of coal for the future.

New Insurance Record.

A summary of the annual report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for 1919 shows that more new business was written than was ever written by a similar concern, the total being $1,418,681,492. The income of the company was $254,729,000, an increase over 1918 of more than $54,500,000.

AIDS INCOME TAX PAYERS.

Edwards Answers Queries from Professional Men and Women.

With the time limit for filing income tax returns little more than a month away the office of Internal Revenue Collector Edwards is being flooded with inquiries from professional men and women regarding deductions allowed by law. Collector Edwards said yesterday that he would make every effort to see that the taxpayer got the benefit of all legal deductions. He added:

"An individual's gross income from a profession includes all compensation for his services. Where services are paid for with something other than money, the fair market value of the thing taken in payment is the amount to be included in the income.

"In the case of a salary received, this should be shown separately, in Block B of the return. Salaries of professional men and women who are officers or employes of a State, city, town, or county, are exempt from the Federal income tax. The exemption also applies to fees received by notaries, public officers commissioned by States, and the commissions of receivers appointed in State courts."

Deductions for the cost of supplies used in practice may be made by a professional man as may expenses incurred in the operation and repair of an automobile used in making professional calls, dues to professional societies, subscriptions to professional journals, cost of rent, light, fuel, water, telephone, &c., for office, and the cost of keeping office assistants. Amounts paid for office equipment, furniture, books, &c., may not be deducted. Personal living or family expenses are specifically barred by law from classification as deductions. Further, professional men, particularly doctors, dentists, and lawyers, can make no deduction for bad debts in returns figured on a cash basis.

Atlas Powder Company Reports Readjustment Since the War.

The Atlas Powder Company's statement for 1919 shows in marked fashion the cessation of manufacture of war munitions. The gross sales amounted to $19,107,340, a decline of $16,659,280 or 47 per cent. from the total the year before. The year's net income was $1,660,089, a recession of $802,205. The balance available for common stock dividends after paying dividends on the preferred stock was equal to 22.4 per cent. During the year the dividend was raised from 8 to 12 per cent. on the junior shares.

The report states that the company has practically completed its readjustment from war operations. Business became more active in the last half of the year than in the first in all of the corporation's commodities, including explosives, chemicals, lacquers and leather cloth. The balance sheet shows a total of $6,285,591 of undistributed profits and a reserve of $2,985,574 for depreciation and contingencies. The company's total working assets at the end of the year amounted to $11,562,329.

HOOVER IN SENATE RECORD.

Borah Gets the Statement Printed and Promises to Discuss It.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. — Herbert Hoover's statement that he is not a presidential candidate was put into the Senate record today by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, who said he expected to make a speech about it later.

Senator Thomas, Democrat of Colorado, moved to refer it to "Chairman Hays Committee of 171 on Policies," but the only consideration the motion got was a vigorous pounding of the gavel and a request for order from Vice President Marshall.

HOOVER STILL IN THE DARK.

Political Leaders Admit His Statement Gives Forth No Light.

Local political leaders yesterday expressed interest in the first official announcement of Herbert C. Hoover, as published yesterday, regarding the Presidency, in which Mr. Hoover declared he was not a candidate for the nomination, and was waiting to see what the party leaders propose to stand for before announcing his allegiance to any party. Mr. Hoover's friends took literally his statement that no one was authorized to speak for him politically, and refrained even from commenting on what the former Food Controller said.

"No one is any wiser now than before concerning Mr. Hoover's political affiliations," said a Republican leader. "At the same time it must be recognized that Mr. Hoover is astute enough to keep his name before the public in a political sense. Discussion regarding his possible candidacy was rapidly dying out when Mr. Hoover himself rescues it from oblivion. It looks as if Mr. Hoover is willing enough to be a candidate if any party will have him."

At the headquarters of Major Gen. Leonard Wood no one would talk about Mr. Hoover for publication.

"We have a candidate of our own and why advertise another?" remarked one young man in charge.

The Committee of Forty-eight yesterday sent a letter to Mr. Hoover asking him to define his stand on a number of questions, including public ownership of transportation lines, equal economic, political and legal rights for all; the abolition of injunctions in labor cases, and the right of labor to "bargain collectively through representatives of its own choosing."

"The policies which we have set forth," says the latter, "are obviously more germane to the welfare of the American people at this crisis than any matters which fall into the category of political as distinguished from economic matters, especially as in our opinion there exists today adequate political machinery for the realization of the popular will. We should be very glad to hear from you at your convenience."

DR. BUTLER CALLS FOR LOYAL LINEUP

Country Cannot Exist Half American and Half Bolshevist, He Warns.

HE CITES MEN IN OFFICE

Columbia President Also Assails Government Waste and Federal Tax Methods.

Speaking at the regular monthly meeting of the Riverside Republican Club, 167 West Ninety-seventh Street, last night, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, declared that the United States was facing a situation similar to that in 1860, and that the nation could not continue to exist with half the people American and the other half conspiring against America. The party in power, he said, had shown for the last eight years that it would trifle with the great question for political advantage. He declared that never before in the history of the country had there been seen in high places in Washington so many persons of Bolshevist and Socialistic tendencies as during the last eight years.

Dr. Butler described the two leading causes for the undest that exists among the people today as the high cost of Government and the high cost of living, which, he said, go hand in hand, one being reflected in the other. He told how the cost of running the Government had grown from $1,000,000,000 a year before the war to $9,000,000,000 a year at present. There are two ways of getting the money, one is to borrow it and the other is through taxation, he said, and added that the present system of taxation checked every industry and added to the cost of living of every person. Cotton, for instance, goes through seven different excess property taxes before it reaches the consumer in the fabric, and lumber has to bear nine different excess profit taxes, he said. Money raised in this way, he declared, contributed to the high cost of living. The remedy, he said, was in the adoption of a scientific budget system and bringing the expenses down to a reasonable income.

High cost of living, Dr. Butler said, was due in a large measure to currency inflation. Other causes, he said, were the loss of men and consequent reduction in production on account of the war, labor troubles and the crude method of distributing goods. Distribution methods in New York, he said, had not changed in fifty years. He spoke in favor of terminal mrekets and quoted a railroad official as saying it cost $16,000,000 a year to haul goods uptown that reached downtown first by rail.

TRAVIS WINS IN BROOKLYN.

Republicans Elect Delegates to Unofficial State Convention.

Delegates to the unofficial Republican State Convention in Carnegie Hall on Feb. 19 and 20 were elected in Brooklyn last night. There was no contest except in the First Assembly District, where an unofficial primary was held. John J. McGinness and Michael J. Dady, candidates of the faction headed by Charles M. Hall, executive member of the District County Committee, defeated Henry Erwin and Michael J. Hogan, candidates of the faction led by Deputy State Excise Commissioner D. Harry Ralston, by a vote of 613 to 515. The following delegates were elected: Charles M. Hall, Colonel Thomas Fairservis, Deputy State Controller William Boardman, John J. McGinness, and Miss Amy Wren. The result was considered a victory for the regular Brooklyn Republican organiaztion led, by Jacob A. Livingston, who is backing State Controller Eugene M. Travis for the Republican nomination for Governor. About one-fourth of the delegates are women.

Unofficial primaries for the selection of delegates will be held today in Republican district clubhouses of Manhattan. In only a few districts are contests expected. One is staged for the Eleventh Assembly District where an effort is being made to defeat Mary Garrett Hay who is one of the seven organization candidates of the district. The Republican organization in this district has selected three women and four men candidates. Opposing Miss Hay is Mrs. Caroline L. Stevens who is running on a ticket not approved by the organization.

As a result of Mr. Foley's illness his place on the bench yesterday for the motion calendar was taken by Surrogate Cohalan, who also presided at the Spang will contest in the afternoon.

Republicans' Dinner Plans.

James R. Sheffield is Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, Ralph A. Day, Vice Chairman; Henry Birrell, Secretary, and Joseph H. Emery, Treasurer.

R. P. CREGAR KILLED BY STEAM IN BATH

WIFE SCALDED AIDING HIM

News of Accident Delayed Through Physician Reporting to Health Department.

Robert P. Cregar, one of the oldest and best known bankers of Philadelphia and New York, was so seriously scalded last Friday while taking a shower bath in his apartment at the Hotel Chatham, Vanderbilt Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, that he died on Sunday. The facts concerning the accident did not become known until yesterday, because of an error in filing a record of his death wtih the Health Department instead of with the Medical Examiner's office.

Mr. Cregar was the oldest member of Edward B. Smith & Co., a banking institution at 1,411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, with a branch office at 30 Pine Street, this city. As the representative of his firm on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, Mr. Cregar's duties brought him frequently to this city, and he often stayed for weeks at a time. He maintained an apartment at the Hotel Chatham, although his home was at the St. James Annex, in Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

Mr. Cregar came to New York several weeks ago, accompanied by his wife. On Friday he started to take a cold shower, as was his custom, and the first intimation of his distress came to his wife, in an adjoining room, when she heard him scream for help. She hurried to the bathroom, and was almost overcome by a cloud of steam when she opened the door. Her husband was lying helpless under the shower, unable to move from beneath a steady stream of scalding water and steam. Mrs. Cregar tried to turn off the water, and her hands were severely scalded in the attempt. Then she screamed for help, and attendants of the hotel came to her assistance.

By the time they arrived Mrs. Cregar had succeeded in shutting off the hot water, and Mr. Cregar was carried to his room. Dr. H. W. Emsheimer of 44 East Forty-eighth Street found Mr. Cregar in great pain from the scalds, which covered almost his entire body. The injuries proved to be so severe that he failed to respond to medical treatment, and subsequently became unconscious and died without rallying.

At the hotel it was said that Mr. Cregar had probably turned on the hot water accidentally, for it was his custom to take a daily cold shower. It was thought likely that when the first downpour struck him he tried to jump from under, slipped, fell, struck his head, and was stunned directly in the rain of boiling water. It was said by the management that an examination of the faucets was made after the accident and that no defect was discovered.

When the death of Mr. Cregar became known to the Medical Examiner's office yesterday an investigation was ordered by Dr. Charles Norris to discover why no report had been made to him. Dr. Norris said his office first heard of the death of Mr. Cregar through a newspaper man, and that when the Assistant Register learned that the body was being sent to Philadelphia he ordered it held, pending an investigation. After Dr. Norris had examined the body he decided that there was no reason why it should be held further, and ordered its release. Asked as to the injuries that caused Mr. Cregar's death, Dr. Norris said:

"Mr. Cregar suffered superficial burns over the chest, abdomen, legs and arms. It must have been an awful charge of hot water and steam that was turned on over his head. He was a very heavy man, and the indications are that he slipped and fell as he was trying to escape the scalding shower that he had accidentally turned on."

While the burns were superficial, Dr. Norris explained, they covered such a large part of the body that they proved fatal. He said he had learned that the burns suffered by Mrs. Cregar, although very painful, were confined to her hands and forearms, and were not considered serious.

Dr. Norris further said he had been told that the attending physician had reported the death of Mr. Cregar on Sunday to the Health Department, and had not made a report to the Medical Examiner's office, probably through ignorance of the fact that the law required him to do so.

On his own behalf Dr. Emsheimer said he had made his report to the Health Department and that he had called up the offices of that department to see if there was anything further for him to do in the case. Dr. Emsheimer said he was informed that he had fulfilled every requirement, and thought it was unnecessary for him to make any report to the Medical Examiner's office.

When he was called to attend Mr. Cregar, Dr. Emsheimer said he found him suffering from shock and burns and that he became unconscious several hours before he died.

At the local offices of Edward B. Smith & Co. the news of Mr. Cregar's death caused a shock to his associates, who united in saying that he was popular among them all. Mr. Cregar started his career as a telephone operator, and soon after becoming an employe of Edward B. Smith & Co. attracted the attention of the founder of the firm, who put him in charge of the bank's stock department, where he progressed until he was admitted to partnership.

His associates said he was in the best of spirits and health when he visited the local offices last Thursday and that he was planning to return to Philadelphia next Saturday. Mr. Cregar was 67 years old and was a member of the Arts and Racquet Clubs.

THE TELEPHONE EMERGENCY HAS NOT ENDED! MAKE ONLY THE NECESSARY CALLS! CO-OPERATE!

Transportation is still tied up by the snow-blocked streets. All traffic in and out of the city is seriously crippled. This adds hundreds of thousands of telephone calls to the already tremendous volume of messages which our operators are striving to handle.

Other hundreds of thousands of essential calls are added to the load as a result of the epidemic of influenza and pneumonia.

Our operating force is 3,000 short, largely because of illness. The operators remaining on duty cannot handle all these calls promptly. Delays are unavoidable. The switchboard operators cannot distinguish important from unimportant calls.

We again urge you to stop making unnecessary calls. Unless you cooperate by restricting your use of the telephone to essential messages, vitally important calls may be delayed. Furthermore, we may be compelled to accept only those calls that are stated to be of an emergent or essential character.

"The Price of One Tire for God!"

"We were going over our family budget for the year," said a well-to-do business man to his pastor.

"Suddenly I looked up at my wife with a gasp of astonishment.

"Do you see what we have done?" I exclaimed. "For amusement and the automobile we have allotted ten times as much as we are planning to give to the church and charities. I never realized it before."

What they had set aside for benevolence would just about buy one new automobile tire.

NO RECOGNITION FOR LITHUANIA

This Government Emphasizes Its Desire to Maintain Russian Unity.

TWO LETTERS OF REFUSAL

Text of Mr. Lansing's Replies to So-Called New Republic Officially Disclosed.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE STEP

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—That the American Government is adhering rigidly to its recognition of the principle of Russian unity was again emphasized today when Secretary Lansing made public the text of official communications in which this Government definitely refused to grant provisional recognition to Lithuania and to attribute a diplomatic status to those who have been sent to this country as diplomatic agents of its so-called provisional Government.

The letters were addressed by Secretary Lansing to the Lithuanian National Council. One was in response to letters sent by the council to Mr. Lansing as long ago as Oct. 2 and 9 last year, in which request was made for provisional recognition of Lithuania. On Oct. 15, it is now disclosed, this request for recognition was denied by the State Department.

Despite the refusal, the council, under date of Dec. 30, advised Secretary Lansing that the so-called provisional Government of the Republic of Lithuania had constituted a committee of that council as its "diplomatic agent" in the United States. Replying on Jan. 7, Mr. Lansing informed the council that as the United States Government had not recognized the so-called provisional Government of Lithuania, "it is not possible to attribute to your committee any diplomatic character."

No Dismemberment of Russia.

The fact that these documents are given out at this time is regarded as strongly indicating that the American Government's policy is being so shaped as to discourage any movement for the dismemberment of Russia, and that except as to the setting up of Finland and Poland as new Governments, the Government at Washington does not intend to recognize any of the many so-called republics or other Governments that have been set up within what was formerly the Russian Empire.

Something like seventeen so-called Governments have been set up within what was formerly Russia in Europe and Asia. Among them are the so-called Governments of Esthonia, Livonia, Lithuania, Ukrainia, Georgia, Azerbaijain and Eastern Karelia. A number of these new "republics" have been seeking recognition from the United States. President Wilson and Secretary Lansing think it unwise and unfair to prejudice, in advance of the establishment of orderly, constitutional Government in Russia, the principle of Russian unity as a whole. For that reason they do not intend to accord recognition to any of these "republics" other than Finland and Poland—which are recognized in the Treaty of Versailles—any more than they intend to grant recognition to the so-called Soviet Government.

On the eve of the speech which the British Premier, David Lloyd George, will make on British foreign policy, and especially on England's attitude toward the Russian problem, when Parliament opens tomorrow, the publication of Secretary Lansing's letters to the Lithuanians tonight may have an even stronger significance. The first, in which Secretary Lansing announced the refusal of the United States to recognize the provisional Government of Lithuania reads:

Letter Reports Recognition.

State Department,
Washington, Oct. 15, 1919.

Gentlemen: The department has received your letters of Oct. 2 and 9, 1919, on the subject of the provisional recognition of Lithuania.

The question of the future status of Lithuania has been given careful consideration. As you are aware, the Government of the United States is traditionally sympathetic with the national aspirations of dependent peoples. On the other hand, it has been thought unwise and unfair to prejudice in advance of the establishment of orderly, constitutional government in Russia the principle of Russian unity as a whole.

Accordingly, when the President, in common with the heads of the other principal allied and associated Governments, proffered Admiral Kolchak aid in bringing about in Russia a situation conducive to the establishment of orderly, constitutional government it was especially stipulated, inter alia, that failing an immediate agreement between Lithuania and the new Russian Government an arrangement would be made in consultation and co-operation with the League of Nations and that, pending such an arrangement, Russia must agree to recognize Lithuania as autonomous and to confirm the relations which might exist between the local Government of Lithuania and the allied and associated Governments.

Copies of the note to Admiral Kolchak and his reply are enclosed for your information.

It is believed that this arrangement assures the autonomous development of Lithuania, together with the other nationalities comprised within the former Russian Empire and wisely leaves to a future adjustment the determination of the relations which shall exist between them and the new Russian Government.

I am confident your council will recognize the justice of this attitude.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
ROBERT LANSING.

The second letter, in which this Government refuses to attribute any diplomatic status to the diplomatic "agents" of the so-called Government of Lithuania, reads:

Diplomatic Status Refused.

State Department,
Washington, Jan. 7, 1920.

Gentlemen—The receipt is acknowledged of your letter of Dec. 30, 1919, by which you advise the department that the so-called Provisional Government of the Republic of Lithuania has constituted your committee its diplomatic agent in the United States, and that your committee is prepared to perform all acts which are usually performed by the Embassies or Legations of foreign Governments, in so far as this can be done consistently with the fact that the so-called Provisional Government of Lithuania has not been recognized by the United States.

You are informed that the Government of the United States not having recognized the so-called Provisional Government of Lithuania, it is not possible to attribute to your committee any diplomatic character.

The Government of the United States appreciates the difficult situation in which many Lithuanians find themselves as a result of the disruption of the Russian Government and is disposed to go to the utmost practicable limits to relieve them from its inconveniences. In the matter of passports, it has been provided that persons of Lithuanian origin may depart from the United States on affidavits of identity and nationality, approved by the State Department in lieu of passports, when accompanied by the usual permits of departure.

The department is glad to deal informally with individuals and groups of individuals which are acting disinterestedly in behalf of the Lithuanian people or any portion of them. Your committee, in common with other representative Lithuanian bodies, may therefore count upon the consideration of the department in all matters which it may have occasion to take up with it, within the limitations set forth above.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
ROBERT LANSING.

The same rule of refusal to accord recognition is being observed by the American Government so far as the Ukrainian, Esthonian and other so-called independent republics set up on Russian territory is concerned.

ALL LETVIA CLEARED OF BOLSHEVIST TROOPS

Official Denial of Joffe's Statement That Britain Is Negotiating Peace

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The Bolshevist forces have definitely evacuated Letvia, according to a statement issued at the Lettish Legation here.

Copenhagen dispatches say that Letvia will not accept peace offers from Soviet Russia pending the conference of representatives of the Baltic States, to be held in April.

It is officially stated that there is no truth in the statement attributed to Adolph Joffe, head of the Soviet delegation which negotiated peace with Esthonia, that peace negotiations are proceeding between Great Britain and Soviet Russia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 2.—Announcement of the proposed lifting of the blockade of Russia is causing great dissatisfaction in South Russia. The Anti-Bolsheviki insist it will greatly strengthen the Bolshevist morale, and say that the unsteady economic condition of the Bolshevist Government will make extensive commerce impossible.

Representatives of the Russion cooperative organizations in this country have just concluded a contract with an American concern for a considerable quantity of agricultural machinery to be shipped to South Russia by the end of March, according to an announcement yesterday by Dr. Isaac N. Sherman, Director of the Moscow Narodny Bank, fiscal agent for the co-operatives. The contract is the first large commercial undertaking that has been completed on behalf of the co-operatives in this country since the announcement of a change of policy toward trade with Russia by the Supreme Council of the Allies.

Although application has been made for an export license for the purchased machinery Dr. Sherman was unable to say whether it would be granted.

LIFE SENTENCE COMMUTED.

Governor Frees Three Long-Term Prisoners at Sing Sing.

OSSINING, Feb. 9.—Three Sing Sing prisoners, including Giovani Bonafaceo, a "lifer" imprisoned fifteen years ago for second degree murder, were notified yesterday that Governor Smith has commuted their sentences, so they can be released in a few days, Major Lewis E. Lawes, Warden, informed them. Bonafaceo's term is reduced from life to fifteen years and three months, which he already has served. Edward Brady's sentence is cut from thirteen years to six years and ten months. James Strang's sentence is reduced from ten years to five years and fifteen days. All three will appear before the State Board of Parole when it meets at Sing Sing in a few days, and be released then.

British Rail Union Official Warns of Impending Crash.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—James Henry Thomas, General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, said today that the state of the world was such that unless something were done speedily a crash would come in which nobody would suffer more than the workers.

Mr. Thomas declared that the British workmen must work a quarter harder than before the war, the French twice harder and the Germans eighteen times harder. He added that the Labor Party's difficulties arose, not through the cleverness of the other parties, but through jealousies in its own ranks.

AWAIT DECLARATION OF RUSSIAN POLICY

Washington Keenly Interested in What Lloyd George Will Say Today About Soviet Trade.

WILL DEPLORE RECOGNITION

Recent Developments, However, Regarded as Likely to Militate Against This.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The statement regarding British foreign policy which David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, will make in his speech on the opening of the British Parliament tomorrow is awaited with the keenest expectation. The Prime Minister will then, it is expected, reveal the British Government's policy toward Russia, and throughout official and diplomatic circles in Washington the Russian situation now looms as the most difficult and important international problem. Also the policy of lifting the Russian blockade and dealing with the Soviet, as announced on Jan. 16 by the Supreme Council at Paris, has been generally ascribed to the British Prime Minister, and it has been quite freely intimated that he is ready to deal with the Reds.

Developments in the past month have been such that it is believed here that the British Prime Minister cannot refrain from furnishing reasons for his course toward the Russian issue, and making clear his real purposes. Tomorrow's speech, therefore, is expected to leave no doubt whether the announcement from Paris respecting trade with Soviet Russia was put out merely as a "feeler" or whether Lloyd George has been holding something else "up his sleeve."

There is no doubt here, in view of facts established since the Supreme Council made its announcement in January, that the Russian Co-operatives, with whom it was proposed to trade, are now controlled entirely by the Soviet, and that it will be impossible to trade with Russia through the Co-operatives without dealing with, and, in effect, recognizing Soviet Russia. The Prime Minister's speech, therefore, is expected to disclose whether his reputed attitude of the last month in favor of trading with Russia was merely a 24-hour policy based on expediency, whether it was a policy shaped to meet the internal trade and labor situation in England and intended to carry him along for a few days or weeks, whether he at this time stands ready to favor direct co-operation with the Soviet Government, or whether, as a Premier, he will stick hard to the principles and policy announced in the final clause of the Supreme Council's public statement of Jan. 16. This clause reads: "These arrangements imply no change in the policies of the allied governments toward the Soviet Government." The situation will present a crucial test of the Premier's frankness, and its development will determine whether his attitude is one of political expediency or based on sound statesmansnip, with a broad vision as to the future.

The project for dealing with the Russian Soviet is regarded here as involving a serious playing with fire, because the spread of Bolshevism from Russia into the rest of the world could not but endanger the ideals of democratic government, and the American view is that trading with, or recognition of the Russian Soviet, would be equivalent to granting a breathing spell to the Bolsheviki in which to perfect plans for world-wide revolution. There has been some fear in Washington that the British Prime Minister's attitude toward the project for trading with the Soviet was based on the attitude of British labor and on unrest in British commercial circles over the drop in international exchange, rather than on the more solid foundation of broad international policy.

In serious circles here there is deep concern over the spread of Bolshevist unrest and a strong feeling that there should be no dealings with the Soviet. The feeling in these circles is that it is essential that the fight for the maintenance of law, order, and democratic institutions must be continued without compromise with Bolshevism, which the American Government has condemned and definitely repudiated. Hence, should the British Premier, in his announcements tomorrow, indicate that British policy is in accord with that of America as against recognition of the Bolsheviki, the result will be very pleasing here. The feeling is growing that a crucial moment has been reached and that the need for deep foresight and vision in international affairs is great.

"REDS" FOE STIRS WOMEN.

Major Dwight Cheered in Their Republican Executive Committee.

At the regular Monday afternoon forum of the Women's Executive Committee of the State Republican organization, held yesterday at the Republican Club in West Fortieth Street, Major William B. Dwight, director of the Speakers' Squadron of the National Security League, aroused the enthusiasm of more than 300 women by his denunciation of socialism and radicalism and his reference to propaganda which, he says, is being carried on by paid agents of the Soviet Government. In his speech he referred to the activities of the "parlor" Bolsheviki, who, he said, "have been playing with fire and finally have become incensed and joined with these international radical movements."

As an illustration of the attempts made by the radicals to "bore from within," he said: "So far-reaching is their effort to destroy from within that you have today a trite illustration in the fact that in the New York streets, impassable as they are, on account of the severe storm, there are radical agitators asking the street sweeper to strike in order to make an example of their strength."

Major Dwight said every advocate of international radicalism, with the exception of a few paid propagandists, was an atheist. He assailed those who charge that all the Bolsheviki are Jews, saying that, from a careful investigation, he found that "not one of these people is an orthodox Jew; he is an apostate Jew. He has forsaken Judaism as he has forsaken his patriotism."

Irish, Masked and Armed, Steal Half a Ton of High Explosives From a Boat at Arklow

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Feb. 8.—Much alarm has been caused among the authorities by a serious incident yesterday at Arklow, forty-five miles south of Dublin, when thirteen large boxes of gelignite were stolen from a drifter at Messrs. Kynochs' quay. The missing explosive has not been recovered.

Owing to the closing of the factory at Arklow, the Kynochs had disposed of their fleet of steamers, and the transport of goods which remained there had been left to the local craft. On Thursday a final cargo was placed on the steam drifter Dan O'Connell, but owing to the stormy weather the vessel had to remain moored at Kynochs' Wharf, supervision of which is confined to watchmen.

Early yesterday morning a daring coup was carried out by a band of masked and armed men. A number of men took up positions on the north and south quays, one party obtaining possession of a boat, which was pulled across to Kynochs' side by a rope, all risk of watchmen being alarmed by splashing of oars being thus obviated. Answering a knock at his hut, one of the watchmen, named Kensella, was confronted by a number of masked men, armed with revolvers, who compelled him to put his hands up. Having securely bound him, the raiding party made a further reconnoissance, and, having satisfied themselves that the coast was clear, they boarded the drifter. The watchman aboard, a man named Kavanagh, was pinioned and covered with a boat sail. An exhaustive and minute search of the cargo was made, obviously by men of experience and knowledge of explosives, for partly manufactured material was cast aside, and the men left with thirteen large boxes of gelignite. This is said to have been the only finished explosive on the vessel. The weight of the material taken is stated to be nearly half a ton, so the audacity and seriousness of the coup may be well imagined.

Later in the day an extra number of police arrived in the town and with the military were most active in trying to locate the missing material. Parts of sandhills were dug up and houses searched, but the explosive was not found.

As showing the state of tension which exists in Ireland at present it may be mentioned that owing to an interruption in the telephone service between Dublin and the north early yesterday large forces of police and military were sent in the direction of Navan and Dundalk. The interruption had been caused by a fallen tree, and service was restored later in the day.

SAY THAT NEWBERRY KNEW SUMS SPENT

Testimony on Letters and Telegram Introduced to Connect Him with Expenditures.

ONE WORKER PAID $10 A DAY

County Clerk Says He Was Threatened with Defeat in Re-election if He Did Not Fall in Line.

Special to The New York Times.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 9.—Government attorneys in the alleged election corruption case produced evidence today to show that Senator Truman H. Newberry was informed by letter and telegram of the expenditure of large sums of money in his campaign. The Government introduced a letter written by James F. McGregor, Upper Peninsula field agent, to Newberry in New York, and Walter H. Smith, stenographer at Sault Ste. Marie, testified that he wrote the letter Oct. 25, 1918, and furnished the Government with a copy of it.

The letter said that the campaign was progressing in the Upper Peninsula, and that many railroad and mining companies had come out for Newberry. Myron T. Sherwood, an attorney and one of the defendants, was mentioned as having taken care of Marquette County. Dr. Frank Bohn of Newberry, in the Upper Peninsula, indicted, was also mentioned as doing good work in organizing that section. Information in minute detail was given as to work in every part of the district.

Leo A. Barry, Baraga, told of a conversation McGregor had with Mayor Jennings of Munising and John Harding, in which he asked them to get out the vote, and that he was going to New York to see Newberry. This was late in October. Barry said Harding, nominally a Democrat, but wearing a Newberry button, told McGregor to bring back with him another $176,000. Harding, he said, referred to the $176,000 filed in the Newberry August primary election expense account. McGregor, according to Barry, replied:

"I am going to bring back a real barrel this time."

Reads Telegram to Newberry.

Miss Eleanor Klifoil, stenographer in the Newberry estate office in Detroit, read her stenographic notes of a telegram which Frederick D. Smith, Newberry's Detroit secretary and one of the indicted, had dictated to Newberry. The telegram, according to her notes, read:

My message today was misinforming as to the date the primary expenditures are to close. The date should have been Aug. 27. To this date general expeditures, such as circulation, postage, telegrams, office expenses, clerical help, and other overhead, will necessarily have to continue.

Smith, it appeared, had telegraphed Newberry previously that the campaign was about over and that there would be a let-up soon in the expenditures. The above message, it is said, was to inform Newberry that more money would be needed to continue the campaign.

The Government claims that as a result of this telegram to Newberry on Sept. 4, 6 and 9 of 1918 three deposits were made in the Commonwealth Federal Savings Bank, the total amounting to about $70,000, with $13,000 lost somewhere in the transfer to the bank. That $13,000 is supposed to have found its way into safety deposit boxes. These figures were testified to by Detroit bankers last week.

William R. Barber of Harrisville, County Clerk of Alcona County, caused a sensation when he testified that Benjamin F. Reed, a Newberry field agent and one of the indicted men, had threatened him with defeat for re-election if he did not support Newberry.

"I suggested a county chairman to Reed, but he wanted me to take the position," said Barber. "I told him I could not, for I had friends among all the Senatorial campaign workers. Reed told me I had better be careful, for Newberry was organizing every county in the State and that all kinds of money would be spent."

Through the testimony of more than a dozen other witnesses the prosecution continued in its attempt to connect the alleged conspiracy among field agents with the Newberry headquarters. Occasionally there was evidence which reached back to Paul H. King, Charles A. Floyd and George W. Welsh, avowed managers of the Newberry State campaign.

Admits Getting $10 a Day.

Roy E. Whinney, a Deputy Sheriff, who is on guard duty at the Ford Blast Works admitted on being questioned that he had worked for Chase S. Osborn in the Upper Peninsula during the campaign and was paid $10 a day and expenses for nine days. Whinney, when called before the Grand Jury, had not told of this matter, but had said that Louis Burr, an indicted man, got $350 for hotel bills from Paul King.

INSULT WAS TO SUBSTITUTE

Woman in Disguise Received Ill-Smelling Flowers—Presenter Freed by the Court.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—After all there will be no duel between friends of Mme. Jane Renouardt and Mlle. Clara Tambour. Their seconds have met and discussed the affair and have decided that an insult offered by one woman to another cannot be construed into an affair of honor between their friends. So ends in anti-climax the drama which for two weeks has formed endless gossip in Paris theatrical circles.

The story was told in the courts since it could not be finished on the field of honor. Some weeks ago, it went, Mme. Renouardt was told that a rival of the stage had planned a dreadful insult for her as she was entering the theatre. A youth had been bribed to offer her two bunches of flowers as she stepped from her automobile. One was fair and fragrant, the other inclosed some evil smelling substance which would pollute the memory, as well as the clothes, of the actress.

Forewarned, Mme. Renouardt forearmed herself and while a friend disguised in her clothes took her place in the automobile, two detectives waited at the door of the theatre for the presenter of the flowers. Friends of both sides arrived to see the drama and Mme. Renouardt herself, heavily veiled, hid in a doorway to see what would happen.

The automobile arrived and as the substitute stepped out a lad with flowers presented them with some one's compliments. But while he still held them the detectives closed in on him. Friends of those who had planned the insult faded away into neighboring streets. Their agent was let off with a warning by the Judge as he made full confession that he had no other interest in the matter than to earn the 100 francs which had been promised him. And now justice is seeking for the principals but cannot quite decide whether after all it ought to mix in so intimate a matter.

FLOCK TO SLESVIG TO VOTE.

1,500 Danes Start from Copenhagen —Germans Trying Trickery.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 7.—Four steamers, with 1,500 voters of Slesvig on board, left Copenhagen today. They were the advance guard of the army of men and women born in Slesvig who are going back to vote for reunion with Denmark. The papers publish congratulatory addresses to the voters, signed by prominent persons of all political parties.

In Slesvig the Germans continue their campaign of trickery against the Danes and the International Commission. It has just been discovered that they sent forged postal cards to voters in Denmark, telling them that as they had been too late in announcing their intention of returning to vote, it would be useless for them to do so.

GRIP HITS SNOWBOUND TOWN

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 9.—Energetic measures were adopted today by the Hampshire County Red Cross Chapter for the relief of the snowbound hill town of Cummington, where 163 of a population of 700 are reported ill with influenza, with food and medicine short and the roads blocked by drifts. A load of bread, canned goods and medicines was sent from here this morning, and supplies will go forward constantly as long as the emergency exists.

The Rev. G. A. Wightman, county missionary, headed a relief expedition to the town today. The two resident doctors are reported exhausted by their labors. Every effort is being made to engage nurses for duty there.

The theory is advanced that the spread of influenza is due largely to the assembling of citizens for the annual town meeting a week ago today.

WOOD SEES PERIL IN FARMS' DECLINE

FOR FAIRER TREATMENT

He Urges Adequate Loans and More Direct Relationship with the Consumer.

The attitude of Major Gen. Leonard Wood, candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, toward the agricultural problems of the nation was made known yesterday in a letter he wrote to Gifford Pinchot, member of the National Committee of Farm Organizations, and which was given out at the Leonard Wood League Headquarters at the Imperial Hotel. Mr. Pinchot had asked the candidate's views on the farmer and his problems and General Wood replied at length, declaring that agriculture was declining in America and that this was one of the greatest dangers to civilization.

"There is too much flocking to the cities," wrote General Wood. The drop in agricultural production compared with the population, in the number of people who live and work on farms, and in the fertility of our soils cannot be allowed to continue. The farmers of America rendered magnificent service in producing, under every sort of handicap, food supplies necessary to win the war, to feed not only us but very largely our allies. They sent their sons to war and in spite of the shortage of labor, by dint of increased effort, they tremendously increased the output of food in this country. Had they not done so it would have been impossible for us to have taken our part in the war as we did. They feel that their services was not adequately recognized."

General Wood declared education for farm children should be universally accessible and special efforts should be made toward training for life on the farm. Rural schools, he said, should be kept up to the standards of city schools, while suitable and abundant roads and lines of transportation should be maintained.

"I believe in a far greater measure of direct dealing between producers and consumers of food. Today altogether too small a portion of the consumer's dollar gets back to the farmer. When the farmer sells his milk in bulk for 6 cents, and finds it retailing at 15 a few hours later, he realizes that he is not receiving his proper share of the proceeds of his product. He is not a profiteer."

General Wood said that while the storage of food supplies is absolutely necessary to feed the people, since crops are not produced throughout the year, the hoarding of food supplies should be severely punished and vigorously suppressed. Regarding the question of extending credit to farmers, General Wood said:

"Secure provision should be made to enable farmers to obtain adequate credit so as to extend the farming interests of our country. Steps should be taken to increase the production of necessary fertilizers, so that the farmer may never be without an adequate supply. Steps should be taken looking to the increased production of nitrates.

"I believe in the gradual abolition of farm tenancy. In our country the typical farmer has owned the land and has cultivated it with the aid of his own sons and a few hired men. We do not wish this type of farmer to be supplanted by one who holds his lands as a tenant. We do not see the farmers absorbed by the big land holders to the detriment of our best farming interests.

Denying reports that Governor Shoup of Colorado had espoused the candidacy of Governor Lowden, a statement from Governor Shoup was made public at the Wood headquarters.

It was also announced that Warren Shaw Fisher of 148 East Forty-sixth Street, Commander in Chief of the United American War Veterans, had joined the Leonard Wood League.

The result of two polls was made public at the Wood headquarters. One taken among Republican miners and farmers of the northern part of Michigan by The Marquette Journal gave this result: Wood, 356; Lowden, 90; Johnson, 46; Harding, 5; Hoover, 31; Pershing, 9, and Coolidge, 9. The other poll, taken by the Cambridge, Mass., Republican Club among 1,264 enrolled Republicans of Cambridge, resulted: Coolidge, 563; Wood, 308; Johnson, 105, Taft, 49; Hughes, 172; Lowden, 13; Butler, 6; Hoover, 37; Harding, 2, and Governor Allen of Kansas, 15.

Before leaving for Trenton yesterday Governor Edwards was asked in Jersey City concerning an alleged movement in Illinois and other parts of the country to make him a Presidential candidate.

"I have seen reports in the newspapers to that effect," said the Governor, "but if there is any such movement it is entirely spontaneous and not the result of any effort of mine. That's all I care to say about it."

WOULD SHIP GOLD HERE..

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The Daily Express, in giving the opinions of well known men in favor of the people of England surrendering gold to the State to aid in paying the indebtedness to America, quotes Sir Robert Kindersley, Director of the Bank of England and Chairman of the National Savings Committee, as pointing out that a scheme for such a collection for the purpose of carrying on the war was drawn up during the war and the whole question investigated by experts, but that it was not deemed necessary to proceed with the scheme then. Kinderaley added that £50,000,000 in gold if sent to America would have a great and immediate effect on the exchange.

J. H. Garvin, writing in yesterday's Observer, says The Daily Express's suggestion is intensely impractical and pounds out that Asquith at Paisley had given it his blessing.

Asquith's Friday speech has suggested to some that Britain may renounce her claims to German indemnity and cancel all debts owed to her by her allies. The Daily Express understands that such a proposal has not been considered by the British Government and would not be accepted.

The London Times this morning discusses the idea of sending gold to America out of the gold holdings of the Bank of England and the Treasury and says:

"Some £40,000,000 of gold is being transferred from joint stock banks to the Bank of England. When this operation has been completed the gold holdings of the Bank of England and the Treasury will amount to about £180,000,000 or £170,000,000, as against a note issue of £420,000,000. If the value of sterling in New York should again fall the question of shipping gold out of our stock might certainly be worth consideration. France, too, has a very large stock of gold, and her exchange might be materially improved if she could be induced to make judicious use of it."

Wants Print Paper Duty Free to Bring Scandinavian Supply

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The removal of tariffs on print paper, costing less than 8 cents a pound, was proposed to the Senate Finance Committee today by Senator Curtis, Republican, of Kansas, who offered an amendment to the Dye Tariff bill imposing a duty of 12 per cent. on paper, costing more than 8 cents a pound. Mr. Curtis said that this plan would bring in new paper supplies from Scandinavia.

Action on the amendment was deferred until tomorrow, when the committee will also consider legislation to prohibit exports of print paper.

SMITH URGES THAT STATE REORGANIZE

Asks Legislature to Act Quickly on Reconstruction Commission's Recommendations.

CALLS FOR BUDGET SYSTEM

Longer Executive Term and More Power for the Governor Needed, He Says.

ALBANY, Feb. 9.—In transmitting to the Legislature tonight the report of the Reconstruction Commission advocating the reorganization of the State Government through the consolidation of many separate departments, Governor Smith urged legislation to make the recommendations effective. He declared that a democracy, to be efficient, must lodge responsibility with the Executive and give him the means to carry out his policies. The present organization of the State Government, he pointed out, is based upon a Constitution adopted many years ago when the business of the State was small and limited.

"From an annual budget of about $30,000,000 thirty years ago," the Governor says, "we are now facing an expenditure for the next fiscal year of over $100,000,000, illustrating in itself the growth and complexity of State Government.

"During the last twenty-five years the State has taken over many activities that formerly belonged to localities, and it has attempted to build this structure upon an oldtime foundation which it has entirely outgrown, until today one of its great problems is how to make itself function, how to make itself efficient, how to make itself understood, and how to make itself responsive to the public will.

Executive Must be Responsible.

"Efficiency is not possible unless there is responsibility lodged with the executive. With that responsibility, he must be given the means to carry out his policies. The people have elected the Governor with the belief in their minds that the head of the State has it within his power o carry out the policies enunciated by him in the campaign, and the real fact is that he is thoroughly bound, gagged and fettered by a cumbersome machinery of State government that spells in its every line an absolute division of responsibility among men scarcely known to the electorate and never mentioned by them after the election is over. The consequence is that, between the short term of the Governor and the form of our Government, the executive for the State is foiled in his every effort to respond to the popular will.

"The existing multiplicity of departments with overlapping functions, brought into existence in various ways and responsible to no central authority, should be reduced to a small number of large departments presided over by men selected by the Governor for terms coterminous with his own, which, as the report of the Reconstruction Commission will indicate, should be lengthened to four years.

"The extension of the Governor's term of office will give him an opportunity to know his work and to build up a constructive policy for the State which is constantly subject to judgment in the light of the Governor's responsibility. Moreover, with an income tax the people of the State are entitled to know, and will necessarily demand to know, where the money they pay goes and how it is spent.

Appropriations Rapidly Mounting.

"You have before you estimates from the several departments asking you to appropriate for their use during the coming year over $140,000,000. While these estimates represent, in many cases, considerably larger amounts than are required or than can be expended within the year, the fact remains that the budget is going up by leaps and bounds. It doubled in the last five years. At the present rate of increase, it will total over $200,000,000 in 1925.

"The Governor points out that the commission's fundamental recommendations are for an executive budget system, for the consolidation of State departments, the reduction of the number of elective officers, and the increase in the term and responsibilities of the Governor. To his mind, he declares, they present the only plan which will relieve the present situation.

Governor Smith asks that while this plan is under consideration nothing else be considered that removes control from the Governor until the fundamental changes are definitely acted upon, and adds:

"It must be apparent to the men who have served any length of time in the Legislature that all that is required is the disposition to do this thing."

SMITH NAMES VAN NAMEE.

Nominates Secretary to be Member of Public Service Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 9.—George Rivet Van Namee of Watertown, secretary to Governor Smith, was tonight named by the Governor to be Public Service Commissioner, Second District, for five years at $15,000 a year, to succeed Thomas F. Fennell of Elmira, whose term expired February 1. The nomination was sent to the Senate for confirmation.

Mr. Van Namee has been Secretary to the Governor since his inauguration and today tendered his resignation as Secretary of the Democratic State Committee, which position he had held for the last five years. He was Assistant Clerk and Clerk of the Assembly in 1911 and 1912 and later a member of the Legislative Bill Drafting Commission.

The Governor also sent to the Senate for confirmation the nomination of Edward F. Boyle of New York City to be a State Industrial Commissioner to succeed Edward F. Lyon, for a full term of six years from Jan. 1. The commissionership pays $8,000 a year.

Astor Denies Food Post Offer.

DOUBT LABOR CAN CONTROL CONGRESS

But Some Members Think One of Regular Conventions Will Be Influenced.

BOTH TO BE APPROACHED

Gompers, Opposed to Third Party, Plans to Work Through Republicans or Democrats.

BLANTON DENOUNCES MOVE

Farmers' Organizations Will Not Co-operate with the Labor Unions, It Is Declared.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The declaration of organized labor that it intends to keep a close watch on legislation and be aggressive in the election of candidates for Congress brought to the attention of practical politicians of both parties today the power the unions will seek to exercise over the nominating conventions of the major parties this summer.

While these politicians expressed the opinion that labor could not be held by any party, but would vote according to the political leanings of the individuals, yet the feeling is widespread that labor will dominate one of the conventions, or form a third party.

According to one of the labor leaders, the platform declaration enunciated by the unions will be submitted to the Republican convention for inclusion in its platform. Failing to obtain consideration there, the leaders will turn to the Democratic convention. If their ideas are not accepted by the Democrats, some of them plan to rejuvenate the Labor Party. Samuel Gompers, however, is opposed to a third party. He says that they will work with the party which grants most consideration to labor.

Republican leaders in the House commented that they did not intend to make any play for labor, but would adopt a platform which would promise to deal justly with both labor and capital. Some of the conservative Democrats remarked that they feared the radical element in the party would predominate at San Francisco, and that labor would succeed in embodying some of the radical labor planks in the platform.

Gompers Answers Gillett.

As a further evidence of the attitude of the American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers tonight, in replying to Speaker Gillett's speech at Springfield, launched another attack on Congress.

"Mr. Gillett said that the Congress made a fight upon the trusts," says Mr. Gompers. "That kind of a fight seems to the people of the United States to be more of a burlesque. Ask any citizen of our country, ask any housewife, what they feel as the result of the 'fight on the trusts.' And the answer will be readily forthcoming. Congress has utterly failed in any kind of a fight to protect the people of the United States from the trusts and the profiteers. As for the charge that labor is a menace to the business of the country, it is absolutely unfounded and an unwarranted attack upon the workers of our Republic, who are trying to obtain a reasonable wage that will afford them and their dependents the opportunity to subsist despite the piracy of the trusts and the profiteers."

Aside from discussion in the cloak rooms of the Capitol of the political aspects of organized labor's move, it was the incentive for a sharp attack upon the floor of the House today by Representative Blanton against President Gompers.

Representative Blanton attacked Representative Nolan of California, who is a labor leader, because he objected to giving unanimous consent to Mr. Blanton to extend his remarks. Representative Blanton said that organized labor always attempted to "bulldoze Congress" when an effort was made to cut down the number of civil employes.

"That is why you see in the papers this morning the pronunciamento of this organization, that they are going to elect every Congressman to do their bidding," said Mr. Blanton. "This is the greatest menace ever sounded. It is a great danger to this Republic.

"I am glad that we have seen Mr. Gompers's hand, because it is going to awaken the people of this country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and whenever Samuel Gompers puts his hand on a Representative and says 'elect him' the people are going to keep him at home. That will be the result of this pronunciamento from the man who wants free speech."

JOCKEY KILLED IN NEW ORLEANS RACE

HORSE DIES INSTANTLY

Neck Is Broken When Alula Swerves to Inner Rail in the Stretch and Causes Spill.

RIDER IS NOT TO BLAME

Wida, Who Had Mount, Is Found Guiltless by Judges—Filly Wins, but Is Disqualified.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 9.—The racing at the Fair Grounds was marred today during the running of the third race by an accident, in which Jockey John Sullivan was hurled to his death, his mount, Rory O'More, was killed, and Jackey Coltiletti received slight injuries. The jam occurred at the three-sixteenths pole in the stretch, almost under the eyes of the several thousand spectators in the stands and cast a gloom over the gathering for the balance of the day.

It was found that Sullivan had sustained a fracture of the skull at the base of the brain and had died instantly. His mount, Rory O'More, a three-year-old, owned by J. W. McClelland, had met an equally sudden end as the result of a broken neck. Jockey Coltiletti had a miraculous escape from more serious injury, if not death. He was thrown through the air, but in a direction which left him clear of the horses, which avoided the jam, and when aid reached him it was found he was suffering from only slight injuries, but was badly shaken up. Jockey Wida, who had the mount on Alula, which had caused all the trouble, escaped personal injury, but was so badly unnerved that he had to cancel all his mounts for the balance of the day.

Jockey Sullivan was 16 years old and lived in New Orleans. He had been riding only about a year. He was picked up here a year ago by Kim Patterson, trainer for J. W. McClelland, and had been developed until he had become a very promising rider. His first experience in the saddle was gained as an exercise boy when he galloped Eternal, the star of the McClelland string of racers. Sullivan exercised Eternal most of last season and showed such qualities as a rider that Patterson finally gave him some mounts in races. Sullivan rode a few times during the closing meeting at Empire City in Yonkers last October. With the opening of the Winter racing season here he began to get mounts regularly and was under contract to Mr. McClelland. He won his first race during the meeting at Jefferson Park. Sullivan was one of the tiniest of jockeys and weighed only slightly more than sixty pounds.

The fatal accident today was caused by the antics of Alula and was unavoidable. Alula was first home, but was disqualified for the foul, and the race was awarded to Allivan.

The race was a six furlong dash, for three-year-olds, and brought out ten starters. Ace of Trumps was first away from the barrier, and set the pace to the head of the stretch, with Alula close behind. When the horses turned into the stretch they seemed to be straightened out. Alula, which has a reputation gained on the Kentucky tracks for being flighty, moved up into the lead and was running in an outside position. Ace of Trumps was just inside of Alula, and Flying Witch was next to the rail. Rory O'More was running fourth on the rail position.

Without any apparent cause whatever, Alula suddenly swerved across the track toward the rail, in spite of the efforts of Jockey Wida. She struck against Ace of Trumps and the latter was thrown forcibly against Flying Witch. The latter filly has the peculiar defect of having one front leg shorter than the other. As she was knocked off her balance by the force of the impact she was unable to recover her stride and went down in a heap.

Rory O'More, which was running but a few strides back of Flying Witch, crashed headlong into the fallen racer, and Jockey Sullivan was thrown through the air and against one of the posts which support the infield fence. The back of his head struck the post and he lay motionless. His mount rolled over and did not make another move. Coltiletti had been hurled over the head of Flying Witch when she went down, and he was thrown straight ahead onto the soft ground, and out of the way of the other horses.

Alula went on and won the race easily by eight lengths, the real contenders having been thrown out of the running. Allivan, which had been moving up steadily after a slow start, came through and was second, and was awarded first place with the disqualification of Alula.

An ambulance was rushed to the fallen jockeys, but before it reached the scene of the accident Coltiletti was up on his feet and brushing the dirt from his clothes.

When the race was over the judges called Wida into the stand and questioned him about the accident. He said he could not control the filly, and the judges absolved him from any blame. The boy was so unnerved that he could not ride again, and it will be a day or two before he will appear again in silks.

Klaus Gets Monkey Glands as Aid for Ring Battles

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 9.—Convalescent from a slight illness, which his friends believed to be an attack of flu, but which really was only the after effects of an operation whereby a monkey's interstitial glands were grafted into his body, Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion, will attempt to come back in the roped arena and regain his crown.

Klaus kept the "interstitial operation" a secret from the first. No one but his wife knew that the operation was performed.

"I never was in better physical health in my life than right now," said Klaus today, "and I believe my vitality is getting stronger every day."

Klaus has offers to fight in England and Belgium and will sail for the latter country next month.

LEONARD DEFEATS DUNDEE ON POINTS

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, hooked, cuffed, jabbed and otherwise pummeled Johnny Dundee, his Italian rival, for eight rounds last night at the arena in the 4th Regiment Armory, Jersey City, but when the gong clanged the end of the bout the fiery little Italian was still on his feet, pounding away with both hands, without a mark showing for his stiff encounter, and as willing as ever for fight.

Leonard displayed the consummate skill, brilliant offensive ability, and clever, and at times impenetrable defense which has caused him to be acclaimed as the greatest boxer that ever held the lightweight title, carried off seven of the eight rounds by margins which left no room for doubt. In the remaining session, the first, Dundee, fighting with the speed and dash of a boxer entering fresh on a serious engagement, managed to earn an even break with the title holder.

The contest—the eighth between these two topnotch boxers—demonstrated that while Leonard outclasses the little Italian beyond the shadow of a doubt, Dundee, nevertheless, is capable of standing before the champion's heaviest blows for a limited distance. Leonard cut loose with all the power in his strong body from start to finish of the match and pounded and battered Dundee with an assortment of blows that dazzled.

At times Dundee was shaky on his pins from a wicked right to the jaw. Again he would wince from a vicious drive to the stomach which brought down his guard.

Several times during the bout Dundee was hurled against the ropes by the powerful drives of the champion, and frequently the little Italian gladiator was bobbing about hazily in a sea of blows that came from all angles, landed on all spots of his anatomy and carried damaging power. But always Dundee, recovering when the storm had passed over, returned to the attack characteristic of him, and sought to turn back the fistic tide.

Leonard worked a left-hand jab with the precision of a piston at long range, and this blow, principally, resulted in Dundee's convincing defeat. The little Italian sought by every trick at his command to evade or get around this stab, but it proved an obstacle which defied hurdling. The result was that, after the first round, Dundee, although he fought with dogged courage and all the ability of which he is possessed, ran second all the way.

Dundee had his stormiest round in the fifth. Near the end of this session Leonard crushed over a powerful right-hand drive, which found a resting spot under Dundee's heart. The Italian boxer winced, quickly covered the spot, and bent over to relieve the pain. Leonard was after him eagerly, jabbing with that tantalizing left that was continually stuck in Dundee's face. Dundee covered his jaw for a breathing spell and took a rain of blows on his protecting arms.

When he had recovered from the shock the Italian sprang at his tormenter with a furious attack, which brought the crowd to its feet. Dundee's blows were wild for the most part or landed on Leonard's arms and elbows. When Dundee had tired of his exertions Leonard commenced jabbing again and suddenly shot home a right to the jaw which sent Dundee bouncing to the ropes. Dundee returned and, planting his feet firmly, stood his ground in a flurry of blows in which Leonard showed to advantage. Coming out of a clinch near the bell, Leonard slipped so that he was in a stooping position with his finger-tips touching the canvas. He was up in a flash, but Dundee, thinking one of his numerous blows had sent the champion down, rushed the title holder to the bell, while Leonard, laughing, sought to pick Dundee's blows off in the air.

In the first round Dundee was a whirlwind in action. He carried the battle to the champion and worked incessantly at close quarters. Leonard was best at long range and landed with cool, calculating precision, but Dundee's work in the clinches evened the round. Dundee started the second with a left which fell short, and soon after Leonard, with a series of left jas, worked Dundee into the champion's corner. Here Leonard measured his rival for a right but missed. At close quarters Leonard had his rival's head bobbing with a wicked right uppercut for which Dundee could find no defense. A right to the jaw straightened Dundee up and a clinch followed to the bell.

From the third round to the finish one round was a repetition of another. Dundee invariably opened with a strong attack, but for the most part his blows fell short or went around the champion's neck. Leonard, on the other hand, took a turn at offensive work and drove Dundee before him in a shower of blows to the face and body alternately. Frequent sessions of free swinging were furnished, the boxers standing flat-footed and lambasting each other in whirlwind fashion. In these spells Leonard landed more cleanly and oftener, although Dundee's arms worked in quicker fashion.

Boxing Board Starts Investigating His War Record Tomorrow.

Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, will probably be requested personally to attend the hearing of the Army, Navy, and Civilian Board of Boxing Control Committee, which will tomorrow begin an investigation into the titleholder's war record. APPEL BEATS GOULD IN THREE-SET MATCH

John W. Appel, Jr., of the Harvard Club, present holder of the title, disposed of one of his most dangerous challengers for the national amateur squash tennis championship at the Columbia University Club yesterday afternoon when he defeated the Columbia representative, Jay Gould, in three games, scoring 11—15, 15—12, 15—9. A. J. Cordier of the Yale Club, another prominent contender for the title, eliminated R. E. T. Riggs of the Squash Club far more easily at 15—1, 15—10, while E. C. Olds of Princeton put out the Yale football star, Otis Guernsey, in two games, both of which were scored 15—9.

Anderson Dana of the Harvard Club, twice a runner-up for the national championship, showed impressive strength in winning from C. J. MacGuire of Yale by the one-sided count of 15—2, 15—4, and P. M. Morrison, also a Harvard alumnus, surprised the gallery by a three-game victory over the Columbia veteran, F. S. Kesler, scoring 15—12, 14—18, 15—7. Other winners in the second round were Ralph G. Coburn, H. Duncan Bulkley and Livingston Platt, the last-named advancing by default.

Appel, who had recently been out of the game for several days on account of illness and had enjoyed his first real practice on Sunday, had a tremendous task before him when he faced the world's court tennis champion, who had obviously made up his mind to add the squash tennis title to the many other honors of the racquet which he already holds. Gould hit the ball with terrific force yesterday and also succeeded in imparting a baffling twist to almost every shot.

He was not only exceedingly aggressive on the offense, but also exhibited a brand of defensive play which never admitted the impossibility of the most difficult recoveries. Both in the corners and up in the forecourt Gould constantly made gets which were nothing short of extraordinary, and it was a marvel that the champion, in his weakened physical condition, eventually succeeded in triumphing over such all-around strength.

As it was, the Columbia man looked like a winner most of the way, taking the opening game after running up a big lead in the early hands, and losing the second only by the narrowest of margins. In the rubber Gould at one time led by 7 points to 3, chiefly through a single remarkable run of 5 aces in one hand, and it was only through a magnificent uphill fight that Appel eventually pulled out the game and match at 15—9.

In this great pull-up the champion's ability to place the ball accurately was his salvation, for, so far as speed was concerned, he was almost outclassed. His stubborn following of the ball and persistent refusal to consider a rally lost until the ball had actually escaped his racquet kept him in the game even after his strength was most exhausted.

The score by points follows:

FIRST GAME.

Gould .....0 3 1 1 0 0 4 1 0 0 0 5—15
Appel .....0 1 0 2 4 3 1 0 0 0 0 ...—11

The summary follows:

ST. ANDREW'S RINK WINS GORDON MEDAL

Local Curlers Beat Utica, Syracuse and Mohawk Teams on Ice at Schenectady.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The St. Andrew's Curling Club of New York defeated the Mohawk Golf Club in the final round for the famous Gordon Memorial Medal by a score of 12 to 10 here tonight. For the first four heads of the final round the locals had the lead by 5 to 0, but excellent play on the part of St. Andrew's, notably the well calculated raising shots made by Roth, the skip, evened the score at the seventh end and thereafter the match became a see-saw affair. The home curlers played a careful, cautious game, but their opponents proved a bit too clever.

The line-up of the players in the finals:

St. Andrew's was drawn against the Gillies, W. MacFarland, A. Roth, skip. Mohawk C. C.—E. P. Edwards, J. E. Waller, F. G. Vaughen, R. S. Emmet, skip.

The St. Andrew's players beat the Utica curlers in the afternoon's preliminary round by a score of 19 to 16. In the afternoon the Mohawk team drew a bye because the Jersey City Curling Club appeared with only three players. The Mohawk team then disposed of Saranac, last year's winners, by a score of 19 to 14.

St. Andrews was drawn against the Syracuse Curling Club team, and the former won by a score of 14 to 11.

The other rinks were made up as follows:

Saranac C. C.—F. L. Simpson, S. F. Blanchet, W. G. Diston, F. C. Paterson, skip.

All the teams which competed in the Gordon Memorial Match here today will tomorrow go to Utica, where a three-day competition will be held.

Norman Ross Wins Again.

He won by only a yard, however, from Raymond Bequet, who made a good fight for the honors all the way. Irving Reiner was third, ten yards back of Bequet.

McLEAN BLAMES OFFICIAL.

CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 9.—Robert McLean of Chicago, who lost the world's ice-skating championship yesterday to Oscar Mathiesen of Christiania, stated today that his mistake in taking the wrong course in the 10,000 metre race was caused by an official giving an incorrect signal at the curve. Because of this, McLean and his manager declined to discuss the championship races until the moving pictures of the events prove where the fault lies.

The supporters of McLean claim that his sprint following his momentary stoppage at the outset of the long race when he realized he was on the wrong course, exhausted him. McLean plans to go to Stockholm, where he will try to lower some of the world's records.

A CHECK is a grievance to employees because it means a trip to the bank and often a tiresome wait in line. Getting it cashed elsewhere generally leads to unnecessary expenditures.

There are disadvantages from the employer's point of view also, but the difficulties of handling cash in the old way kept many firms from changing to a cash basis.

SWEEPING CHANGES IN BASEBALL CODE

ADOPT NEW SCORING RULES

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 9.—The baseball rule makers made sweeping changes in the playing code of the national game today, and heaped so much additional duty and authority on the shoulders of the umpires that next season the officials will all have to take a rest cure before the season is half over.

First of all the rule makers prescribed a penalty which virtually will eliminate the intentional pass from the game. There is no play which is so unpopular with baseball fans as to have a runner on the bases and have the opposing pitcher intentionally hand a batsman like Babe Ruth a base on balls.

There was a lively session before the intentional walk was eliminated. Many tilts at oratory occurred among those who attended the opening meeting of the committee. Umpire Hank O'Day had many verbal skirmishes with Clarke Griffith of Washington. The new rule prohibiting the gratis walk provides that if the catcher gets out of his position behind the plate to aid the pitcher in giving an intentional base on balls, the runners on the bases will all be entitled to an extra base.

Umpires O'Day and Klem, at first argued against this rule, and O'Day predicted that if in a close game, a catcher stepped out of his place to get a pitch-out, and the penalty resulted in sending in a run, which would decide the game, the baseball park would immediately take on the appearance of a Wild West show.

Ban on Freak Pitching.

The next terrific blow of the rule makers fell on trick pitching. A rule was passed which bars a pitcher from using any foreign substance on the ball, such as resin, saliva, talcum powder, paraffine, and like aids to the shine ball. Also the pitcher is barred from expectorating on the ball or his glove. Also he must not rub the ball in his glove, on his person, or on his clothing. If the umpire rules that the pitcher is trying to use any of these tricks the flinger will be exiled from the game and suspended for ten days.

An exception was made that each club could designate for the coming season two spitball pitchers who have been using this kind of service in the past, and they alone will be exempt from the new rule. After the 1920 campaign all freak pitching will be under the ban.

Connie Mack of the Athletics and Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh were prominent in the long discussions which took place over the rules. The most sensational outbreak took place between Hank O'Day and Clarke Griffith. Grif said that the umpires didn't enforce the rules strictly enough. O'Day retaliated that it was the fault of the managers, and that if the umpires enforced the code to the letter the managers would be barred most of the time.

Hank suggests that the way to stop the intentional pass was to have the managers get together and make an agreement to fine any one of their pitchers $100 if he issued an intentional pass. He also suggested that the way to stop the freak pitching was for the managers to force their pitchers to stop it by fining them.

Changes in Scoring.

The umpires were also clothed with full authority to govern baseball postponements on rainy days. It will entirely be up to the umpires to say whether the game will be continued once it has been started and halted by rain. Home managers will no longer be permitted to have the games called when it is only sprinkling. The word of the umpire in questions of this kind will be absolute. Other changes made in the rules were:

Eliminate sacrifice flies from summaries and score them with other sacrifice hits, as sacrifices.

Eliminate from stolen bases those credited to runner who is allowed to advance without any effort to stop him in last half inning of game, when score is such that his run will not affect the result.

If first baseman, on receiving ball, fails to touch first base, when it is obvious that he had time to do so, charge him with error.

With runner on base in last of ninth, score tied and two out, give batter who drives in run credit for number of bases on his hit as the runner advances, except that if batter knocks ball out of park he be credited with a home run.

"Provided, that if a batsman, in the last half of the final inning of any game, hits a home run over the fence or into the stand, all runners on the bases at the time, as well as the batsman, shall be entitled to score, and, in such event, the final score of the game shall be the total number of runs made."

Argue About Balk.

The rule makers argued for hours about the balk. They did not get anywhere with the prolonged discussion, but one thing is certain, the pitchers, next season, will not be able to make as many balks as in the past, for the umpires have been instructed to watch the pitchers closely.

Another new rule which will be hailed with delight by the fans at the Polo Grounds, provides that when a home run is hit into the grand stand and goes into the stand on fair territory, but goes foul after going into the stand, this will count as a home run. With the short right-field stand to aim at, this news will meet with the approval of Babe Ruth, Benny Kauf, and Frank Baker, who have repeatedly hit drivers into the grand stand which have gone foul after going over the wall.

The Rules Committee also adopted a rule establishing an official diamond for juniors. This diamond will be 82 feet between the bases, and the pitching rubber, 50 feet from the plate. This action was taken after argument had been presented that boys under 16 years were attempting to play the national game on regulation diamonds with the result that development of potential recruits for the big leagues was retarded. It was contended that the youthful pitchers were unable to throw the distances with effect and that the catcher had to run a few steps into the diamond in order to get the ball to second base.

Hereafter when a manager fails to inform the umpire of a change in lineup he will be fined $25 instead of $5 as formerly.

American Leaguers Confer.

The American League held conference here today in two sections. Over at President Johnson's office, Ban met with the five loyal club owners and afterward they held a meeting of the new Board of Directors. The only business reported was the approval in the rule changes made by the Joint Rule Committee. As soon as Colonel Ruppert and Colonel Huston arrived here with Harry Frazee of the Red Sox they went out and held a conference with President Charles A. Comiskey, at the White Sox Park. The insurgent club owners simply talked over the course they would pursue tomorrow. They decided that they would attend the American League meeting tomorrow, which is to adopt the season's schedule.

There were no whisperings of peace around the hotels where the baseball men are crowded, and it doesn't look as if the word peace would be even mentioned tomorrow.

It was stated among the baseball men tonight that at the joint meeting of the leagues on Wednesday Colonel Ruppert would offer the name of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis of this city as Chairman of the National Commission. It is believed that Johnson will oppose this selection, and the committee will be ready to present half a dozen other names as August Herrmann's successor.

President Charles A. Stoneham of the Giants came here today from Cuba, and said that he was looking for an infielder and would use every effort to land one before the session was over. He said that Manager McGraw would be back in New York in about ten days and would go to San Antonio with the first batch of Giants to leave New York. Manager George Stallings of the Braves was asked if Mr. Stoneham had made an offer to him for Shortstop Maranville. Stallings said that the Giants have no chance whatever of getting the player.

Matt Hinkel of Cleveland today met Harry H. Frazee, owner of the Boston Red Sox, and asked him how much he wanted for his ball club. Mr. Frazee said that at the present time he did not want to talk sales in any shape or form.

C. W. Murphy Brings Action Against National League.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—The National League Club owners got a surprise when they came to town this morning, for they were greeted by a legal process from Charles W. Murphy, former owner of the Chicago Cubs. Deputies from the Sheriff's office invaded the session of the National League magnates when they convened early today and served papers on them notifying them to appear before Judge Barrett of the Cook County Circuit Court on Feb. 25 at 10 o'clock. Breach of contract is alleged.

All the club owners of the National League were served with the notices to appear, as well as Charles Weeghman, former owner of the Cubs. The case is an outgrowth of the dispute over rental for the West Side Park after the club was sold to the Weeghman interests and was moved to the North Side.

The Cubs' lease on Murphy's Park, which was to run until 1962, was broken on Aug. 1, 1916, Murphy says. He asks that the National League be restrained from arranging a schedule until his cause for damages is settled. The sum of $121,922 is asked from the Chicago club, including $50,000 for breach of covenant.

In the papers of the suit Murphy cites the constitution of the National League, which states that the purchaser of any club must assume the assets as well as the liabilities. One of the liabilities of the Chicago club when it was purchased by the Weeghman Federal League syndicate was the ninety-nine-year lease of Murphy's park, the suit states.

YANKS ASK EXTENSION.

Petition Supreme Court for More Time on Cleveland Hearing.

Before Justice Nathan Bijur in the Supreme Court yesterday Charles H. Tuttle, attorney for the New York American League Club, applied for an extension of time from Feb. 15 to March 15 to return the testimony of the commission which was appointed to take oral testimony of three officials of the Cleveland Baseball Club. The testimony dealt with the possible connection of President B. B. Johnson of the American League with the Cleveland club and is part of the fight being waged against Johnson by the New York club. The Cleveland club officials to be examined are President James C. Dunn, Business Manager E. S. Barnard and Secretary Walter McNichols.

By consent the hearing of the argument was set down for Wednesday morning next. On Jan. 30 Justice Vernon M. Davis granted an order directing that oral testimony be taken before Justice of the Peace Basil F. Johnson of Cleveland. The order directed the return of the testimony not later than Feb. 15. In his application for the extension of time Attorney Tuttle said that because of the distance of Cleveland from New York and the fact that the Justice did not sign the order promptly on its presentation to him it had been physically impossible to complete the examination and have the testimony ready for presentation to the Court on the date specified.

RED SOX PARK IN WRANGLE.

Lannin, in Dispute with Frazee, Moves to Auction Off Stock.

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—Action looking toward the sale by auction of 3,000 shares of the capital stock of the Fenway Realty Trust, owners of Fenway Park, home of the Boston Red Sox, was announced tonight by attorneys for Joseph J. Lannin, former owner of the Red Sox. The ownership of the baseball club is not involved.

The auction sale is set for March 3. It is the result of a dispute between Lannin and Harry H. Frazee, President of the Red Sox, over the terms of the sale of the club by Lannin to Frazee and Hugh J. Ward in November, 1916.

In a statement tonight attorneys for Lannin said he took as part of the purchase money the note of Messrs. Frazee and Ward for $262,000, secured by a pledge of the entire issue of the capital stock of the Fenway Realty Trust, subject to mortgage bonds aggregating $25,000. The note became due on Nov. 1 last.

Counsel for Frazee stated that Mr. Frazee says that there are outstanding debts for which he is liable of approximately $60,000, which Lannin will not admit. Mr. Frazee will endeavor to enjoin Mr. Lannin from selling until there is an accounting between them. Any time Lannin is willing to concede to Frazee the amount that is due, Frazee is ready to pay.

RUTH WANTS $15,000.

Will Ask Frazee for That Amount—Predicts New Record.

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—"Babe" Ruth today announced that he would attempt to obtain $15,000 of the $125,000 which the Red Sox are said to have received for his release to the New York Americans. Returning here from the Pacific Coast, Ruth said he had no intention of making trouble, that he would sign with the Yankees at the salary agreed on, reported to be $18,000 a year, but that he would endeavor to get a part of the price of his purchase from President Harry H. Frazee of the Boston club.

The heavy hitter predicted that he would exceed his home run record of last year with the assistance of the short right field at the Polo Grounds.

AMATEUR-PRO GOLF TOURNEY PLANNED

As if to steal a march on New Jersey and Westchester golfers with a new tournament treat, the Long Islanders of the metropolitan golf district are arranging, more or less quietly, an amateur-professional tournament to be held probably during the month of July. Jimmie West, pro at the Rockaway Hunts Club during the season and now teaching University Club members fine points of the game during the cold weather, is taking the lead among the paid linksmen in the arrangements.

West yesterday described the plans, which are being officially formulated by the P. G. A. With more than sixty golf and country clubs on Long Island, it is expected that at least half will respond eagerly to the new proposition. The pro at each club will choose an amateur golfer for a partner, make entry, and launch forth in search of an attractive purse for himself and a trophy for his partner. Four weeks will be allotted for the tournament, one week for each of the rounds. In this way no club will be inconvenienced by having a flood of golfers over its course during a busy week in Summer. Either by lot or by some simple means of qualification, half of the entering pros will have the privilege of choosing the course for play. Naturally enough, each will name his own home links. In this way the first three rounds will be played. Neutral courses will be used without exception for the semi-final and final round matches.

New York needs just such a tournament to round out its otherwise satisfactorily busy golf season. The amateur-pro best ball matches have long been popular in New England and last year they assumed positions of regular fixtures on the calendar. During both Spring and late Autumn the Bostonians are matched against the amateurs and pros from Rhode Island when such a galaxy of stars as Francis Ouimet, Jess Guilford, P. W. Whittemore and Mike Brady, George Bowden, and Louis Tellier are pitted against W. B. Rooks, George Gordon, George Fotheringham and others.

A Long Island event would bring out just about the best-ball golf matches possible in this district. Nassau, for instance, could marshall Gardiner W. White and James Maiden; and the Engineers' Club could be represented by Captain Charles Clarke, the recent arrival from England who served in both the Boer and World wars and who has succeeded Herbert Strong, paired with Eddie Driggs, Jr. It would be a formidable assortment.

Edward F. Raynolds won the New York State pocket billiard championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players at the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. Meeting John J. Maloney in the play-off match, Raynolds won by a score of 100 to 37. It was one of the most decisive trimmings administered during the tournament, and the one-sided score can be accounted for in great measure by Maloney's nervousness. He was away out of stroke, and at no time during the match was he able to get going.

Maloney was off his game when he first met Raynolds, but last night he was even worse. He was unsteady at all times, and it was plainly apparent to the big gallery that witnessed the play that he was nervous. On the other hand, Raynolds proved himself a great player in a pinch. He was steady throughout, and, while he made many misses during the early frames, came strongly toward the end, and his execution and position play were all that could have been desired.

The score by frames:

Raynolds—10 14 14 10 4 9 3 11 13 11 5. Total—100. High run—23. Scratches—4.
Maloney—4 0 0 4 10 5 11 3 1 3. Total—37. High run—9. Scratches—4.

RICE WINS AT BILLIARDS.

The opening game in the national Class B 18:2 balkline tournament, being held under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players at the Brooklyn Billiard Academy, was won by Julian Rice last night. He defeated Merritt P. McManiman by a score of 200 to 145, averaging 4 24-44, and making a high run of 36. McManiman averaged 3 16-43, and his best run was 20.

Julian Rice, who twice has been runner up in this event, is one of the favorites to win the title. George T. Moon, Jr., the titleholder, was prevented from defending his crown in this tourney by illness.

The game last night failed to produce any particularly good billiards. Neither player was at his best, and both several times missed both balls and, under the rules governing the play, forfeited one point for each miss. While they showed to advantage in making open table shots, spread draws and treacherous follows, they fell down badly on comparatively simple one-cushion shots.

The Aggies ran into an 18-12 lead at the end of the first half, and it was nip and tuck for the remainder of the contest, both teams scoring 12 points.

SCHOOLBOY BASKET BALL.

After trailing the Columbia Grammar basket ball team by a score of 11 to 3 at the conclusion of the first half, the Collegiate School five staged an impressive rally yesterday afternoon and registered 22 points in the second half and a final victory at 35 to 19.

A sustained rally in the second half gave the Erasmus Hall High School basketball quintet a victory over Adelphi Academy of Brooklyn on the latter's court yesterday by the convincing margin of 35 to 12.

Trinity School Basketball Team and the Berkeley-Irving School quintet battled to a tie in their game yesterday on the Trinity Court, the final score being 25-all. A rally in the second half brought Berkeley-Irving's team to even terms with Trinity, which led at the end of the first half by 15 to 11. In a preliminary game, the Trinity Midgets defeated the Berkeley-Irving second team by a margin of 44 to 8.

Bank Clerks' Fives Play.

The Columbia Trust Company basket ball team gained an easy victory over the Farmers Loan and Trust Company five last evening by a score of 41 to 28 at Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn, in the Bank Clerks' Basket Ball League. A second contest between teams representing the Mechanics and Metals National Bank and the Federal Reserve Bank ended in a victory for the latter by 39 to 23.

OLYMPIC ASPIRANTS IN MILLROSE GAMES

Tonight's Track Meet at Garden Will Enlist Many Champions in Competition.

New York's greatest indoor athletic meet will be held this evening in Madison Square Garden, where the Millrose A. A. conducts its thirteenth annual board floor track and field carnival. Because of the remarkable significance attached to the competitions scheduled on the lengthy program, providing, as they do, an insight into the prospective strength of Uncle Sam for the coming Olympic games, unusual interest has been attracted to the meet.

Charles Paddock of the University of Southern California will probably come in for a lot of attention. The Western crack, who captured the inter-allied sprinting title, is scheduled to compete in the 70-yard special invitation dash against the greatest sprinters in the country. Numbered among his foes, to mention just a few of the contenders, will be Loren Murchison, New York A. C.; Billy Hayes, Boston A. A., and Frank Conway, Morningside A. C.

Joie W. Ray of the Illinois A. C., fresh from his victory in the Hunter Mile at Boston, will seek success in the Rodman Wanamaker one-and-one-half mile special. In this event Ray will receive opposition from Gordon Nightingale, New Hampshire State College; Jimmy Connolly, Boston A. A.; Bob Crawford, Lafayette; John Simmons, Syracuse, and Allen Swede, Princeton. Anatole Bolin, Swedish middle-distance champion and record holder; Homer Baker, Glencoe A. C., and Mike Devaney are among the starters in a three-quarter-mile special, while the Millrose "600" will bring together Dave Caldwell, Boston A. A.; Tom Campbell, Yale; Earl Eby, Pennsylvania; Jack Sellers, New York A. C., and Jimmy O'Brien.

POWER MEANS SAFETY

The car that starts quickly, and accelerates faster than other cars, that meets the changes of the road without the delays of gear shifting, that steers at a light touch, that overtakes and passes other cars even on a steep hill on high, that is ready for every emergency, affords not merely greater service and satisfaction. It also affords greater safety.

The dual valve Pierce-Arrow offers greater safety—the safety of decisive action, not the safety of timid hesitation. It has power for ample speed, responsiveness that insures quick action.

Doing Away With Belt Drive

In many progressive factories belt drives are being supplanted by direct motor drives for certain kinds of work. Greater economy of power and more efficient operation is thus secured.

A notable example of this is in the new plant of the National Acme Company, Cleveland, Ohio, where 665 Robbins & Myers Motors are used on multiple spindle automatic screw machines, grinding machines, punch presses and similar equipment.

Robbins & Myers Motors were first used by this company, the largest of its kind in the world, in 1916. So dependable were the R&M Motors, and so economical, that the increased installation was but natural, as was the adoption by them of R&M Motors on many of the machines they manufacture.

Similarly, the reputation won by the R&M Motors extends to motor-driven devices for office, store and home, where they are regularly used by leading manufacturers. There is a Robbins & Myers Motor for every purpose. Look for the R&M name plate on the motors or the motor-equipped devices you buy.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Easier call money rates and higher quotations for the foreign exchanges were recorded yesterday than toward the end of last week, but lessened tension in these markets had only moderate reflection in stocks. At the same time, there was a decided slackening of selling pressure, and in the irregular price exhibit at the close of business quite a number of industrial issues showed gains extending from fair-sized fractions to more than a point. What was notably a factor in trading was the reluctance of spectators to take on committments for the rise, being influenced presumbably, by desire to see whether interest and exchange rates would disclose through the next few days anything of a permanent tendency to improve. Stocks were severely depressed last week, and it was not surprising that no degree of exuberence accompanied yesterday's transactions.

The renewal rate for demand loans was 14 per cent., compared with 17 per cent. late in the week previous, and when lenders found that borrowing was on a rather small scale offerings became heavy enough to carry the quotation back to 8 per cent. If time money had displayed a little of the same tone, the stock market might have acted differently. But there were only meager supplies of fixed period accommodation offered anywhere, and rates continued from 8½ to 10 per cent., depending on the collateral. As the time loan situation has become the true barometer for the stock market credit outlook, the inference was still plain that credit for speculation was not showing signs of becoming freer. There has been a substantial liquidation of securities since Nov. 1, including Liberty bonds from the strong boxes of corporations and the holdings of individuals, and also to some extent of commodities. In other periods this process would have had considerable effect upon the country's loan account and the cost of credit, but liquidation of the present does not release credit as it did before the world's balance sheet became so badly distorted and that for the reason that American sellers of stocks and goods cannot turn to Europe for a market. Reference to the combined reserve position of the Federal Reserve system indicates the difficulty experienced during the last two months in bringing about credit deflation. One week has brought an improvement of the reserve ratio, the next week has wiped out the gain. When rediscounts of Government paper and commercial bills have declined, there has been an offsetting loss of gold. Last week for instance the ratio declined from 44.5 per cent. to 44⅛ per cent. If the experience of the year to date counts for anything it would seem that the steps to loosen up credit will be slow and must be viewed with patience.

Sterling exchange again improved its position, the advance of 3½ cents to the pound being considerably larger than Saturday's recovery. Francs, however, lost a little ground and the German mark declined to a value of about 1 cent each. Bankers reported a flow of business of only moderate proportions which was to be expected after last week's confusion and haste to let bills go at the best prices they would bring. While dealings in German exchange were on a rather small scale it was said in exchange circles that remittances to pay for cotton and other raw material were continuous. Whether or not Germany is able to buy cotton here and export finished goods at a profit with exchange so much against her, the need for clothing materials in that country is so great that cotton must be acquired at any price.

T. W. LAMONT GOING TO PUSH CHINA LOAN

Morgan Partner Starts for Far East Thursday in Consortium's Interest.

TO APPEAL TO JAPANESE

Will Urge Bankers to Approve Principles Americans, British and French Accepted.

Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. will leave New York on Thursday of this week for a trip to Japan and China, where, as representative of the American banking group of the Chinese consortium, he will confer with members of the Japanese group, and, later, will discuss finances with the leading Chinese representatives. Mr. Lamont will be accompanied by Jeremiah Smith of Boston, who will act as legal adviser, and by Martin Egan, also of J. P. Morgan & Co. The trip, it is expected, will take about five months.

Mr. Lamont, it is believed, will endeavor to persuade the Japanese members of the consortium to recede from their present position with regard to financing China. When the consortium was recreated, in May of last year, it was understood that no country should attempt to cultivate special "spheres of influence" and that, so far as practicable, all options then held by any member of the group, which included the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan, should be turned into the consortium as a whole. These principles, in a general way, were agreed to by all of the groups, both through their banking and diplomatic agents, but Japan subsequently expressed some reservation in regard to certain portions of China in which she feels she has particular interests.

Negotiations for the emergency loan of £5,000,000, which it was reported a week or so ago the four-power group was arranging for China, are still being carried on and it is expected will be consummated within a short time.

This attitude on the part of the Japanese Government has resulted in unexpected delay in getting the consortium into active being. During his sojourn in the Far East Mr. Lamont, it is understood, will take up this matter with the Japanese group, which includes all of the leading institutions in Japan, with the idea of ascertaining definitely whether it desires to enter the consortium on a basis satisfactory to the other members.

In Abeyance During War.

The Chinese consortium dates back to 1909, when it was formed as a four-power group and consisted of the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany, and under the auspices of this group one loan of £6,000,000 was floated jointly in New York, London, Paris and Berlin. In 1912 the group was enlarged to include Russia and Japan. In 1913, when Secretary of State Bryan announced that the State Department was unwilling longer to support the American group, the American interests withdrew and when the war started in 1914 the consortium virtually ceased to exist.

The consortium was brought into being again last year, at the behest of the State Department, which expressed the belief that the Chinese situation could best be handled by an international consortium similar to the one previously formed. On May 12, last, Mr. Lamont, representing the American members, called the first meeting of the present four-power group. It is now believed that if the consortium functions as it is expected to, additional countries will be admitted within a short time. There is a possibility that Belgium will be one of these and, also, the chance exists that Russia, at some time in the future, will be admitted.

B. That all existing options held by a member of any of the national groups should, so far as practicable, be turned into the consortium as a whole;

C. That the four banking groups of the countries in question should act in concert and in an effective partnership for the interests of China; and

D. That the consortium's operations should deal primarily with loans to the Chinese Republic or to Provinces of the republic, or with loans guaranteed or officially having to do with the republic or its Provinces, and in each instance of a character sufficient to warrant a public issue.

Free Hand for Individuals.

It was distinctly understood that the operations of the consortium should not interfere in any respect with private operations in China for the development of individual industrial, commercial and banking projects, but that where the general interests of the republic, or of its Provinces, were concerned the consortium would attempt to act as a unit and lend its financial aid to China. The general constitution and principles thus adopted at the meeting in Paris were presented to the Governments of the respective groups and were approved by them.

After the Paris conference the American group was organized to include banks and banking houses which had displayed interest in Far Eastern finance. This group now consists of thirty-three institutions, and its personnel, which was announced yesterday, is as follows: J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the First National Bank, the National City Bank, Guaranty Trust Company, Chase National Bank, Nation Bank of Commerce, Bankers' Trust Company, Central Union Trust Company, Equitable Trust Company, Harris, Forbes & Co., Brown Brothers & Co., and Halsey, Stuart & Co. of New York; Lee, Higginson & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., the First National Bank and the National Shawmut Bank of Boston; the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, the First Trust and Savings Bank, Harris Trust and Savings Bank, the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, and the Northern Trust Company of Chicago; the Commercial Trust Company and the Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia; the Union Trust Company and the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh; the St. Louis Union Trust Company, Mercantile Trust Company and Mississippi Valley Trust Company of St. Louis; the Anglo & London Paris National Bank, the Bank of California, N. A., and the Wells Fargo Nevada National Bank of San Francisco, and the Whitney Central National Bank of New Orleans.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Money Easier.

In most recent weeks the money market has begun with a rush upward, and then, in more cases than not, has eased off toward midweek. But yesterday it was different. As against the renewal rate of 17 per cent. at the close of last week, yesterday's renewal was 14 per cent., and later in the day new loans were arranged at 8 per cent.—" only 8 per cent.," some people were inclined to say, for the rate is low, as rates go these days. Stocks rallied a little on this development, but not nearly so much as some brokerage house observers had expected.

Time Money Tight.

One reason the market failed to respond in the expected manner may be put down to the extremely high rates which are being charged for time loans based on the best Stock Exchange collateral. Thirty and sixty day loans were made yesterday—in a very few cases—at rates, plus commissions, which figured out at anywhere from 9 to 10 per cent. And only a few were able to get time accommodation even at these figures. This is a situation which is disconcerting to the large operators. The little fellows care not at all about time loan rates, but the big fellows do, and this, it is highly probable, is one reason the market has been making disappointing responses to the occasional easing in call rates.

Profits and Wages.

One hears a good deal just now about how wages may be kept up to present standards, or even advanced, while selling prices of the goods produced by the wage earners are reduced. It is not altruism, the wondering inquirer is told, but a policy of smaller profits "for the good of the public," and while that may all be so, there are those who suspect that at least some corporations have in mind a demonstration of the fact that prices cannot be reduced, wages increased, or not diminished, and still leave the usual amount for excess profits taxes. Incidentally, if the excess profits taxes should happen to fall very far under the estimates, Congress will have to find new taxation sources, and this, it is logical to suppose, will bring about the readjustment in the whole taxation scheme which is so sorely needed.

Cotton Re-exports.

The fear and the hubbub over the threatened "re-export of cotton" is rapidly disappearing. So far as bankers and cotton experts have been able to find out, the extent of this re-export movement from Liverpool will be in the neighborhood of 5,000 bales, with an outside chance that it will total 10,000 bales. But that, significant as it may be, is not the real point. This re-export is a special transaction, or so one authority who ought to know maintains, and so far as having any far-reaching effect on the cotton situation, it may be pointed out that 10,000 bales is less than the average daily export from the leading Southern ports.

Rails Shares Irregular.

There was little in the action of the railroad stocks in yesterday's market to indicate that the so-called cheaper issues were reflecting the improved tone of reports on the progress of legislation in Washington. The low-priced stocks were inclined to be sensitive and while there were some advances registered at the close there were also a number of losses. The market action of several of the stocks of the railroad corporations which are referred to as creditor lines would make it appear that as the suggestions contained in the new legislation are better digested, the so-called weak roads will be the gainers under the new order of things. Those who had expected that the low-priced rails would respond to news that the legislative machinery was functioning smoothly were disappointed. As a group the rails were inclined to be less active than in recent full trading days.

To Kill Government Competition.

In local shipping circles close attention was paid to the report that there would be a meeting soon between representatives of the United States Shipping Board, the American Steamship Owners' Association, and the United Steamship Association in New York to discuss a proposal of the Shipping Board for a profit-sharing scheme in the operation of its vessels by private interests. At present the Government is in competition with private shipping interests. It is understood that the plan proposes to eliminate this competition through the medium of contracts which will provide for a sharing of profits derived from the operation of Shipping Board vessels by private interests. The New York conference is expected to occur within a few days.

***

Two More Contracts Signed.

Two more standard return contracts have been signed, according to dispatches received in the financial district yesterday; the Delaware & Hudson contract for $7,480,204 and the Panhandle (Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis) for $11,334,093. It is expected that a large part of the remaining unsigned compensation contracts will be agreed upon and disposed of before the termination of Federal control on March 1.

***

Ship Shares Reflect Local Conditions.

The shipping shares continued to reflect adverse local conditions. Scarcity of coal for bunkering purposes has held a number of vessels beyond their announced sailing dates and the situation generally shows but little material improvement. Cargoes have been canceled beyond the regular seasonal cancellations, and the exchange situation continues to cause some uneasiness. That there will be any great volume of cancellations, because of a dearth of buying for export, is not considered as probable by many local shipowners. The Marines, both common and preferred, sold off on an increased volume of business in the junior issue, and Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies and United Fruit also sought lower levels. February is a poor month for the shipping companies and there appears to be a general belief that conditions will improve materially in the next few weeks.

Cutting Out the Dead Wood.

It is understood that many of the railroad companies are surveying the different departments which will be handed back to them for the operation of their properties on March 1, and that there will be many changes following that date. Maintenance of way is a problem many of the carriers must solve immediately following the thaw this Spring, and it has been asserted more than once that all deadwood in several of the companies will be eliminated in an effort to bring the roadbeds back into condition for efficient railroad operation.

***

Bear Drive on Motors.

It was apparent that the bears were selling the motor shares yesterday. General Motors was made the object of an early attack which continued with fair persistency for a considerable part of the session with other motor shares coming in for similar attention by the professionals. The drive netted a fair profit to the bears. Covering operations late in the afternoon brought the shares back to about the level from which the decline began. Some long stock was brought out, but this was not in the volume apparently expected, and when the call money rate eased appreciably short lines were withdrawn with evident haste.

RAIL MEN CONFUSED ON RATES QUESTION

Fixing of Tariffs by Groups Expected to Develop Into Difficult Program.

CREDITOR LINES TO LOSE

Situation Cannot Be Worked Out Except by Guess Method, It Is Contended.

Railroad interests are confused as to how proposed legislation for rates to yield a minimum of 5½ per cent. return on the aggregate value of railroads in groups may be worked out. It is agreed, however, that roads not so firmly intrenched will profit, while so-called creditor lines will lose.

One reason advanced why the situation cannot be worked out except as a guess is that the new law does not prescribe any method by which the Inter-State Commerce Commission shall arrive at the aggregate value of the railroad properties in the groups to be formed. It is assumed the commission will take the book value of the properties as shown by the individual railroad corporations in their reports and that this will provide the basis for a fixing of value.

At the same time, the bureau of valuation of the commission, in arriving at its preliminary valuation figures in the case of a few companies, has based its findings on reproduction cost less depreciation. This is apparently the only way that the valuation bureau may carry on its work successfully, and has proved a slow process.

May Take Over Two Years.

That the bureau would be able to report on the valuation of all transportation properties in the country within less than two or more years is highly improbable, according to railroad managers, and some other method must be found.

How the 5½ per cent. return on aggregate value may work out is shown in the case of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific system. The book value of this property, according to its most recent annual report, is $343,415,223. A 5½ per cent. return on this would equal $19,162,838. Stocks and bonds of the company outstanding total $345,797,137, upon which the same rate would yield $19,018,845. The preliminary estimate of the Interstate Commerce Commission of the value of this property was approximately $350,000,000. Upon this amount a 5½ per cent. return would yield $19,800,000. At the present time the compensation contract between the Government and the system calls for the payment of $15,880,681.

Group Values May Be Basis.

Nothing in the reports from Washington indicate that any provision has been made in the draft of the new railroad measure for a rate of 5½ per cent. on the value of the property of the individual carrier. Apparently rates are to be fixed on the aggregate value of the properties in each group that is formed by the commission. These groups so far have not been outlined. In the opinion of railroad counsel for a road whose value bears an "average" relation to the traffic it handles, 5½ per cent. is considered a fair guess on the return on such property.

How the commission will consider the volume of traffic handled by an individual road in any one district or group with relation to its aggregate value, which may be much in excess of its own capitalization and property account figures, is a question to be answered after the new law is passed. In some quarters it is believed that the carrier with low capital and property account, when judged from the angle of the rate of return on actual aggregate value, may not be classified as an earner of excess profits and may not have to share as much of its earnings as would appear at first glance.

NEW GOODRICH CO. STOCK.

Proposal to Provide for an Issue of $30,000,000 Common.

A special meeting of the B. F. Goodrich Company stockholders will be called for March 10, to consider the proposals of the Directors to issue $30,000,000 five-year 7 per cent. gold notes, convertible into common stock at 80 and a change in the common stock of the company to no par shares. Stockholders will also be asked to approve an increase in the number of authorized common shares to provide for the conversion of the new notes and for the purchase of stock by employes.

In making the proposals for the issue of notes and the change in the common stock, it is understood that the Directors were determned to provde additional working capital for the broadening of the company's business. The new note issue has been underwritten by a New York banking group, and it was officially stated yesterday that if the stockholders approvs the recommendations of the Board, they have the opportunity to subscribe to the note issue on favorable terms.

ARMOURS ANNOUNCE LEATHER COMPANY

$25,000,000 in 7% Preferred Stock and $15,000,000 Common to be Issued.

NET ASSETS $25,000,000

Shareholders of Parent Packing Concern to Have Preference in Stock Allotments.

Armour & Co. announced yesterday details of the initial measure to segregate particular properties under terms arranged recently with the Attorney General. The newly incorporated Armour Leather Company is to acquire all of the parent organization's leather and tanning business, which is estimated at $100,000,000 per year. The turnover in 1919 actually amounted to $90,000,000.

The new company's capitalization consists of $25,000,000 authorized 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, of which $10,000,000 will be issued soon, and $15,000,000 common stock, $15 par, the total to be distributed with the preferred. In addition to these stocks there will be 100,000 founders' shares, without par value, which Armour & Co. will buy at $5 a share. By this arrangement, yesterday's statement said, the assets of Armour & Co. will not be impaired, and the corporation will have a financial interest in the operation of the leather company. The net assets of the leather company are valued at $25,000,000, equal to par in assets for all the stocks to be issued to the public. The assets do not include any values based on good will or patents.

The preferred and common stocks are to be sold in blocks, each one including seven shares of common and one share of preferred, the price per block being $200. This is equivalent to $95 for each share of Armour Leather preferred and $15 per share of common. The holders of the $50,000,000 preferred stock of Armour & Co. will have the initial right to subscribe, in proportion of one block of leather shares for every five shares of Armour & Co. preferred. While subscriptions will be received from the public coincident with those from the present shareholders, the latter will have preference in allotments. Privileges of subscription will expire on Feb. 25.

The balance sheet of the leather company, as of Nov. 1, 1919, shows gross assets of $19,474,124, including $14,455,275 of inventories, physical property valued at $7,474,672, tanning materials and supplies to a total of $2,681,875, accounts and bills receivable amounting to $3,291,914, and more than $500,000 in cash. The statement showed these earnings for the last four years:

1916	$4,902,484	$4,472,701
1917	4,140,840	3,565,188
1918	4,258,356	3,707,145
1919	8,407,940	6,195,824

The figures show that based upon last year's earnings the balance after preferred stock dividends applicable to the common and founders' shares would be $5,495,824. The four years' average of profits available for common stock dividend would be 12.6 per cent. According to the statement dividends at the rate of 8 per cent. on the common stock will be paid if earnings continue satisfactory.

The properties controlled by the company include the Badger State Tanning Co. of Wisconsin, Cappon and Bertsch Leather Co. of Michigan, the Empire Tanning Co. of New York, J. K. Mosser Co. of Pennsylvania, J. K. Mosser Co. of West Virginia, and the Sylva Tanning Co. of Delaware. Besides these are stores and a sole factory and nearly 70 per cent. of the common stock of the Eastern Leather Co. Frank G. Allen, President of the Eastern Leather Co., will be Chairman of the Board of Directors and Henry W. Boyd of Chicago will be President. The directorate will consist of these men and M. C. Weimar of Chicago, F. C. Vonder Heide, Boston; M. P. Brennan, Olean, N. Y.; Philip L. Reed, Boston, and F. W. Croll, R. J. Dunham, and F. Edson White, who are Vice Presidents of Armour & Company.

Nash Motors Company Report.

The report of the Nash Motors Company for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1919, shows a net income after the deduction of expenses and Federal taxes amounting to $5,089,035, which was equivalent to $95.06 a share on the 50,000 shares of common stock after the payment of $336,000 in preferred dividends. The profit and loss surplus as of Nov. 30, 1919, was $6,711,366.

Your Incentive to Save And Invest Conservatively

THE interest of the investing public is concentrating more and more upon the security markets. It is well that this should be so. It is well that men generally should realize more fully than they do that the security markets are a barometer of conditions in commerce and industry. This barometer indicates today the need for the exercise of proper caution, the practice of thrift, the working to the utmost of every man and every dollar. Nations, municipalities, commerce and industry, all need money. All are now offering their securities on terms so liberal that every thinking man has the strongest incentive to save and invest to the limit of his ability. The judicious selection of these securities is a matter of knowledge and discrimination. Our experience of forty years is at your service.

The gross volume of business in 1919 was approximately $90,000,000.

CAPITALIZATION

	Authorized	To be immediately issued and outstanding
7% Cumulative Preferred Stock ($100 par)	$25,000,000	$10,000,000
Common Stock ($15 par)	$15,000,000	*$15,000,000
Founders' Stock (no par value)	shares 100,000	†100,000

*$4,500,000 Common Stock is reserved to be offered to employees and customers of the Company.

†The Founders' Stock will be subscribed for and acquired by Armour and Company, who will pay $5 a share for same.

The Company will have no bonds outstanding and covenants not to permit the creation of any mortgages or liens upon the present property of either the Company or the companies whose stock the Company is about to acquire, without the consent of the holders of two-thirds in par value of the Preferred Stock outstanding at the time.

Net assets, based on valuations of November 1, 1919, will be $25,500,000, equal to $255 per share of Preferred Stock outstanding. Net quick assets will be $16,043,564, which is equal to $160 per share of Preferred Stock outstanding.

Additional Preferred Stock can only be issued to an amount equal to 75% of the cost of extensions, additions, betterments and improvements and of new property acquired, and then only provided earnings for a period of twelve months have been at least three times the amount required for dividends on all Preferred Stock outstanding and the new stock to be issued.

The Company agrees to maintain at all times, net assets equal to at least 200%, and net quick assets equal to at least 125% of the par value of all Preferred Stock outstanding.

Earnings available for dividends, after Federal taxes, during the last fiscal year were $6,195,824; average annual net earnings during the last four-year period were $4,485,215. Thus, net earnings for the last fiscal year were over eight times, and average earnings of the last four years were in excess of six times dividend requirements on present issue of Preferred Stock.

After preferred dividends, the remaining surplus earnings shall be available for dividends on the Common and Founders' Stock, in equal aggregate amounts. For a period of three years dividends on the Founders' Stock shall be limited if earnings are less than $4,000,000.

After providing for dividends on the Preferred Stock, the earnings for the last fiscal year were equivalent to 18.3% on the Common Stock (this after deducting an equal aggregate amount on the Founders' Stock), and the average annual net earnings during the four-year period were 12.6% on the Common Stock on the same basis.

The officers and Directors of the Company will be principally those who have been engaged in the operation of the companies now being acquired, and who have in a large measure been responsible for their growth and development.

COTTON CLOSES DAY AT OPENING PRICES

Market, Constantly Moving in Fairly Wide Scope, Returns to Previous Closing.

EXPORT CHECK NOT FEARED

Trade Realizes Europe Must Buy Staple, and Overseas Cargoes Are Not Declining.

There was a degree of uncertainty and irregularity in yesterday's cotton market not often seen. Prices went up sharply at the start, gaining 25 to 33 points almost before the day was well launched, and then, for no particular reason, sold off even more rapidly, going down 65 to 70 points just after midday. In the afternoon the range was fairly wide, and the market was constantly moving, but at the close of business two options were exactly where they had ended on Saturday and the greatest net change to be recorded was the 5-point loss in July, which was 1 point more than the gain in March and 2 points more than the gains in October and December. In short, the market covered a fairly wide scope during the day, but came back right to its previous closing at the end.

The early advance was accomplished on an accumulation of buying orders which came in in the over-Sunday mail. When this buying was exhausted, along with the ring buying which developed in the first two hours, the market went off abruptly on some rather extensive Southern selling. This second movement might have gone farther than it did had not local sentiment improved very rapidly when call money eased on the Stock Exchange and when the news dispatches from Washington told of the Senate's vote to reconsider the Peace Treaty. These two factors turned local operators decidedly bullish for a time and the decline was halted and prices turned upward. That was shortly after midday and thereafter the market backed and filled in lively manner, but without getting anywhere in particular.

The fear of a notable curtailment in foreign takings of our cotton had about disappeared yesterday. The trade, even the speculators, had come to realize that Europe will have to buy considerable quantities of the staple, that it is very much to their interest to do so, and as the reports of export clearances show no signs of falling off, this fear has been allowed to pass out of most market considerations and calculations.

Over the week-end exports amounted to 66,225 bales, making the total for the season to date 3,975,799 bales, 1,384,576 bales more than had been exported up to this time a year ago.

At Liverpool cotton was firm. Spots were up 40 points from Friday to the basis of 25.12d for middling and futures at the close were generally higher than they had been at the close of last week.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. day.
March	35.00	35.10	34.44	34.99@35.00	34.95

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 40.50c; New Orleans, 38.50c; Savannah, 39.50c; Augusta, 38c; Memphis, 39c; Houston, 39.75c; Little Rock, 39c.

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was in fair demand at 28.12d for middling. Sales, 7,000 bales, of which 5,000 were American. Imports, 12,000 bales, of which 1,000 were American. Futures opened quiet, 1 point up to 5 points down, and closed steady, 5 points down to 18 points up from Friday. Prices: March, 26.84d; May, 25.42d; July, 24.31d; October, 22.58d.

Manchester: Yarns and cloths were firm and in good demand.

FACE BIG COTTON TRADE CUT.

Half of Exports Stopped by English Ban Due to Exchange.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Indications that England's inability to purchase American cotton because of the exchange situation may mean a virtual cutting in half of the United States export trade in that staple are shown in statistics issued today by the Department of Commerce.

More than 50 per cent. of the cotton exported by the United States during the five months ended with December last went to England, according to the department's latest foreign trade reports. For the five months the total exports of cotton amounted to 2,869,750 bales of 1,472,522,970 pounds, valued at $543,734,660, of which England took 1,475,900 bales of 766,887,730 pounds, valued at $288,477,660. In December, England imported 442,210 bales of 231,286,100 pounds of cotton, valued at $94,221,365, while the total exported from the United States for the month was valued at $180,648,270.

France stands second to England as a market for American cotton, and Japan third. Department of Commerce experts assert that little of the surplus which will result from the closing of England's ports to American cotton can be diverted to either of these countries. France is facing the same situation with regard to exchange, it is pointed out, while Japan's consumption of the raw material is limited by its restricted market for the finished product, which is confined mainly to China.

Little hope of an immediate fall in the price of clothing due to the reduction of America's cotton exports, is held out by Commerce officials. The effect of an oversupply of raw material in this country will not be felt for some time by the manufacturer, and for a longer time by the retailer, as the clothing industry, it is explained, is generally from six months to a year ahead of the retail market, and most of next year's commitments have already been completed.

Textile Financing

THE expansion of the American textile industry, both in the United States and abroad, in all its branches—cotton, wool, silk, etc.—has made clear the necessity for, and the advantages of, a closer relationship between manufacturers, selling agents, and other interests in the industry, and their bankers.

The specialized functions of this Company are to finance the movement of raw material into the textile mill, and, through a factoring arrangement, the finished product into the channels of trade.

We are always pleased to talk over with textile men specific matters relative to the financing of their business.

Have a Canadian Bank Handle Your Canadian Business

AMERICAN manufacturers doing business with Canada are inclined to forget that Canadian trade is foreign trade: that the financing of Canadian trade, like all foreign trade, is best done by specialists. They fail to realize that a Canadian banker's advice on problems of Canadian trade is as indispensable as a French banker's advice regarding French trade, or a Japanese banker's advice regarding Japanese trade. This is particularly true now that Canadian exchange is subject to serious fluctuations.

The officers of the New York Agency of the Union Bank of Canada are intimately in touch at all times with conditions in Montreal, Toronto, and Winnipeg; their advice in regard to the financing of Canadian trade is always at the service of American importers and exporters.

SHIP CAPTAIN LAYS FRAUD TO CONSUL

State Department Will Investigate Charge of $500,000 Loss Through Conspiracy.

VESSEL HELD UP AT RIO

Master Says He Was Ousted Illegally and Forced to Pay Excessive Repair Costs.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Charges that A. T. Haeberle, American Consul at Rio de Janeiro, was the centre of a conspiracy whereby the United States Government and the charterers of the Shipping Board steamer Lake Elkwood lost more than $500,000 will be investigated by the Shipping Board and the State Department.

Captain William H. Chambliss, late master of the Lake Elkwood, who was deprived of the command of that vessel by Haeberle, and who brought the charges, arrived in Washington today from New York to be the chief witness in the investigation.

Inquiries into the Captain's charges already have been held in New York by Customs Inspectors and Shipping Board officials.

According to the Captain's story, he took the Lake Elkwood, a new steamer, out of Cleveland July 14, 1919, tried her out down the Atlantic Coast and loaded with coal at Norfolk, Sept. 7, for consignees in Buenos Aires. Off the north coast of Brazil he lost a propeller blade, then another one, and finally a third. From that time on he and Elliott worked the ship for six days and nights, refusing offers to tow to avoid salvage costs, and put her into Rio Harbor Oct. 8.

Captain Chambliss maintains that he could have had his ship repaired for between $3,000 and $4,000, got her away inside of three to five days, and taken her cargo of coal to the consignees in Buenos Aires. But, he asserts, Consul Haeberle insisted that she must go into the yard of Lage Brothers, against the Captain's strong protest. Captain Chambliss says he knew this yard was too small, and he had offers from many and larger yards at small cost.

But Consul Haeberle, according to Chambliss's story, persisted in having repairs costing thousands of dollars made, and also sold to Lage Brothers the cargo of coal "at a figure that looks ridiculously small when placed alongside of the actual value of coal in the market at that time." The Captain charges that Haeberle and his assistant Consuls, A. B. Fate and Swayne Smith, had the stern tube of the Lake Elkwood pulled out and another manufactured "at enormous expense on the false pretext that the tube was a misfit and had not been constructed properly."

When Captain Chambliss would not O. K. the bill for the repairs Consul Haeberle revoked his command. The Captain says he has ascertained that the Shipping Board knew nothing of this action. Then, says Chambliss, the Consulate ordered "Captain Green" in charge.

Captain Chambliss says he applied to the Brazilian Supreme Court, and the court decided the Consul had no right to interfere. But Consul Haeberle, according to the captain, would not issue sailing papers. The ship went to sea in command of Green, who had been second mate.

Left in Rio, Captain Chambliss says he went diligently to work to prove that there was a conspiracy. He filed charges direct with Ambassador Morgan, and the Embassy granted him a passport to leave the country and come to the United States. His claim that the Government and the charterers of the ship lost $500,000 to $600,000 is based on his estimate that it would have cost $3,000 to $4,000 to have the steamer repaired if he had been left alone, as compared with the actual large repair charges, cost of the coal and cost of delay, estimated by him at about $2,000 daily.

Advice of Manufacturers and Wholesalers

In our desire to render to manufacturers and jobbers a service that may be of great value, we seek your advice on the course that a prudent merchant in your line of business should pursue in buying and selling goods, when prices show a declining tendency.

(1) How should a merchant avoid the dangers involved in falling prices?
(2) What policy should he follow in buying goods?
(3) What policy should he employ in selling goods?
(4) What should be his terms of sale to his customers?
(5) What should be his policy in collecting his accounts?
(6) What should be his policy in borrowing money?

We desire to get the consensus of opinion of manufacturers and wholesalers as to the precautions which ought to be taken on a falling merchandise market, in order to avert a crisis or disaster. We are compiling a treatise that will show the views of business leaders of America on this vital subject. To all firms who contribute to the symposium we will send this brochure free of cost. It will be off the press shortly. May we not have your views on the above?

GRONNA ACCUSES RESERVE BANKS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Investigation of the extent to which Federal Reserve banks have withdrawn loans on grain held in storage was ordered today by the Senate. The Committee on Banking and Currency will make the inquiry.

Chairman Gronna of the Agricultural Committee, who proposed the inquiry, said the curtailing of credit by the banks had resulted in an artificial depression of the price of grain. He charged that "a situation was being forced to move grain from the hands of the farmer and country elevators into the larger centres."

Federal Reserve Board officials would not discuss the situation further than to say there had been no order to withdraw credits on grain or other necessities. In other quarters it was said the recent raising of the rediscount rates at Federal Reserve centres would have the effect of curtailing credits generally.

It was explained that the increased rates would result in a readjustment by the banks of the amounts of credits to their customers, and that such a readjustment necessarily would affect customers who had borrowed on necessities held in storage. The increased total of interest on their loans also was expected to curtail the amount of loans customers would be able to carry, it was said.

With these general reductions in credits, it was expected that large quantities of goods now in storage on which funds have been borrowed would have to be placed on the market. Some officials said a reduction in costs of commodities thus forced on the market was to be expected.

Senator Gronna introduced another resolution authorizing the Agriculture Committee to investigate the railroad freight car shortage, and also "the reported willful interference with successful operation of railroads under Government control by certain officials of the United States Railroad Administration." Senator King, Democrat, Utah, objected to immediate consideration of the resolution, and it went over.

$304,877,000 Treasury Notes Sold.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Subscriptions to the last issue of Treasury certificates of indebtedness, sales of which closed on Feb. 6, totaled $304,877,000, Secretary Houston announced tonight. This issue was the final one in the program adopted by the Treasury last Fall to avoid any further popular loans, meanwhile meeting current Government expenditures. Redemption of all Treasury certificates of indebtedness now outstanding will be simultaneous with payment of income and excess profits taxes.

WILL STUDY ACCEPTANCES.

Bankers and Users to Seek More Satisfactory Methods.

The American Bankers' Association and the American Acceptance Council have appointed two joint committees, one to study the general subject of handling trade acceptances in both banks and business houses, and the other to look into unifying exchange, service and collection charges. The task, it is said, has been brought about by the large growth of the acceptance market and the annoyance and inconvenience experienced by users of trade acceptances.

Edwin Baxter, Vice President of the Cleveland Trust Company, will be Chairman of the Committee on Service, Exchange and Collections. The other members are George B. Smith, Chicago; C. F. Herb, New Orleans; W. E. Sprecher, Independence, Wis.; Harry E. Ward, President of the Irving National Bank; W. S. Irish, Vice President of the First National Bank of Brooklyn; David C. Wills, Cleveland; Frank S. Flagg of McElwain, Morse & Rogers, New York; Kenneth R. Hooker, President Putnam-Hooker Company, New York; Howard Marshall of Joseph Wild & Co., New York, and Forrest Ferguson of St. Louis.

The committee on method of handling trade acceptances has for its Chairman Frank K. Houston, Vice President of the First National Bank of St. Louis, and the other members are J. A. Broderick, Vice President of the National Bank of Commerce; Laurence H. Hendricks, Cashier of the National City Bank; Credit Manager of the General Electric Company of New York; F. J. Zurlinden of Cleveland, Raymond B. Cox of Boston, James A. Green of Cincinnati, M. T. Fleisher of Philadelphia, H. K. Dexter of Akron, Ohio, and C. T. Matthew, Secretary of the Clearing House Section of the American Bankers' Association.

CAN COMPANY SURPLUS.

The report of the Continental Can Company for 1919 shows surplus, after allowances for depreciation and taxes, amounting to $2,624,963. This was equivalent, after the deduction of preferred dividends, to $17.08 a share earned on the $13,500,000 outstanding common stock. In 1918 $13.86 was earned on the common stock. In the remarks to stockholders President T. G. Cranwell said:

"The demand for the products of the company continues to grow. Short crops in some sections of the country curtailed the output slightly during the year just ended, but indications point to the preparation for large acreages in 1920 and consequently larger consumption of cans. The condition of the canned foods business is healthy. The nation-wide inspection and advertising campaign now being conducted by the National Canners' Association is expected to increase to a very large degree the use of canned foods, and this in turn means an increase in the demand for our products.

"As is usual, liberal amounts for depreciation have been written off and all of the company's plants have been maintained at a high point of efficiency, thus insuring the minimum of cost and the maximum of production."

The balance sheet of the company at the close of last year showed that depreciation reserves had been increased to $2,256,359, as compared with $1,598,629 in the preceding year, while cash had decreased to $973,793, as compared with $2,320,791 in 1918. Profit and loss surplus at the close of the year was $4,738,377, as compared with $3,448,258 in the preceding year.

Cumberland Pipe Line Earnings.

The annual report of the Cumberland Pipe Line Company for 1919 shows net profits of $723,974, which is equivalent to $48.26 a share earned on the $1,500,000 capital stock. In 1918 $37.90 was earned.

$750,000 PURCHASE ON MAIDEN LANE

Twelve-Story Structure Will Be Remodeled to Meet Demand for Space.

BING & BING THE BUYERS

Property One of the Realty Holdings of the Late Frederick Ayer of Boston.

To avert the constantly increasing demand for space in the insurance district, Bing & Bing, operators, yesterday purchased the twelve-story semi-manufacturing building located at 47 and 49 Maiden Lane, held at $750,000.

The structure which is known as the Meyers Building, was sold by the Interstate Land Holding Company through Cross & Brown.

It occupies a plot 44 by 135 feet on Maiden Lane, between Nassau and William Streets, adjoining Jewelers Court, and is located directly opposite the square block assembled under a single ownership by the Federal Reserve Bank.

It is understood that the building will be converted from its present use as the headquarters of a number of manufacturing jewelers, to that of an office building for the insurance interests, which, at the present time, are suffering from a lack of space available in the William Street district. The Interstate Land Holding Company is a holding company for the estate of the late Frederick Ayer of Boston, who purchased the property about fifteen years ago.

EIGHTH AVENUE LEASE.

Walton Estate Block Front Taken for Business Development.

The block front on the west side of Eighth Avenue between Fifty-first and Fifty-second Streets being 851 to 869 Eighth Avenue, has been leased by a prominent operator from the William T. Walton estate for twenty-one years beginning May 1. The property which has a frontage of 200.10 feet on the avenue by 100 feet on each street was purchased in 1865 when it was used as a market garden. Mr. Walton erected the existing building soon after. The avenue frontage consists of five-story flats with ten stores on the ground floor. The leases on the upper half of the block expire next May and the tenants have been ordered to vacate by that time. On the lower half of the block the leases run until May 1, 1921. The largest tenant is the Nederburg department stores, occupying the stores on the lower half of the block for the Fifty-second Street corner. It is the successor of the old Walton department store established by the owner of the property nearly fifty years ago.

The New York Real Estate Company was the agent in the lease. The present improvement plan involves extensive alterations using the ground and first floors for general business and the three upper stories will be made over into lofts for offices and other commercial purposes.

GUARANTY TRUST CO. BUYS.

The Guaranty Trust Company is the buyer of the property at 152 to 158 Broadway, with an "L" extending through to 69 Liberty Street, which was recently sold by Norman S. Riesenfeld. They have also taken from the Wendel estate under a long lease the adjoining property at 150 Broadway, the northeast corner of Broadway and Liberty Street. The purchase and lease give the trust company possession of a plot facing 106 feet on Broadway and 135 feet on Liberty Street, adjoining the Joseph P. Day Building on the east and the Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company on the north.

Mr. Riesenfeld bought 156 and 158 Broadway, with the wing at 69 Liberty Street, from the Haight estate. This building is occupied by several prominent real estate firms, among whom are L. J. Phillips & Co. and Dyran L. Kennelly. The purchase price is said to be close to $1,500,000. Horace S. Ely & Co. negotiated the transaction.

It is understood that as soon as the present leases expire the Guaranty Trust will erect a twenty-one-story building on the site for their own occupancy.

$2,000,000 TIMES SQ. LEASE.

General Motors Export Co. Takes Eight Floors in Wurtlizer Building.

At an aggregate rental of about $2,000,000, the General Motors Export Company has leased eight floors in the thirteen-story Wurlitzer Building, now in course of construction on Forty-first and Forty-second Streets, between Broadway and Sixth Avenue.

It is understood that the General Motors Company will occupy this space exclusively for its export business. The new lease will not in any way disturb the present offices of the company located at Fifty-seventh Street and Broadway.

The Wurlitzer Building, the erection of which was begun several months ago, has a frontage of 50 feet on Forty-second Street, 85 feet on Forty-first Street, and having a depth of 200 feet.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company will occupy the balance of the building, with the exception of the upper floors, leased recently to the Blackman-Ross Company.

The consummation of this large lease, and the renting of all the available space in the Wurlitzer Building prior to its completion, is additional evidence of the strength of the demand for space in the Forty-second Street, Times Square and Grand Central district, in which area, since Jan. 1, 1920, the Cross & Brown Company has leased office space aggregating 137,500 square feet.

The Cross & Brown Company, which negotiated the transaction, have also leased in conjunction with the Brown-Wheelock Company, approximately 14,000 square feet of space at 522 Fifth Avenue, to Swann & Finch.

Stock Broker Buys Corner.

Albert G. Pritchard, stockbroker, purchased for occupancy, from Elias A. Cohen, operator, the five-story building at 31 Broad Street, northeast corner of South William Street, on a plot fronting 20 feet on Broad Street and 74.4 feet on South William. Julius Kline was the broker. Mr. Cohen also bought through Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd from Julius Lichtenstein 7 and 9 Burling Slip, near Water Street, two five-story buildings, on a plot 40.2 by 56.8, in the tobacco district and carrying possession May 1. He also bought through Pease & Elliman the northwest corner of Water and Fulton Streets, a five-story building, on a lot 31.4 by 20.

Columbus Circle Project.

Dr. John A. Harriss, Deputy Police Commissioner, has leased for a term of twenty-one years, with the privilege of three renewals, on the block covered by the Thoroughfare Building, bounded by Broadway, Eighth Avenue, Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth Streets, from Jacob Wertheim. The lease, which will call for the payment of between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 in rentals during the term, will result eventually in the erection of one of the largest business buildings in the Columbus Circle section. Dr. Harriss has not completed his plans for the improvement, since present leases on the Thoroughfare Building run until March, 1921.

The block fronts 216.2 feet on Broadway, 200.10 feet on Eighth Avenue, 201.2 feet of Fifty-seventh Street and 131.3 feet on Fifty-eighth Street. About fifteen years ago it was sold by the United States Realty and Improvement Company to Walter J. Salmon, who erected the present structure and subsequently sold it to Jacob Wertheim.

Marbridge Building Not Resold.

Samuel Krensky, representing the owners of the Marbridge Building, at Broadway and Thirty-fifth Street, officially denied last night that the building had been either sold or leased. "The Rogers Peet lease," said Mr. Krensky, "extends to May 1, 1923, and no important changes in the leases can take place now. In fact, no definite negotiations for a store lease have been entered into with any one."

The Marbridge Building was sold about two weeks ago to a company represented by Mr. Krensky, who has complete charge of the structure.

Commonwealth Hotel Seeking Loan.

The announcement that a temporary building loan is being negotiated, which will mean that work on the Hotel Commonwealth, at Broadway, Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth Streets and Seventh Avenue, will begin next Summer, was made at the annual meeting of Commonwealth stockholders by William J. Hogeson, President of E. L. Barnett, Inc., fiscal agents for the hotel company, yesterday. The following Directors were re-elected: J. A. Almirall, L. K. Comstock, E. L. Barnett, Dr. Frank Crane and Thomas W. Rourke. Provision was made for increasing the board to nine members during the coming year.

42d Street Restaurant Leases.

Two important leases for restaurant purposes were made in Forty-second Street yesterday. In the block between Broadway and Sixth Avenue the building at 107 West Forty-second Street and the abutting structure at 104 West Forty-third Street were leased by Henry Shapiro & Co., the former being leased for the Caggie Realty Company (Gilhuly Brothers), and the latter for Cecelia P. Wuerz. A one-inch strip about seventy-five feet north of the Forty-second Street building line is owned by Walter J. Salmon, who also controls a light and air casement over the rear twenty-five feet of the Forty-second Street parcel, and to connect the two parcels a permit to build over the rear of the plot had to be obtained. The lease is for twenty-one years.

At 9 East Forty-second Street the six-story building on a plot 22 by 100 was leased through Manning & Trunk for the Codington Company to the Ideal Restaurant and Holding Company for thirty-three years. The rental will be the highest yet paid on the block for a twenty-two-foot plot, exceeding that paid by the Loft concern on 11 East Forty-second Street, which is $25,000 net.

Altering the Old Haymarket.

The ancient Haymarket Building on the southeast corner of Sixth Avenue and Thirtieth Street is undergoing another radical change. The moving picture theatre which has been there for some time is being torn out and the entire structure will be extensively altered for business uses. The property, which occupies a plot of 68.2 feet at 492 to 498 Sixth Avenue and 94 feet on Thirtieth Street, is owned by the Havens Relief Fund Society, which leased it a short time ago to the Broadway and Thirtieth Street Corporation. Stores will be installed on the ground floor.

Up to half a dozen years ago or so the Haymarket was a famous dance hall, and it figured prominently for a long period in the police court annals of the city.

Rocky Mountain Club Plans.

Tenants in the three old houses at 114 to 118 West Forty-fourth Street have been ordered to vacate preparatory to tearing down the structures. The property has been owned since 1911 by the Rocky Mountain Club, which had plans prepared for a large clubhouse, but owing to the war the work was deferred. A fund of $500,000 raised for the building was turned over to the Belgian War Relief in January, 1917. For several years the club has occupied quarters at 30 West Forty-fourth Street. The property at 114 to 118 West Forty-fourth Street is just west of the Sixth Avenue corner and opposite the Stuyvesant Theatre. It has a frontage of 56.3 feet. It was stated yesterday that the club expected to occupy its property in the near future, but in the absence of the officials no definite announcement could be made.

Samuel Kaplan sold for Daniel H. Jackson to the 400 Manhattan Avenue Corporation the ten-story loft on a plot 40 by 92 feet, at 133 and 135 West Nineteenth Street, renting for $33,000 and held at $225,000.

Adriance Travis to a buyer, who will make extensive improvements, the four-story restaurant building, 23 by 75 feet, at 642 Sixth Avenue, and the abutting property at 61 West Thirty-seventh Street, a five-story studio apartment, on a plot 23 by 71 feet. The same broker bought from Isabel de Camprubi, through the Brown Wheelock Company, the five-story building, on a lot 18.6 by 100 feet, at 637 Sixth Avenue.

Buyers for Dwellings.

The Equitable Life Insurance Company sold to James Davidson 2,366 and 2,368 Seventh Avenue, two private houses. The premises will be occupied as a private sanitarium. Irving H. Wolfe of Wolfe & Co. was the broker in the transaction.

The building yields an annual rental of about $80,000. He also bought from Abraham Harawitz the "Valdoata" apartments, the block front on the north side of 163d Street, from Intervale Avenue to Kelly Street, 200 by 125. The building contains 120 suites and eighteen stores. It has an annual rent roll of $110,000 and was held at $750,000. Jacob I. Berman represented the purchaser. SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY FOR EARNEST HOMESEEKER.

My family, which was a large one, has reduced itself to my wife, myself and the servants. I have bought a smaller property in my immediate vicinity which meets my present requirements and desire to sell my large home. To do so quickly, I am offering it at a fraction of its real value to some one of culture and refinement who would be acceptable to my neighbors and myself. The grounds, which include an excellent tennis court, were beautifully landscaped by a prominent architect several years ago and elaborately planted with flowers and shrubs. Fine trees abound. The house is a gem, in absolutely perfect condition from cellar to attic. The purchaser could move in on 24 hours' notice and avoid the many annoyances and expense incident to occupying a new house. The first floor consists of a huge veranda facing east, a paneled living room 35 ft. long with immense inglenook fireplace, a spacious dining room, a tiled breakfast room, two butler's pantries and kitchen. Six master's bedrooms, one with open fireplace, and two very large tiled bathrooms comprise the second floor. The third floor has a pool and billiard room, extensive servants' quarters and servants' bath. The location is ideal, within five minutes' walk of the express station, with fine commuting service to New York City. The neighborhood is exclusively residential and occupied by an unusually fine class of people. Elevation over 900 feet. All city conveniences for comfortable living in the country prevail. I will sell for $20,500 complete, $10,000 of which can remain on first mortgage, and easy terms can be arranged for the balance. Complete details, including plans and several pictures, can be obtained from the writer by addressing Suburban Home Owner, P. O. Box 529, City Hall Station, New York City.

SUBURBAN BUILDER will sell at a sacrifice a small Colonial home, with garage, of unusual charm, designed to be finished in the quaint style of bygone days. The decorations are still to be put in. I will install them, according to the desires of a purchaser, provide and install electric fixtures, landscape the grounds, and turn over the property ready for instant occupancy. The house has eight large light rooms and a fine big completely appointed tiled bathroom. The plot is 100x180 ft., with several oak trees one foot thick as shade. Only 10 minutes' walk to the station in a beautiful, settled residential section, 900 feet elevation. Water rights afford fine boating, sailing, fishing and skating. Splendid commuting service to New York City; $3,500 cash takes it. Balance 2 years; 2nd mortgage $2,500; permanent first mortgage $5,000. For complete details apply BUILDER, Post Office Box 378, City Hall Station, New York City.

PREDICTS EARLY END OF EPIDEMIC HERE

INFLUENZA STILL MYSTERY

Germ Not Isolated, Says Health Chief—Expects Recurrence in Mild Form Next Year.

A further decline in the number of influenza cases and deaths reported yesterday moved Health Commissioner Dr. Royal S. Copeland to say that "unless the very unexpected happens the decline in influenza will continue, and soon this epidemic will have passed into history." The number of new cases reported yesterday were 1,494, as compared with 1,875 cases on Sunday. Monday's reports always are delayed, and for that reason the health authorities expect there will be a slight increase in today's report. There were 496 cases of pneumonia reported yesterday, against 513 on Sunday. Pneumonia deaths totaled 135, which was 52 less than the preceding report. The deaths from influenza were 91, against 131 in the preceding report.

The new cases and deaths from influenza and pneumonia in the boroughs were:

	CASES.		DEATHS.
	Inf.	Pneu.	Inf.	Pneu.
Manhattan	753	251	32	75
Bronx	267	59	15	16
Brooklyn	270	149	35	32
Queens	196	36	7	11
Richmond	6	1	2	1
Total yesterday	1,494	496	91	135
Total Sunday	1,875	513	131	187

Expects Recurrence Next Year.

This report of new cases is the lowest since Jan. 23 in cases of influenza, and the lowest record of pneumonia deaths since Feb. 2 and influenza deaths since Jan. 28.

"The outlook is most hopeful in this city, and reports from other places would indicate that the epidemic is generally on the wane," said Dr. Copeland. "I look for a recurrence of influenza next Winter, but it will be much milder than this time. The great fact remains that with all the experience gained influenza is still a mystery. The germ never has been isolated. In this department we are conducting research work in our laboratories, but it is impossible to forecast what the results of that work will be.

"This epidemic also knocked out some of the preconceived ideas on the subject. For instance, I had maintained that those who were attacked in the 1918 epidemic would be practically immune this time. Other physicians held the same theory. We now know that those who were victims of the disease in 1918 were not immune this time. Again I hold that the use of serums as a preventative measure is practically worthless."

Doctor Fined for Spitting.

During the forty-eight hours that ended yesterday morning 381 spitters and 191 smokers had been summoned to court, charged with violating the Sanitary Code in the subways.

Among those fined when arraigned in the Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, Court was Dr. Simon Chess of 544 Court Street, Brooklyn, who was charged with spitting in the subway. Dr. Chess said he had been working on influenza cases and that he had spit on the roadbed five feet below the platform. Eighty-four men each paid $1 in the Jefferson Market Court for spitting or smoking in the subway.

The first class of 65 women who took a week's intensive training in nursing was graduated yesterday. Dr. Copeland made it plain they are not graduate nurses, but merely assistants. The present and last class has 35 members.

ASSAILS VICTORY HALL PLAN

LaGuardia Opposes Proposed Site in Pershing Square.

President La Guardia of the Board of Aldermen will oppose any attempt to establish on the site of the Grand Union Hotel in Pershing Square, a Victory Hall as a memorial to the slain members of the American Expeditionary Force.

"I have no doubt as to the sincerity of purpose of some of the founders of Victory Hall," said President La Guardia yesterday, "but when an application is made to public officials and when those interested in the plan say, 'We will have a hall in this place or we won't have it at all,' then there must be some ulterior motive.

"The property sought is the most valuable piece of ground the city owns. The city ought to sell it and so reduce the sinking fund margin by millions of dollars and let the property pay taxes. General George W. Wingate, sponsor for the plan, has stated that this is to be a very democratic institution and everybody is to be consulted, and yet he also said the corporation was formed so as to constitute classes of membership according to the amount paid. What is the object? In his argument he said, 'We, who are paying for this.' Well, if there is any talk of who paid, we, the boys who fought, don't want it."

LARCENY CHARGED IN BANK OVERDRAFT

LOSSES ARE PUT AT $27,500

Court Holds Bank's Client in $15,000 Bail and the Employe Under $2,500.

An alleged overdraft on the National Butchers' and Drovers' Bank at 683 Broadway was the basis of charges of grand larceny made yesterday against an assistant paying teller of the bank, Herbert R. Minte of 41 North Twentieth Street, Elmhurst, L. I., and Alfred Burrows of 2,274 Grand Concourse, Bronx, who was a former customer of the bank.

The two men were arrested at 2 Rector Street by Detective Bernard Flood and arraigned before Judge Wadhams in General Sessions, who held Burrows in $15,000 bail and Minte in $2,500. Both prisoners pleaded not guilty.

The specific charge was that Minte had permitted Burrows to overdraw his account $457.70 in August and $200 more in September. According to the police and the District Attorney, the total amount of the overdraft alleged by the bank is $27,500.

Chief Assistant District Attorney A. J. Talley said Minte had made a statement at the Criminal Courts Building before he was arraigned, in which he said he had first been induced by Burrows to take care of his overdraft of $400, which he did by "borrowing" $400 from the cashier's window; that subsequently he had covered different amounts until the aggregate reached $27,500, of which $8,000 to $9,000 had gone to Burrows and the remainder to Minte. Mr. Talley said Minte had told him that he was induced to advance this money on a promise by Burrows that "a gasoline invention" he was interested in would bring profits for repayment, and that Minte should share in the returns from the invention.

Mr. Talley said Burrows admitted receiving the amount of money mentioned by Minte, but said that Minte did not tell him the cash had been stolen.

IN-B-TWEEN

"Pay seven cents for your Quarter Cigars!"

"LISTEN, New Yorkers! I'm going to save you some money! If you're paying twenty-five and thirty cents for your cigars simply because you think real quality doesn't come any cheaper, it's time you tried In-B-Tweens.

"In-B-Tweens cost less because they're smaller—that's the only difference. In-B-Tweens are actually "The Four Best Inches of a 25c Cigar."

"No matter how hurried you are, you've always time to finish an In-B-Tween. I'm long enough to give you a satisfying smoke, and short enough to prevent waste. This is because I'm rolled from the sweet, tender baby leaves of prime Havana Tobacco."

SCARFS

Three for $7.25

We would like to emphasize the economy of these pure silk knitted scarfs at our price, before giving them a few words of well merited praise.

But they are the sort of neckwear you admire first, price next, and then buy regardless of cost.

$3.50—yes, even $4—would be a very fair price for them at the average specialty shop—and we doubt if you would find the same ample and beautiful variety as here. Certainly, not the savings.

Our furnishings windows hold special displays of these luxurious crocheted silk scarfs for you to admire, if you don't mind being tempted.

MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY

KING SOLOMON, writing long before the days of trust companies, said, "Wisdom is good with an inheritance." Or, as we might paraphrase it today, "An inheritance which is not ably administered is likely to slip through the fingers of inexperienced heirs."

Solomon said, further, "An inheritance may be gotten hastily at the beginning; but the end thereof shall not be blessed."

King Solomon realized, as wise men realize today, that people who inherit property are likely to lose it, unless experience in business matters has given them "inheritance wisdom."

Perhaps you feel that your family is an exception to this ancient rule—that they will handle wisely the money you leave them.

If you have any misgivings on this vital matter, there is a way to insure inheritance wisdom for your family. You can do this by appointing the Mercantile Trust Company executors and trustees under your will.

By this business arrangement, which is very simply made, your property is insured able management in the interest of your family, by men who make a specialty of trust investments.

Our permanent TRUST COMMITTEE, selected by the Mercantile Board of Directors from its own personnel, constantly directs all investments for trust clients. We shall be glad to explain any detail.
